THE FRENCH "EMIGRANT" TRADE.—A Massacre on board an "Apprentice" Ship.—The London Times gives a long account of an occurrence on board a French ship engaged in the new "apprentice" system. We quote:

The Ethiope, Capt. Croft, a steamer belonging to the West Africa Steam Company, arrived at Monrovia: the capitol of the settlement of Liberia, on the 14th of April. The captain, on landing, was informed by ex-President Roberts that a French vessel—the Regina Coeli—which had been for some weeks collecting "emigrants" under the new system, had been the scene of a fearful catastrophe. These so called emigrants had revolted during the absence of the captain, purser, and a few of the crew, who, fortunately for themselves, had gone on shore for a short time. The seamen left on board, to the number of eleven, were murdered by the negroes; the doctor alone was spared and put on shore. The ignorant wretches, after perpetrating this deed had taken possession of the vessel, and were known to be in the neighborhood of Cape Mount. The Ethiope immediately went in search of her, with ex-President Roberts on board; found her, and towed her into Morovia. Mr. Roberts went on board the Regina, and when the blacks heard they were to be taken to Monrovia they danced and shouted with delight. Mr. Roberts, having heard the account of these people, expressed his opinion that all the so-called emigrants were merely slaves, and had been regularly bought, shipped, and manacled, just in the regular way, as practised on the coast for many a year.

The account the negroes gave of themselves leaves, indeed, no doubt of the fact. The irons with which they had been manacled were on board, and many of them retained the marks on their wrists and ancles. They were about 270 in all, but 100 had left before the Ethiope fell in with the ship. One of the men said that the greater part had been brought down from the interior and bought by the Frenchmen in the usual way. Others had gone on board as laborers, in blind ignorance of the number, and had been suddenly seized, put away in irons, and stowed away in the hold. By these means were the emigrants obtained, who, but for the mutiny, were destined to "develop their faculties by contact with civilization" in the island of Reunion, late Bourbon. The account given by them of the massacre itself was that it arose from the cook stabbing one of the people who had gone to the galley to get something to eat; but there can be little doubt that the deed was premeditated, and that the cook's violence, even if true, was only the signal for rising. That the system is nothing more than the slave trade under another name cannot be doubted.

A WOMAN-WHIPPING PARTY.—There is much excitement in Delaware county, Pa., in consequence of the beating of a woman named Joanna Connor, by a Roman Catholic priest. Says the Media American:

"Her oath before the Justice of the Peace was, that the priest rode up to the house while her husband was absent, came in, ordered her to lie down, and then unmercifully whipped her, with a whip made of twisted wire (one said to be used by him for punishing refractory Catholics) over the arms and shoulders. This she could not stand, and ran out upon the piazza, crying and screaming. He followed, drove her back, again made her kneel, and again whipped her with this horrid instrument of torture. And in concluding, to add to his already inhuman conduct, directed her to bathe herself with salt and water, (which would have produced the most excruciating agony) and say nothing about the affair. She then proceeded to the residence of Elias L. Baker, but a few yards off, (for whose family her sister works,) showed Mrs. B. the marks of her whipping, which laid in thick, black welts over her arms and back, as thick as one's thumb, with the blood here and there oozing through the lacerated skin, and related to them substantially as above. They directed her to the residence of Esquire Baldwin, whither she immediately repaired, in spite of the protestations of her sister, who superstitiously believed that dark evils would come upon them for daring to oppose a priest. She asked 'Squire Baldwin if there was any law to protect a woman from a priest in this country. He assured her there was. She then made oath of the facts and procured a States warrant for the priest's arrest. The 'Squire remarked to us that he was very particular in questioning her as to all the facts of the case, as he considered it an extraordinary one, and wished to have no doubt about it. She also remarked to him that this was not the first or the only whipping that he had been guilty of; that he had flogged a woman in the neighborhood with a wire whip, similar to that which he used on her. We think it was for marrying a man named Coppock, or Proctor, a Protestant—which constituted a heinous offence, even in this country where every one should have their free choice. She said that he whipped her so severely, that she was confined to her bed three weeks—almost at the point of death! The affair was hushed up, and in all probability would not have been divulged but for this last offence. It is stated further that it is nothing uncommon for him to whip men, women and children whenever they displease him."

THE telegraph has advised us of the breaking of the Yazoo Pass. The Coahoma (Miss.) Citizen says:

"A dire calamity has befallen our people. To our surprise we have to record one of the worst strokes of fortune that could have come upon us. Thursday night the levee one mile above this place (on the bank of the Pass) broke, and when discovered at daylight the break was about twenty feet wide, but before the citizens could assemble it was thirty feet wide. Strenuous efforts to stop it were made; but to no purpose. The work was continued until the breach had gained sixty yards in width, when it was abandoned. The channel is widening and deepening every hour. The water has fall of eight or ten feet, and is rushing down it with terrific rapidity, with such power and force as to fell trees in its course, throwing waves and foam and spray high into the air with a roaring skin to that of an approaching tempest.

The damage to the country is almost incalculable. It is estimated by Judge Shelby and Mr. O. Bobo (old residents) at $1,000,000. Judge Shelby estimates his loss at $25,000. Mr. Bobo estimates his loss at $10,000. F. E. Shelby estimates his loss at $3,000. It will injure a majority of our planters, by destroying crops, stock, etc. If the river remains full it will flood the country along the lower pass. We are informed that one hand by an hour's work could have thrown dirt enough upon this levee to have prevented it from breaking. If true there has been gross neglect and carelessness on the part of somebody.

After the above was put in type, we learned from Mr. Porter, sub-levee commissioner, that he was at the levee at 6 o'clock on Thursday evening, and that it would have required from eight to twelve inches rise to put the river over the levee at that point. He thinks that flat-boatmen had a hand in the matter. We think there is room for suspicion, and will assist in sinking any flatboat that attempts to go through this opening.

THE New Orleans Crescent of June 10th, has the following speculations in regard to the Cotton crop:

"It was believed yesterday that the closing of the Hesperia crevasse had been abandoned. This settles the fate of thousands on thousands of the best cultivated lands in the parishes of Madison and Tensas. There was raised in Tensas, in 1856, 65,200 bales cotton; in Madison, 48,423 bales; in Carroll, which covers the Point Look Out Crevasse, 26,905 bales. These three parishes furnished 166,618 bales. How much of the cultivated lands of these parishes are submerged, we are not informed. These are in our own State bordering on the river. Then there is Concordia, which sent to market 62,068 bales. Although this parish is comparatively free at this moment, it is impossible to say, from the accounts daily received how long it will continue. In addition to these parishes, we will go higher up on the Mississippi side of the river. From that section we have accounts of great damage in Bolivia, Issaquena and Washington counties, in which are some of the most productive cotton lands in the country. Then, in addition to these gloomy details, the Tallahatchie river is full and ready to disgorge over its banks, and meeting the water from the Mississippi, the inundation will be vast in
