

THE HOUSEKEEPER.

RECIPES.

Queen Cake.—Take one pound of loaf sugar, pound and sift it; one pound of flour, well dried; one pound of butter, eight eggs, half a pound of currants, washed and picked; grate nutmeg, the same quantity of powdered cinnamon, and half the quantity of mace. The great success of these cakes depends upon the manner and order in which the different ingredients are mixed; therefore attention must be paid to the following directions: Work the butter to cream, then sprinkle in the sugar by degrees. The whites of the eggs must be beaten for at least half an hour, after which mix them with the sugar and butter. Afterwards, beat up the yolks for the same length of time, add them to the preceding ingredients, and beat all up exceedingly well together, adding in by degrees the flour, spices, and currants. Bake them in tins, and dust some sugar over them.

Bread Cheese-cakes.—Slice a penny roll as thin as possible, pour over it a pint of boiling cream, leave it to stand for two hours, then take eight eggs, half a pound of butter, and a nutmeg grated; beat them all well up together, put in half a pound of currants, well washed and dried before the fire, and three teaspoonful of brandy or sherry wine. Bake them in raised crusts or pattypans.

Swiss Almond Pudding.—Chop up very small two pounds of almonds and some lemon peel; put them in a saucepan with a pint of milk and sugar to taste; when this begins to boil, stir in slowly a large cupful of ground rice, and let it boil for ten minutes, not neglecting to stir it well during the whole time; pour it into a mould and, when cold, turn it out. Put two ounces of white sugar into a pan with a little water, stir until it is melted and becomes light brown in color, add a pint of milk, bring this to a boil; then strain it and add the yolks of four eggs; put the strained milk and eggs on the fire, and stir well until it thickens; when this is cold, pour it around the pudding.

Tea Cakes.—One pound of fine flour, three-quarters of a pound of fresh butter, the same of loaf-sugar, sifted finely, three-quarters of a pound of well-washed currants, two ounces of candied lemon, and one ounce of almonds. Rub the butter into the flour, then add the rest, and moisten it with some well-beaten eggs. Make it into a paste and roll it out. The oven must not be too hot.

Baked Almond Pudding.—Beat fine in a mortar four ounces of almonds with a few bitter ones, and a little sherry wine. Beat up separately the yolks of six eggs, grate the peel of two lemons, four ounces of butter, three half-pints of cream, and the juice of one lemon. Mix all these ingredients well together; make a rich paste, put it at the bottom of a dish, pour the above upon it and bake half an hour.

Dialogue between two Democrats.
VALLANDIGHAM DEMOCRAT.—I am in favor of putting down this rebellion if it can be done constitutionally.

UNION DEMOCRAT.—I am in favor of putting down this rebellion, and preserving the Union, even if we have to annihilate every rebel in the country, and reduce the rebellious States to a desert like that of Sahara.

V. D.—I am opposed to interfering with slavery; and if the rebellion cannot be suppressed without doing so, I say let the slave States go. We have no right under the Constitution to interfere with slavery.

U. D.—I hold that a traitor to his Government has forfeited all rights that he ever had guaranteed to him while he remained a loyal citizen—even his life. While I am opposed to interfering with slavery where it is unnecessary, yet if it becomes necessary, in order to crush this rebellion, I say take away from every rebel his slaves and send them out of the United States or use them in any way that will help us destroy the rebels. The rebels do not hesitate to employ their slaves in every possible way in which they can be used against us. Let us return the compliment and use their slaves against them.

V. D.—But I am opposed to confiscating the property of rebels; it is unconstitutional!

U. D.—The d—d it is! Your opposition to this confiscation business, my dear Vallandigham, is probably the result of your fears lest you should suffer its consequences. I repeat again, that a traitor has no right under the constitution. In committing treason he forfeited all his rights, and I am decidedly in favor of confiscating his property, and applying it to the payment of expenses of the war which his treason has caused.

V. D.—I am opposed to suspending the writ of Habeas Corpus.

U. D.—So were the traitors in New Orleans, when Gen. Jackson suspended it and caused their arrest.

V. D.—And I am opposed to old Abe Lincoln and his d—d abolition crew.

U. D.—So is Jef. Davis and all the internal traitors who are backing him.

V. D.—I would a thousand times rather the South should succeed in this war than that the country should be governed by the Abolition Republican party.

U. D.—Precisely! then why don't you remove your cowardly, reasonable carcass to the South, where it belongs? Why do you remain here among loyal people who despise you, and who know you are a villain, and only lack the courage to be an assassin and cutthroat. Go where you belong, you black hearted traitor. Don't stay here, belching forth your treason and claiming the protection of our laws. [Exit Vallandigham, amid the hisses of the crowd.]
