

Neff's Mills Is—

(Continued From Page One) theatre groups since their graduation several years ago and while in St. Petersburg, Fla., last winter they recruited from the ranks of the Pinebluffs Players in that city, four of the leading players for the summer productions.

The "Brookside family" of approximately 20 members reside on the scene in three large farm houses only steps from the playhouse.

In one of the homes, a dining room is being planned in which place theatre-goers will be able to secure their dinners prior to curtain time. This dining room is to be under the supervision of Mary K. Eberhardt, of the Towne House and Penn Koffee Shoppe in Huntingdon, will be opened in about two weeks according to present plans.

Operating nightly except Sunday, "Claudia" will continue through Tuesday, June 19. Beginning Wednesday, June 20, and continuing through June 30, will be "The Drunkard." In all, ten productions have been planned including the popular hits "The Man Who Came To Dinner," "Blythe Spirit," "Arctic and Old Lace" and "Ten Little Indians."

"Claudia," a comedy-drama by Rose Franken, left little to be desired as presented by the eight members of the cast on opening night. An enthusiastic audience spurred the cast into bringing the problems of the Naughton family very realistically into the laps of each of the viewers.

The role of Claudia was played by Lee Stevens, the company's leading lady who comes from Boston. A graduate of the Leland Powers School of Drama, she has participated in numerous stage and radio productions in the Bay City area.

Mrs. Brown, Claudia's mother, is portrayed by Eleanor Foster, who just completed a successful year as president of the Huntingdon Music Club. Dick Warren, the company's leading man, played the role of David Naughton. Mr. Warren, along with Jim Kunkle, who plays the role of Fritz, the hired hand, comes from the St. Petersburg group.

"Jerry Seymour" an English neighbor is played by Tony Bowman, a former Penn State dramatics student.

"Madame Daruschka" is played by Margaret Musser of Yeagertown, the company's high school scholarship winner, who appears to have plenty of everything to get where she's going fast.

"Julia," David's sister, is played by Dorothy Chesney, Neff's Mill resident and teacher in the State College schools.

Included in the price of each admission are refreshments served at the conclusion of the play during which informality reigns providing an opportunity to chat with the cast.

The theater, located in a wooded plot adjacent to a loud babbling brook, looms as the ideal site for those hot summer evenings. Until that time arrives, however, a word to the wise would include a suggestion for a topcoat and blanket.

LINN'S HISTORY

(Continuing Penn Township)

Township Organization.—In April 1844, sundry inhabitants of Haines township presented to the court a petition asking for a division of the township because of its inconveniently large territory. Suggestion was likewise made that the new township might be celled out of a part of Haines and about a mile in width of Gregg. The court appointed as commissioners Samuel Pettit, Michael Shaeffer and William Smyth Jr., who in August 1844, reported a survey of the proposed township as follows: Beginning at the Miles township line; thence south ten degrees east five miles through the settlement to be continued about five miles farther to the Millfin County line; thence by the same four miles and 50 perches; thence north ten degrees west ten miles to the Miles township line; thence by the same four miles and 50 perches to the place of beginning, November 30, 1844, the court confirmed the report and named the new township Penn.

Coburn.—Coburn is a small village that has sprung into existence since the completion of the Lewisburg, Centre and Tyrone Railroad, and is a station upon that road. It is the main distributing point for Millheim, Aaronsburg, Woodward, Madisonburg, and Rebersburg. It is named in honor of James P. Coburn, Esq., one of the directors of the aforesaid corporation. It is distant two and one-half miles from Millheim, further than its being a shipping point, no particular importance is attached to it. It contains one hotel, the "Forks House," one store, a tailor shop, and a grain elevator. It was originally known as "The Forks" so-called from the confluence of Penn's and Pine Creeks.

Millheim Turnpike Road Company.—On April 3, 1879, J. W. Snook, J. E. Reifsnnyder, J. C. Motz, S. D. Musser, James C. Smith, E. C. Campbell, Franklin Knarr, and Jonathan Kreamer were granted a charter for the construction of a turnpike road to lead from Millheim to Coburn, a distance of two and one-half miles. They immediately advertised for proposals for the building of a part of the road, and in May 1879 awarded the contract to J. R. Reifsnnyder and H. Z. Bierly. Later on the contract for finishing the road and building of toll house and bridge was awarded to J. W. Snook. The total cost of the road was about $3300. The first regular election was held Nov. 21, 1879. J. W. Snook was chosen president; J. H. Reifsnnyder, secretary and treasurer; and J. W. Snook, J. C. Motz, Jonathan Kreamer, F. Knarr, and E. C. Campbell, board of directors. The road at present is kept in good order and a considerable revenue is derived therefrom.

