RADIO FANS WILL GET CODE LESSONS

Gimbel Brothers-Public Ledger Broadcasting Station to Teach Dot-and-Dash Stuff

WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

Radio fans in this section of the country are going to have a chance to learn the fascinating dot-and-dash wireless code which they hear so frequently and which they always wish that they could read.

Beginning tomorrow night and every Tuesday and Friday night thereafter, WIP, the Gimbel Brothers-PUBLIC LEDGER broadcasting station, will give a series of lessons via radio, starting them in the kindergarten and gradually progressing until the students are able to carry on their practice themselves by tuning in spark stations and getting their messages.

John R. George, who has charge of the technical end of WIP, will be the teacher in this course. He has installed a key and buzzer in the operating room and will give each evening, for a period of ten or fifteen minutes, a talk on the various letters and send out these letters over and over again by means of this buzzer so that hearers can learn to recognize the letters in a very short time.

These lessons will start shortly after the Uncle Wip bedtime stories and will take up the alphabet one letter at a time until the students are enabled to receive words and will then go on to sentences and regular practice periods.

This arrangement has been made in response to a very general demand from radio enthusiasts, and it is expected that they will prove one of the most popular features of the programs.

That the new combination of Gimbel Brothers and the PUBLIC LEDGER in radio broadcasting is filling a want that has long been felt is indicated by the letters and telegrams which have been received at the station. The concert given Tuesday night by the Hahnemann Medical College Symphony Orchestra seems to have been especially pleasing, and one of its results has been to prove to the college faculty itself what a really good organization they have among their students. This is shown by a telegram received yesterday, which said:

"Gimbel Brothers - PUBLIC LEDGER Broadcasting Station, Ninth and Market Streets,
Philadelphia:

"Permit me to extend to you my sincere and hearty thanks for and in appreciation of the wonderful program which you broadcasted tonight on behalf of the Hahnemann Medical College Symphony Orchestra. Having listened in I would assure you that I have never heard a clearer rendition of any musical or vocal numbers.

"It was particularly noticable that the various instruments in the orchestra were quite discernible in contrast with other broadcasts received. The solo numbers by Mr. W. Edgar Sherman, Robert A. Leman and Bruce H. Sisler were particularly well rendered and received on behalf of the faculty of the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia. Please permit me to extend to you our sincere and hearty thanks for the courtesies which you have extended.

(Signed) "RALPH BERNSTEIN."

STARVING BOY SMASHES CAFE WINDOW TO GET FOOD

Providence Lad Doesn't Care What Happens After Pie Feast

Desperate from hunger, Ralph Seard, sixteen years old, of Providence, R. I., smashed the window of the restaurant of E. J. O'Madden, 230 Ionic street, with a brick this morning and, crawling through a small hole in the glass, helped himself to food.

The boy ate two pies and was turning his attention to the cash drawer when Patrolman Yubas saw him. "I can face anything now," said Seard. "I have had a meal." He was taken to the Third and De Lancey streets station.

Seard said he left his home in Providence some time ago. The police are trying to get in touch with his parents.

HOSPITALS WILL CELEBRATE XMAS

Wards Will Be Decorated and Carols Will Be Sung by Nurses

The Department of Public Health has planned a program for the entertainment of patients in the Philadelphia General Hospital, Philadelphia Hospital for Contagious Diseases and the Philadelphia Hospital for Mental Diseases, both city and country branches.

The wards in all these hospitals will be decorated with Christmas greens and other displays, which will impart a general atmosphere of Yuletide. Christmas trees will be placed in the wards, where "Santa Claus" will distribute gifts to every patient.

Throughout the entire week of Christmas there will be concerts, shows, entertainments and a general good time, both for bedridden patients and convalescents. Christmas carols will be sung December 25 at 5 A. M. by the nurses in each hospital. Church services will be conducted by the several religious sects. Christmas dinners will be served, appropriate to the occasion. Radio-phone concerts and moving pictures will be features of the program during the week.

Each ward will have its own Santa Claus on Christmas Day, and appropriate gifts will be given each and every patient.
