ANOTHER EXPEDITION TO THE ARCTIC REGIONS.—The British journals are urging again the importance of sending out another expedition to the Arctic regions, with the hope of finding some of the survivors of the lost explorer, Sir John Franklin. Two millions of dollars have already been expended in making searches, and it is a strong evidence of the generous feelings inspiring the people of England, when they contemplate make another effort to rescue any persons who may have survived the persons now known to have perished in their efforts to add our treasures of geographical science. It is possible that small detachments of the frozen snows of the North some band of struggling adventurers may yet be hoping that the bright world beyond them is not unmindful of the possibility of their existence, and thus that they keep their hearts warm with the anticipations of some day returning to the regions of civilized life.

A summer land search up Great Fish river has been proposed as one that would be devoid of danger, and less expensive than any other, while there is reason to hope that some of the one hundred and five persons who had gone beyond the traces of the last searches may be discovered. The spirit and enterprise which characterize the British nation will probably not be satisfied with discussing this matter, but capital will be bountifully applied to the effort to recover those whose fate of adventure and stores of narrative may amply repay the whole world for the cost of attempting to reach the conclusion of the Arctic night.

A LARGE UNDERGROUND ARRIVAL.—The Underground Railroad, a principal branch of which runs through this city is doing a thriving business. Yesterday morning a cargo of live freight, consisting of twenty-six chattles all the way from Missouri, arrived here, and were safely in Canada. Their conductor was a gentleman well known to most of our readers for his exploits in Kansas, and his connection with certain exciting events in Missouri. They were taken through Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois to Chicago, and then to Detroit. The gentleman who escorted the procession in this city, had about fifty thousand dollars worth of property stolen from him, or destroyed, in Kansas, by the Ruffians, and he is now practicing the law of retaliation upon its plunderers. He informs us that there very great panic has seized the slaveholders of Missouri, and that they are hurrying the slaves down south by the hundreds. Between the stampede south and their escape into Kansas, he says Missouri is to be a free State much sooner than the most sanguine have hoped. Several border counties have already been almost depopulated of slaves, and still the irresistible conflict is going on.—Detroit Adv

DR LIVINGSTONE, the celebrated African traveler' who is at present exploring the river Zambesi, reports the valley of the shire as abounding with wild elephants, having magnificent and most valuable tusks. In one herd he saw over five hundred of the giant game grazing on the plain. The Shire is a good navigable river for over one hundred miles from its confluence. The mountains of Mozambique, which lie north over the plain, possessed of a fine climate and profuse vegetation—lemon trees, oranges, and pineapples growing wild in the woods, promising to be had in abundance and cheap from the natives, who cultivate largely the upper third of the valley.

NEBRASKA POLITICS.—Mr. Purple, formerly conductor on the Western Railroad, and a member of the first Legislature of Nebraska, thus tells his experience in Western politics. He says: "Secretary T. B. Cumming said to me one morning, 'Purple, we want a member from Bert county.' So I harnessed up and took nine fellows with me from Iowa, and we started for the woods; and when we thought we had got far enough for Bert county, we unpacked our ballot box and held an election (in Washington county), canvassed the vote, and it was astonishing to observe how great was the unanimity at the first election ever held in Bert county. Purple had every vote. So Purple was declared duly elected."

INVENTOR OF PERPETUAL MOTION DEAD.—Jas. G. Hendrickson died at his residence, at Black's Mills, New Jersey on Saturday last, in the 69th year of his age. The last forty years of his life he was engaged in the pursuit of the perpetual motion, and he succeeded in constructing a machine, very simple in its arrangement, which appears to realize the idea. It has been exhibited in various parts of the country, and in several of the large cities, and so far has defied the closest scrutiny to detect in it the fallacy. Of late years his attention has been absorbed in the one idea of his life, to the neglect of the ordinary means of acquiring a livelihood, and he eked out a scanty support by the proceeds of the exhibition of his machine.

SPARROWS FROM ENGLAND TO NEW ZEALAND.—Three hundred sparrows, selected from the hedgerows in England, have been lately sent to New Zealand. The necessity of small birds, to keep down the grubs that devastate the crops in that colony, has long been felt. The farmer is beset by myriads of catterpillars. Should the sparrows become acclimated and multiply, the greatest benefits will have been conferred on this country, if it would stop its wicked warfare upon the dear little birds, which enliven our homesteads, and which the Vandals are rapidly destroying—in fact, have already nearly obliterated from the country several varieties, once so common, and ever so beneficial to the farmer.

THE Agricultural Bureau of the United States Patent Office have received intelligence of the shipment from Havre, France, of a large swarm of Lombardy bees. These bees will be sent upon their arrival here direct to the Agricultural Bureau. They are of a larger size than the ordinary bee, and having a longer bill, are able to suck flowers inaccessible to the American bee. The product of an old hive of these bees is sometimes 150 lbs of honey in one season. These bees will not be disturbed until 1861.

EXTENSIVE FAILURE.—Late European papers say: A large failure has taken place in Russia, where speculation of all kinds has lately been rife. The house is that of Alexieff & Co., Moscow, and their liabilities are said to amount to $3,000,000. So vast is the disaster, that the Russian government is expected to interpose. It has been brought about by speculation in sugar, indigo and other produce. The firm had a high repute, and the principal partners inherited from their father $5,000,000.

A THRILLING BOOK.—Captain McClintock's "Narrative of the Discovery of the Fate of Sir John Franklin and his Companions, and of the Voyage of the Steam Yacht Fox in the Arctic Seas," heads Mr. Murray's autumnal list of works, forthcoming in London, and will form an appropriate finale to the grand series of publications recording the Arctic explorations of Parry, Ross, Beechey, and Franklin himself, brought out by this house. It will undoubtedly be reprinted in this country.

AT EASTON, Pa., on Monday, the Right Rev. Andrew Benade, the oldest Bishop of the Moravian Church in America, and nearly 90 years of age, died. He was much respected for his intelligence and good qualities.