The officers for 1881 are the same as elected in 1879, except Jonathan Kreamer and F. Knarr, who withdrew from the board of directors. The superintendent is J. W. Snook. Borough Incorporation.—At the November session in 1878 certain citizens of the village of Millheim presented an application to have the town incorporated as a borough. The grant jury approved of the application Nov. 27, 1878, and at the sessions in January, 1879, the court rendered a decree incorporating the borough in accordance with the petition.

Millheim.—The town was laid out by Philip Gunkle, who, Nov. 1, 1797, bought eight acres and 26 perches of the Frederick Ueberlin warrantee of Michael Gunkle, and laid out part of the town thereon. The main portion is upon the John Cash warrant, which was sold by David Shakespeare to Michael Gunkle, also Dec. 3, 1794. The western end is on the John Harris warrant for 28 acres and 115 perches. A deed was executed by Adam Kreamer to Philip Gunkle, Feb. 21, 1800. At the time (1798), there were two mills.—the old Hubler Mill, which stood near D. A. Musser's present residence, and the Gunkle mill, site of D. A. Musser's mill. This fact suggested the name of Millheim, (home of the mills).

From Maynard's "Industries of Centre County" we learn that Benjamin and Harry Lees formerly had a store in the building occupied by Elisha Campbell. A school house for German scholars occupied the site of Snook's store, and an English school house stood where the United Erethen Church now stands. The earliest dwellings were on the site of Jacob Gephart's residence, Daniel Reighard's house (the one now occupied by the post office), and John Keene's house. In 1812 a company was organized in Millheim and its neighborhood, Philip Gunkle was the first chosen captain, but declined, and Capt. Kleckner was chosen in his stead; John Jones was first lieutenant, and Daniel Lutz ensign. The names of the privates have not been preserved. Among them were John Shaw, Joseph Reighard, Charles Schrefler, Charles Fryer, who is said to have been the last survivor, and died in 1879.

Their dress was blue coats with red trimmings, and buff vests, high boots, and cockades. This company marched to Erie early in September, 1812, and thence to Black Rock. They were under the command of a General Smythe, who failed as an officer, and the militia came off without being discharged early in December, with such speed that they were stigmatized afterwards as the "Black Rock Ravers."

Use More Fresh Oranges In Meals

Oranges are one of the best sources of vitamin C, the vitamin you must have every day, for it is not stored in the body. A small glass, or a half cup of orange juice will help provide the vitamin C you need for one day, explains Miss Helen S. Butler, home economics representative of Centre county. Other fresh fruits, like strawberries and vegetables, such as cabbage, will help to supply the rest of the vitamin C needed.

Squeeze oranges just before serving for the best in nutritive value and flavor, suggests Miss Butler. Light and air destroys some of the vitamin C. If you must squeeze oranges ahead of time, keep the juice in a covered container in the refrigerator.

Oranges are an excellent addition to other meals of the day when not served as juice for breakfast. Slices of orange and unpared apple arranged like petals of a flower on garden fresh lettuce or other salad greens make an attractive and good to eat salad. Serve with a sweet French dressing or a cooked salad dressing and put a few berries in the center for extra color. Keep all ingredients chilled until serving time.

Oranges for dessert can come to the table in a shortcake, fruit cup or fruit gelatin. Equal parts of orange juice and milk can be used for the liquid in muffins. Add the grated rind of one orange to the muffins for extra flavor.

Market reports indicate there will be a generous supply of Valencia oranges at reasonable prices during June.

Among other recent inhabitants were Jacob and John Harter. Jacob Harter was a justice of the peace for many years, and died at the age of 91 years. John Harter, a wagon maker, served his apprenticeship at Bellefonte, and then entered the employ of Jacob Shaffer at Millheim. He has reached the age of 89 and had a family of ten children. One of his daughters married J. R. Purman of Chester County, father of the Hon. W. J. Purman, late member of Congress from Florida.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

The different kinds of meat patties in the market are so attractive I can hardly pass them by. These cuts when patties, the round, top chuck, shank and neck. A medium grind makes the best patties. Care should be taken not to overcook the patties, as they should be juicy and tender with a good meat flavor.

Chicken Patties 1 cup finely chopped cooked chicken 1 tablespoon cream 1 egg slightly beaten 1-4 teaspoon salt Pepper 1 cup white sauce 1-2 cup finely chopped celery Add cream, egg, salt, and pepper to chicken. Shape into small flat patties, dip into egg and crumbs and saute in butter until well browned. Add celery to the sauce and pour over patties just before serving.

