DAILY MOR...
WEDNESDAY MORNING...

THE WIFE'S APPEAL.

"Oh! husband, husband, so cold
Again this stormy night!
For snowy clouds have o'ercast the earth
Within a robe of white.
Hark to the whistling winds that scream,
Like fiends amid their rise,
And now, subdued, they seem to moan
A dirge-like melody.

"Oh! husband, husband, do not leave
Our fire so bright and warm,
To brave the darkness of the night,
And danger of the storm.
The fire it burneth pleasantly
Upon our tidy hearth —
We may be happy here to-night,
And join in songs of mirth.

"Think of the many happy hours
We have together spent,
When to my grief, your gentle voice,
A chiding of mine heart.
Think of the holy book we read,
Ere we in prayer did bow,
And have it here—the same—and look
Come, read it to me now.

"I look in the cradle, husband look!
There sleeps our baby love;
He wakes—he wakes—to look on thee,
And curls his lip in joy.
Oh, husband, go not out to night!
Thy wife, the child entreat;
Our eve shall be a pleasant one,
And our enjoyment sweet."

He heeds not the fond appeal,
But thrust his wife aside—
That gentle being, who had been
But one short year a bride.
He braved the snow—he faced the storm,
And journeyed o'er the plain;
But never to his wife and child
The drunkard came again.

HISTORICAL REMINISCENCE.—The case of Chouteau against Maloney was closed in the Supreme Court at Washington last week. Some singular historical reminiscences have been brought up by this case, viz: the history of Lord Selkirk's settlement of the Red River of the North; the intrigues of the last of the French Governors of Louisiana to create a revolution in the West against the United States; and the fact, also, that Cuba was a part of Louisiana, whose dominion was ceded by Spain to France, and that, therefore, we bought Cuba, without knowing it, when we purchased Louisiana.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A FORTUNE.—An English widow lady, residing at Plainfield, N. Y., and who has been in indigent circumstances, last week received intelligence from England that a deceased relative has left her property and valuables worth $1,000,000.

Is your Life Insured,
IF NOT, read what some one has written:—Among all the contrivances of man to protect the family circle from want, none can be found more simple in its character, noble in its ends, or certain in its results, than LIFE INSURANCE. It is the prop which the dying husband leaves to support the wife of his bosom.
It is the stream from the Provident father reaching forth from the grave, and still nourishing his offspring, and keeping together the family group.
