Wit and Humor.

MARRYING INCIDENTS.—A clergyman in Glasgow used to relate the following:—In marrying a couple, he asked the bride, in the usual form, whether she would be "a loving, a faithful, and obedient wife." The bride promptly replied that she would promise to be loving and faithful, but would not venture on a pledge of uniform obedience. The minister paused and demurred. "Just say aws, sir," ejaculated the bridegroom; "she has promised to be lovin' and faithfu', an' fa' thae fingers," raising his fist, "gin she's no obedient!" A similar narrative, in which the bride proved the prevailing party, was told by the late Dr. Macleod, of the Gorbals, Glasgow. The reverend doctor, in marrying a couple, failed to obtain any indication from the bridegroom as to whether he would accept the bride as his helpmate. After a considerable pause, the bride, indignant at the stolidity of her intended husband, pushed down his head with her hand, at the same addressing him aloud, "Canna ye boo, (bow,) ye brute!" A Paisley bride, who was being united to a stolid husband, was, according to the testimony of the Rev. Mr. M——, who performed the ceremony, more considerate in her expressions. The bridegroom having given no response to the question, though often repeated by the minister, "Do you take this woman to be your married wife?" the bride broke in, "Deed does he, sir; he promises a' that ye require!"

UNINTENTIONAL JOKES.—One day, at the table of the late Dr. Pearce, just as the cloth was being removed, the subject of discourse happened to be that of an extraordinary mortality among the lawyers. "We have lost," said one gentleman, "not less than six eminent barristers in as many months." At this moment the doctor (who was quite deaf) rose and gave the company grace, "For this and every other mercy, the Lord's name be praised."—The ludicrous combination was not intended by the doctor, and the more ludicrous on that account, because the objects to be connected were all the farther removed. We have many such freaks of nature. We see her occasionally blowing off the hat of some solemn man, as he turns a corner, and sending him a zigzag chase along the road after it; or we see her make a modest man give an involuntary sneeze during an impressive pause in a choral song; or making a donkey bray outside the window just as some country minister has opened his mouth to speak.

A SHREWD EDITOR.—There are persons who seem to think that editors regard it as one of the greatest intellectual luxuries to "pitch into" somebody, and they suppose themselves to have conferred a great favor by furnishing belligerent contributions, in which some person, corporation, or society, is soundly abused. Such people may take a hint from the following: A noted chap once stepped into the sanctum of a venerable and highly respectable editor, and indulged in a tirade against a citizen with whom he was on bad terms. "I wish," said he, addressing the man with the pen, "that you would write a very severe article against R——, and put it in your paper." "Very well," was the reply. The next morning he came rushing into the office in a violent state of excitement. "What did you put in your paper, I have had my nose pulled, and been kicked twice." "I wrote a severe article as you desired," calmly replied the editor, "and signed your name to it."

A DOCTOR was employed by a poor man to attend his wife, who was dangerously ill. The doctor gave a hint that he had fears of not being paid.

"I have thirty dollars," said the man, "and if you kill or cure you shall have them."

The woman died on the doctor's hands, and after a reasonable time he called for his thirty dollars.

The man asked the doctor if he had killed his wife?

"No."

"Did you cure her?"

"No."

"Then," said the man, "you have no legal demand."

A MAN not a thousand miles from Syracuse, having made an assignment, some weeks since was called upon by a New York creditor to whom he exhibited his books and whom he purposed to settle with for 50 cents on the dollar.

The New York man replied, "How can you pay 50 cents on a dollar? Your assets will not pay 50 cents on a dollar!"

"Well, never mind that," said the man, "I owed among others, $100 to my mother. I will please send me two boxes of your Cephalic Pills and them immediately.

"WHAT are wages here?" asked a laborer of a boy.

"I don't know, sir."

"What does your father get on Saturday night?"

"Get?" said the boy, "why he gets as tight as a brick."

An apprentice boy who had been misbehaving, one day came in for chastisement, during which his master exclaimed, "How long will you serve the devil?" The boy replied, "You know best, sir; I believe my indentures will be out in three months."

"NO ONE would take you to be what you are," said an old fashioned gentleman the other day to a dandy who had more hair than brains.

"Why?" was immediately asked.

"Because they can't see your ears."

A WARNING.—The following notice appeared on the west end of a country meeting house:—"Anybody sticking bills against the church, will be prosecuted according to law or any other nuisance."

MANY anatomists say changes entirely every seven years. "Therefore," says the witty Jones, "my tailor should not remind me of the bill I contracted in 1853. I aren't the man who contracted it."

DEAN SWIFT, hearing of a carpenter falling through the scaffolding of a house which he was engaged in repairing, dryly remarked that he had got through his work promptly.

A SCHOOLMASTER asked a fair pupil in the grammar class, "Can you decline a kiss?"

"Yes, sir, I can, but I hate to, plagully," she replied, dropping a perplexed courtesy.

POLITICAL REVIVAL.—More sinners are now seeking Abraham's (Lincoln) bosom than have before been on the anxious seat for many years.

An editor down South apologizes for delay in the issue of his paper, as he had an extra "male" to attend to during the week.

"MY lad," said a lady to a boy carrying a mail bag, "are you a mail boy?" "Yer doesn't think I'm a female boy, dose yer."

MARRIED.—Mr. John Strange to Miss Mary Strange. Strange, indeed! The next thing may be a little stranger.

A negro was once asked if his master was a Christian. "No, sir, he's a member of Congress," was the reply.

Few young girls are so inconsolable that their heart cannot be kept whole by a boy.

WANTED to know—Whether the volume of sound has yet been found.

WHY is a lover like a dog?—Because he bows and vows.

Patent Consolidated Rubber Belting.

THIS Belting is composed of several plies of strong duck, coated with a new and improved India rubber compound. All its parts are stitched together with strong waxed twine, which effectually prevents the separation of the plies, which often happens with all other Rubber Belting.

It is in many important particulars superior to any other Belting yet known.

It is admirably adapted to large Main, Railway and Elevator Belts, because it will drive more than any other, owing to its superior strength, and adhesion to the pulley. Belts made to any size and thickness.

We are fully convinced that these Belts will do as much work as leather, at about half the cost. Being waterproof, they run well in wet places, where leather will not stand at all.

Not being exposed to the deteriorating influence of great heat and corroding chemicals, necessary to the process of vulcanization, the original strength of the duck remains unimpaired, which gives it a great advantage over all other Rubber Belting of probably from 25 to 50 per cent.

This Belting can be had of any width or thickness required, of the subscriber. B. BANNAN, Agent
