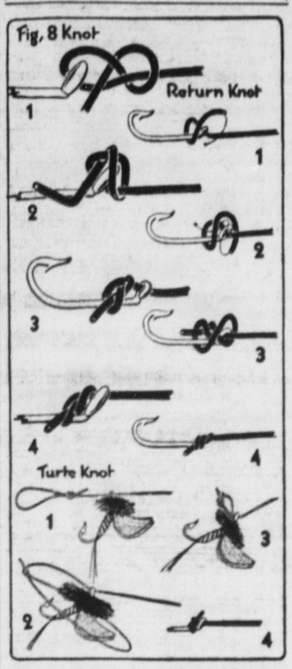
Recommend Knots For Tying Flies On Nylon Leaders



Three knots that will hold flies to nylon fishing leaders have been recommended after tests by the Du-Pont Company. Here is how they are tied:

Figure Eight Knot—Pass end of tippet through eye of hook. Form figure eight about standing part of leader and draw close to eye of hook. Just before loop closes, push it over eye with thumb.

Return Knot—Thrust end of leader through hook eye, then down behind hook and up the front, holding loop open between thumb and forefinger. Make second turn behind first. Pass the end, following arrow, under both loops. Pull on standing part. As coils draw up, push loops over eye.

Turle Knot—Run end through hook eye and make "single running knot" in the end, pulling up tightly. Pass fly through the large loop. Pull loop tightly against neck of fly.

Research supports the opinion widely held by fishermen that the "Turle," the "Figure Eight," and the "Return" knots are the most dependable for tying flies to the tippet end of the new nylon leaders.

Numberless types of knots have been tied and tested at the Arlington, N. J., Research Laboratories of the Du Pont Company's Plastics Department, where the leader material is manufactured.

None showed the staying power of these three knots, which long have been favorites with fishermen. Results of the research were checked with authorities on knots and with experienced fishermen.

The three knots which stood up best under tests were easier to tie than practically any knots known. They were found to be the best solution to the problem of fishermen who preferred nylon leaders but found that the old overhand jam knot lacked sufficient strength in the new material to guarantee the absolute security desired.

Stresses greater than any that could be encountered in angling were placed on all three knots without the hint of a tendency to slip. The daintiest trout flies and the largest salmon and bass flies were tied securely with all three.

Extensive field tests showed that the barrel knot was entirely satisfactory for tying strands of nylon together.

Nylon leader material is entering its second year of general use. Du-Pont officials said fishermen who used it the first year were especially interested in its strength and low visibility in water.

The material is made in mechanically controlled uniform diameter. It has less sheen than natural gut and, being a monofilament, will not fray or split.

Fishermen commented widely on the fact that nylon does not have to be soaked before being used, can be tied dry and cast dry without waiting, and will straighten easily while dry.

BLANCHARD

The last of the school year closes on Monday when the 9th and 10th grades make their annual trip to Hecla.

The Memorial Day program brought many of the one time residents back to our community. Among those noted by the correspondent were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robb of New Bloomfield; Mr. Jerry Runner of Altoona; Mrs. James Strunk and Mr. and Mrs. Sager of Howard; James Kunes, of near Boalsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Emmette Bathgate and family of Snow Shoe; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Poleto and family of Renovo; and Walter and Ray Deiter and families of Lock Haven and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Smith and family of Cleveland, Ohio.

Many of the out of town home folks were at the baked ham dinner at the Church of Christ. The committee reports serving 235 plates, exclusive of helpers.

Friends here of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Horn have received word that Mr. Horn is critically ill at their home in Ligonier.

Miss Ethel Confer, nurse at the Burlew home, visited her brother Austin Confer of Rochester, N. Y., last week, and attended the Lilac festival.

Mrs. John Coder attended the funeral of her grandfather Mr. Bennett of Mill Hall recently.

Other Memorial Day visitors in town were Frank Tout and family of Renovo, Mr and Mrs. Russell Bechdel of McDonald, guests of Mrs. Mayme Shaw, Mrs. Elizabeth Champion of Williamsport, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Clark, also Mrs. Simon Lingle of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Sterrille Kunes and family of State College and Mr and Mrs. Charles Kunes also of State College.

Mrs. Catherine Bathurst is some what recovered from her recent illness.

Guests at the R. J. Spangler home on Memorial Day were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Albert of Middleburg; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Albert and daughter of Beavertown; Mrs. Donald Gardner of Howard, and Virginia Marsden of Marsh Creek.

Mrs. Edward Bryndle, Miss Frances Bryndle, and Mrs. Margaret Henry of St. Mary's were guests of Mrs. Tillie Kunes on Memorial Day.

The regular meeting of the W. W. G. will be held on Friday night. This is an important meeting so all members are requested to be present.

Weekend guests of Mrs. Annie James were Mrs. Fannie Collins, daughter Betty Lou and Mike Campanella and son Anthony of Buffalo N. Y.

John Heichel Jr., suffered an accident to his right knee, while playing soft ball at the home field on Saturday. He was taken to the L. H. hospital for treatment, returning home on Sunday. John will be forced to walk on crutches for a time.

TEARS

Tears are a woman's privilege,
An outlet for pent-up emotion;
Though men scoff at the idea,
Say it's just a foolish notion.
Sometimes we women cry
At the slightest provocation,
When we wish to gain our ends,
A fur coat, or cherished vacation.
Sometimes we cry when we're happy
And always when we are sad,
Sometimes we cry for effect
Which often is just too bad.
When you want something real bad
Don't ever pout, my dear,
A man nearly always capitulates
When he sees a woman in tears.
