Bursk, 3475 Sansom street; George Stanley, 2127 South Twenty-third street; Raymond Altemus, Cheltenham, Pa.; Joseph Keiser, 3958 Poplar street; Ted Davis, 3530 North Twenty-third street; A. W. Greason, southeast corner of Thirty-fourth and Robestiner streets.

The jury was chosen from the employes of Frank Toomey, Inc., at 127 North Third street. We jest naturally thought we never would get out of there, so perfectly fascinating was the shop.

Machinery, machinery, and still more machinery. All nice an' shiny, wheels that went 'round, bars that slid in and out of well oiled grooves. Made us wanna get in overalls and sit down before them all and try to decide how they worked.

Mr. Condon finally succeeded in tearing us away from it, and we got the jury set. Quite a bit of fun was had deciding which line was the best, and it almost ended in a tie vote, but one extra was handed in and the winning line was chosen.

Those who served on the jury were: Jane Mahon, 2425 North Fourth street; Catherine Dean, 43 East Clapier street; Anna Weldon, 1439 Wyoming avenue; A. Spahn, 6717 North Fifteenth street; Frank Battista, 1909 East Ontario street; Paul Parsons, 616 Marlyn road; Joseph Kelly, 109 Fitzgerald street; H. W. Platt, 628 North Sixty-fourth street; Roy Doherty, Magnolia, N. J.; P. Scally, 1700 South Second street, and William Perffer, 1616 Oregon avenue.

Be Sure to Get YOURS---Tomorrow!

The eight-page Invisible Color Book for young folks, and big ones, too, made a great hit last Sunday. And little wonder because it is one of the greatest features for the children of the family ever published by a Philadelphia Sunday newspaper.

The Invisible Color Book is truly a wonder book, for in addition to the pages with magic ink pictures there are some Jim-dandy cut-out pages.

Every page is a surprise—something new, amusing, instructive—all to delight the hearts of little folks.

Funny thing about these Invisible Ink Pictures! They don't like ice water. Lukewarm is best—or just as it comes from the spigot.

Thousands of kiddies had heaps of fun with this entertaining book last Sunday. The demand for the Sunday Public Ledger tomorrow will be greater than ever.

Remember in addition to the beautiful Rotogravure Section, the splendid Magazine Section and the All-Star Comic Section you get this eight-page Invisible Color Book FREE with each Sunday's Public Ledger. Be sure to get YOURS—tomorrow!