Beef Patties 1 lb. beef, ground medium fine 1-4 cup bread crumbs 1-2 cup milk 1-2 teaspoon salt 9 slices of bacon Mix meat, bread crumbs, seasonings and milk. Handle very lightly to avoid packing. Shape 1-4 cupful of mixture into patties about two inches in diameter. Wrap bacon around each patty, holding it in place with a toothpick or form into a rectangular shape, placing bacon strips over top and lapping on the bottom. Place in a baking pan on rack about 3 inches from top of oven. Cook at 450 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes.

Barbequed Patties 1-2 cup soft bread crumbs 1-4 cup milk 2 tablespoons melted fat or salad oil Salt and pepper 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce 1 tablespoon vinegar 2 tablespoons sugar 1-2 cup ketchup 1 onion, chopped Moisten crumbs with milk, add meat and seasonings. Form into 4 large patties. Brown on both sides in fat or oil. Add remaining ingredients. Cover, and cook 10 minutes.

Goldenrod, Aster Rust For Pine Needle Rust Needle rust has been common and often severe in many red pine plantings during the past several years. It appears as yellowish scale like blisters on the pine needles. There are the spore (seed) producing structures of the rust fungus, Assistant County Agent Clair D. DeLong says that where the disease is severe, growth to young trees is seriously retarded. But the trees are not killed, and often no serious damage results.

The needle rust fungus overwinters on asters and goldenrod and it is from these plants near a pine planting that the disease spreads. The fungus does not live over on pine. So, if all aster and goldenrod are destroyed in the area around red pine plantings, the disease can be controlled. In addition to red pine, needle rust may be found on other two and three needle pines such as jack, pitch and loblolly. The rust may be controlled on aster by spraying with ferbam (Permate, etc.) at 2 pounds per 100 gallons or 3 level teaspoons per gallon of water.

Lice And Mites Are Summer Poultry Pests

Lice and mites are likely to appear on poultry during the farmer's busiest season during late spring and early summer, warns County Agent L. H. Bull. They thrive during hot weather.

To determine whether lice are infesting the hens, handle a few birds, parting the feathers underneath the vent and wings. Body lice stay on the birds at all times. Until recent years it was necessary to treat each bird individually, with some effective lice powder. But that is not necessary with the nicotine sulphate method.

Scrape the roosts clean and spread a thin stream of nicotine sulphate on top of the roosts about a half hour before roosting time. Use an oil can or small brush. Do not use too much material, and have the house very well ventilated. It may be necessary to make a second application in about 10 days in order to kill the young lice which hatch meanwhile.

Mites are very hard to detect as they are extremely small and usually are found in cracks around the roosts, roost supports, dropping boards, pits, and nests. Usually they go on the birds at night to suck blood. To treat these pests effectively for long periods, use such materials as red mite paints, cresote, or one of the carbolineums. By applying these materials in the morning, they will have a chance to become dry before roosting time.

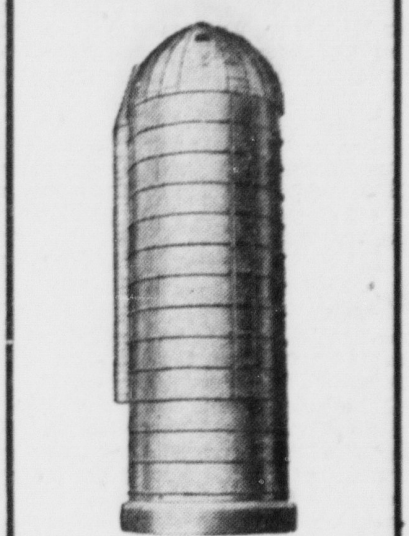

Fly Nuisance Fly fecundity is fabulous. A female fly lays many eggs that hatch out in a few hours. Flies become adults in ten days and the females lay eggs at that age. Flies have no redeeming traits, being just a nuisance and filthy. They do not carry germs, and are a menace to our health. We can't kill all of the flies, but can cover and protect our food. Sprays and screens help us a lot.—The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania.

Couldn't Stump Him The new minister always had a scripture quotation ready for any question asked him. One day a bug flew in his mouth and he swallowed it. A little boy stepped up and asked, "Do you have a text from the scripture for that?" "Yes," said the minister, "He was a stranger and I took him in."

PROTECT THE COW—The vacuum of the milking machine can be harmful to the cow unless she is properly prepared. This is one reason why Ivan E. Parkin, extension dairy specialist of Penn State, is a strong advocate of the managed milking routine. Let down of milk is assured before the machine is attached.
