Nancy Wynne Talks of the Denckla-Dolan Engagement Announced Today—She Speaks Also of Miss Fox's Engagement to Mr. Cheston

WELL, I have an interesting engagement to announce today. It's Sara Dolan and Paul Denckla. Sara is the daughter of the Thomas J. Dolans, of Devon, and made her debut season before last. Her mother was Miss Isabel Hoffman and the family lived formerly in Torresdale.

Paul Denckla is the son of the late Hermann Denckla and Mrs. Denckla, of Chestnut Hill. He is a brother of Mary Denckla, who married one of the Packards, and of Pauline, whose marriage more than a year ago to Le Grand Cannon, of New York, was a social event of that time. Another sister is Patty Denckla, who has yet to make her debut. Mrs. Denckla was Miss Edith Tyson, the third of the five Tyson women who are so justly celebrated for their beauty. Mrs. Percy Drayton is a sister of Mrs. Denckla and Mrs. Brentwood Smith, too. The others are Miss Mary Tyson and Miss Esther Tyson. No date has been set for the wedding, I understand, but no doubt it will be soon.

THE Junior Music Club is having its spring meeting this afternoon out at Mrs. Algernon Roberts'. They had first planned to have the meeting on the thirtieth of last month at the Musical Arts Club and then changed the plans to the Roberts home in Bala. The two Norrises, Louise and Dorothy, Helen Chance, Alice Benedict, Anne Ashton, Polly Thayer and a number of others belong to the club and their concerts are really delightful.

ISN'T it exciting that Emily Fox should announce her engagement on the eve of her great friend, Frances Clark's wedding? You see Emily is to be a bridesmaid at the Stoddard-Clark wedding and she and another bridesmaid, Adelaide Neall, motored up to Pomfret together yesterday for the wedding, which is to take place today.

Frances Clark, who is the daughter of the E. Walter Clarks, of Chestnut Hill, has always been extremely fond of the chapel which her parents built at Pomfret in memory of their son who died at school up there, and has always said that she wanted to be married quietly up there in Connecticut. So the families and bridal party left yesterday for Pomfret and the wedding will take place at 1 o'clock.

To go back to Emily Fox, she is engaged to Edward Cheston, a brother of Jim Cheston, who was married in March to Mlle. Sidonie Reiss. Both the Cheston men have lived in Chestnut Hill for a number of years. Their father was the late Dr. C. Morris Cheston, of West River, and their mother lives in that delightful spot in Maryland where so many of the Cheston and Murray families have settled. Miss Fox's sister, Eliza Fox, married Ben Tilghman, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cheston have an apartment at Twelfth and Spruce streets.

THE other day Mr. J— came to see Aunt Mary, and little nephew Willie happened in. During the evening some one wanted stamps for a letter and so Mr. J— offered to go get them. After he left Aunt Mary said to Willie, who hinted for candy, "Well perhaps Mr. J— will bring me some" and then forgot her remark. Not so Willie, who embarassed her and the whole family when Mr. J— returned empty handed by saying: "Aunt Mary said you'd bring some candy."

NANCY WYNNE.
