JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Talks of the Borie Dance Last Evening. She Speaks of Various Persons Going to Europe. Many Smart Women Wear Longer Frocks Now

THOUGH the season is really over, there's a bit of quiet entertaining going on in the suburbs. There was a delightful party last evening out at the Charlie Baries' in Rydal. Among the guests were Louie Borie and his wife, who was Mary Alice Clay; Sewell Borie and his wife, who was "Mats" McAllister, and Pete Borie and his fiancee, Lysbeth Boyd. There were about 135 there and it was great fun.

Time flies so! It seems but the other day that Louie and Mary Alice Clay were married, but, as a matter of fact, it's about seven years now, and Sewell and Martha have been married two years. Lysbeth and Pete have not set the date for their wedding, but it's not likely it will be long before they are married. The Boyds are spending the summer at Cape May, but Lysbeth came up for the party.

I HEAR the Russell Duanes sailed a few days ago for Europe. You know Sarah Duane, their daughter, is to come out next year. Mrs. Duane is a good-looking woman and most entertaining. She is a sister of Mr. Roland Morris, former Ambassador to Japan, and of Mrs. Benjamin Coates, who was Miss Anna Morris. The Morrises spent the winter and spring at the Wellington and are soon going to Northeast Harbor.

The Duanes expect to stay on the other side for two months, at least. You know Morris Duane, Sarah's brother, is in England, having sailed on the "Fourth" with the Harvard tennis team. He is captain of the team, and they are in England to compete with the teams of Cambridge and Oxford. The Duanes spent the winter at Green Hill Farms, Overbrook.

SPEAKING of Northeast Harbor reminds me that Alberta Reath left for that resort this week to join her mother, Mrs. Ben Reath, and Pancoast. I suppose Pancoast will be going to college soon. I saw him with his mother at the Bellevue shortly before they went North and was amazed to see how much he has grown. He's a fine-looking lad, about sixteen, I should say, and he is head of his class at St. Paul's.

Alberta's marriage to Harry Neilson will take place in October, after their return to town. Alberta will make a lovely bride, she has such a sweet expression and charming manner. Personally I consider Harry Neilson one of the luckiest of men in having won her.

EXTRAORDINARY though it may seem, the long frock is here and here to stay. The very smartest women are wearing the longer skirts, and now that I am used to it, really it's far more graceful and becoming than the short frock.

I saw Mrs. George McFadden a couple of day ago in a stunning frock of dark blue crepe de chine, which was devoid of trimming, but was exquisitely draped and had longer panels at the hips. Her hat was a wide poke shape of blue crepe trimmed with dark blue flowers. Mrs. Henry Pepper Vaux was in town recently wearing a very stunning frock of henna and dark blue and it, too, was long and very graceful.

Mrs. Paul Mills has a frock of rose-colored linen, which is long and most becoming. When I say long, I do not mean the old full length, but these frocks are about five or six inches from the ground and some are almost ankle length.

The sports skirts are not long yet and I doubt if they will go to extremes. They are very smart as to material and cut, however. The latest is to have a skirt of a dull plaid and a cape of plain material with a scarf and lining of the plaid. Either a plain or plaid hat of the material is worn with the suit and it's the most fetching thing on a golf course.

I HEAR they have started afternoon dances at the Casino in Newport and the younger set is crazy about them. On Wednesday afternoon quite a number gathered there, among them Laura Biddle, in whom we are all interested, because she is essentially Philadelphia, even if her parents, the Craig Biddles, do not live here any more.

I told you I met Mrs. Biddle at Broad Street Station on Thursday. She told me that Laura is due to come out in a couple of years, and while they will do a lot of partying for her in New York and Newport, they will introduce her here, too. Mrs. Biddle's mother, Mrs. Hartmann Kuhn, will doubtless entertain for her and the Biddles will, too. You know Craig Biddle is a brother of Tony and Liv Biddle, and a half brother of Nick Biddle, who married Sarah Lippincott.

WASN'T it interesting to hear that Mr. and Mrs. R. Winder Johnson, of Bells Mill road, Chestnut Hill, have a daughter? She was born on Wednesday so the Johnsons now have two in their family as they already have a small son. Mrs. Johnson was Sara Avery, a Southern girl, and, if I'm not mistaken, she is the niece of Mrs. Joseph Sill Clark, of Kates Hall, Chestnut Hill. Winder is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. Winder Johnson, who lived on Gravers lane, Chestnut Hill, in the house which Mr. and Mrs. Pope Yeatman now have. Mrs. Johnson was Miss Eugenia Morris and was a sister of Mrs. James M. Cheston and of Mrs. Radcliffe Cheston.

Winder's sister Rosalie married Tom Crocker, of Fitchburg, Mass., you remember. She is most attractive and came out here three years ago, though not very thoroughly, as she was engaged at the time and was married in January of her debutante year. She and Tom live in Fitchburg, where all the many Crockers live, and they have a baby, too, a small son, whose name is Peter Johnson Crocker, I hear.

I SAW Gladys Williams in town shopping the other day. It was one of those awfully hot days we've been having, and she looked cool and pretty in a nile green linen dress, and a nile green and white hat. It was most becoming and looked well with her golden hair and blue eyes.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Williams, of 2306 Spruce, and a first cousin of Mrs. Holstein Fox, who was Elise Klapp. The two girls are great friends and are often around together. They look quite alike as Elise is fair too.

MISS EDITH came to call on mother a few days ago, and Marie Louise undertook to entertain her until Mother came downstairs. She stood squarely in front of her and said: "And how's your little boy?" "I haven't any little boy, dear," returned the young lady. Whereupon Marie Louise lifted her eyebrows and remarked: "You haven't? Well, how is your little girl?" "I have no little girl, either dear; you see, I am not married," replied Miss Edith. "Oh," said Marie Louise, much disgusted, "I see, you are one of those poodle dog ladies. Well, I don't find dogs interestin'."
