Coloring Receipts.—The Farmer's Advocate offers the following suggestions relative to the preparation of colors adapted to the household

When the farmer's wife wants to color a bright red, she must wash her yarn clean and nice and boil in strong alum water, then dry in the sun a day (but don't rinse it out.) Then the next day boil in good madder soak over night; then dry it again, after which wash it and you will have a brilliant bright red.

When you want to color a bright green, you must boil in alum water the same way, having everything very clean, then boil in the kettle some good, strong black hickory bark—take out the bark and put in the yarn; boil thirty minutes; after drying, wash the yarn; then make some blue dye in the usual way, from indigo and a small bit of madder.

Dressing with Taste.

It is strange that, with all the time American women bestow upon dress, so few know how to prepare a simple toilette with taste. To be well dressed means, with most, to wear rich material, made up in gorgeous style, and with all the usual accessories of lace and jewelry, to add to the magnificence of the general effect. Never was a greater mistake. To be well dressed is only to have attire suited to time, place, and circumstances, made in a becoming manner. This attire may be a shilling calico or a rich silk, and yet in either, if it is adapted to the conditions we have mentioned, a woman may be said to be well

Where household duties have to be performed, and the care of children devolves partly upon the mistress of the house, a neat print dress fitted gracefully to the figure, is much better for morning wear than the faded remains of a more pretentious costume. Nothing looks more forlorn than to see a would be lady, performing household offices, of not the most refined character, in an old torn or dirty silk dress, or a soiled and draggled open wrapper.

One of the secrets of dressing well is to dress appropriately, another to be careful of the details, the minutia of the toilette. Thorough personal cleanliness, glossy wellbrushed hair, neat shoes and stockings, are fully as essential to a good personal appearance as the material and fashion of the dress. Indeed, a lady, who is particular in these minor matters, can hardly ever be said to be ill dressed. As this delicate refinement will not only excuse faults, but naturally show itself in the good taste which will guide her selection, no matter how small the cost may be.

Some persons have an extreme horror of being "caught," as they call it, in a morning dress. Why they should be so sensitive on this point, it is difficult to say. If it is clean, and adapted to the work in which they are engaged, there is no shame in wearing, and, above all, it ought to be remembered that the attire is good enough for mere acquaintances who may chance to favor you with their society. It is much better to be caught in a plain morning dress, than to be caught very much overdressed, as some unlucky individuals are, at a small evening party. In one case there is real cause for mertification, in the other there is none.

Mothers should carefully impress this lesson upon their daughters. Many a young lady has lost an eligible match thro' the discovery that the belle of the evening was the slattern of the morning, and that she paid more attention to the number of her flounces than the cleanliness of her person, more care on the brilliance of her head-dress than the condition of her hair. -Mirror of Fashion.

Ashes for Swine.

I have twenty swine running in a threeacro field with out grass, with access to plenty of water, and fed well on corn.

I have given them for several weeks two pails of ashes a week, and they eat them with a relish. Ashes are said to be a preventative of hog cholera, in proof of which we have the testimony of Cassius M. Clay, and numerous other residents of southern localities, acquainted with this disease, with whom we have conversed with on the subject. So says J. W. A. "out in the West," in the last American Stock Journal.

In all Nervous, Rheumatic, and Neuralgic Affections, it has in numerous instances proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a sedded cure. This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Borhava. Its reputation at home produced its introduction here, the domand commencing with those of the Fatherland scattered over the face of this mighty country, many of whom brought with them and handed down the tradition of its value. R is now offered to the American public, knowing that its truly worderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in effect, it finds its way directly to the soat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.
