Nancy Wynne Talks of the Baird-Carrington Wedding in Baltimore Tomorrow—She Sees Attractive Sub-Debs at Supper-Dance

QUITE a number of Philadelphians will go down to Baltimore tomorrow for the wedding of Bunny Carrington and Charlie Baird. The marriage is to take place in Christ Episcopal Church at half after 6 o'clock, and there is not going to be any reception afterward, but Mr. and Mrs. Carrington will entertain the bridal party and the immediate families at a small dance at the Baltimore Country Club in the evening.

Did you know that they are to live in Wheeling, W. V., after their wedding trip? I understand Charlie has business interests there, and so they will settle there to live. Bunny is rather small, with very blue eyes and light golden hair. She has the kind of eyes that are much enhanced by a blue frock or sweater. Last summer I remember seeing her one day wearing a light blue sweater and small feathery blue hat, with a white skirt and shoes, and she certainly was one fine-looking girl.

She has two sisters who are attractive, too; in fact, they are a most delightful family. Incidentally, Bunny's name is Ethel, but every one who knows her well calls her Bunny. Uytendale Baird Caner and her husband will, of course, go down from here and Elizabeth Jeanes and the Syd Thayer, Jrs., and the Jared Ingersolls.

I SAW such a charming party of sub-debs the other evening in the grill of the Bellevue-Stratford, after the theatre. Mrs. James Halsey gave a party for her cousin, Katherine Maury, Mat Maury's daughter, and had Sarah Large and Virginia Allen there and several of the younger boys, including Mifflin Large. Sarah Large is Mrs. Bob Large's second daughter, and is very attractive. Mrs. Large, by the way, has taken a house at 122 South Twenty-second street, the old Biddle house there at the corner, for the winter, and Marjory, who is a debutante this year, is having a good time going to all the parties. There are many affairs to be given for her during the season.

TO GO back to the sub-debs, Katherine Maury is a sweet little girl. She is, of course, still in school and will not come out for a couple of years at any rate, but it's easy to see she's going to have a fine time when she does make her debut. Virginia Allen is a daughter of the Perry Allens and a sister of Agnes Allen.

TALKING of Mrs. Large taking a house, it seems to me that a great many people are coming into town this winter for five or six months anyway, and the town houses are being opened day after day. The season is a little later than usual because opera does not start till the last of November, and somehow the season always opens officially with opera. Did you know the Morgan Churchmans have taken an apartment in town at the Gladstone for several months? I understand the Chris Hagens have moved in for the winter too.

Mrs. Arthur Whitney Howe has opened his house at 2032 De Lancey street, and the William Harts have taken Mr. Charles Van Pelt's house at 2035 De Lancey for the winter. Eleanor Hart is a debutante this year and so they have come into town. It's all very well even if you have several cars, for it takes time and much energy to go from the country into town and back again, and it's wiser to be in town when the big balls start.

The first ball of the season will be given next week, you know, the one the Wurts and Starrs are giving for Logan Starr at the Bellevue-Stratford.

BY THE way, I must not forget to tell you I have it on the proper authority that the Franklin McFaddens will not entertain at luncheon as usual after the races on Thanksgiving Day this year. Mr. McFadden has been too ill, and while he is better and improving each day, Mrs. McFadden has decided not to entertain until he is perfectly well again.

LITTLE brother and sister were busily trying to catch big brother in questions of history the other day, and Auntie passing by the door heard the following query and reply: "Well, now you know so much," said small brother, "suppose you tell us who built the Tower of London." "Who built the Tower of London?" replied big brother disdainfully: "why, you poor fish, a gang of Englishmen."
