Couple Observes 50th Anniversary

the present American Lime and Stone Company plant. Later he entered the employ of the Jenkins & Lingle foundry as a fireman and boiler room worker. He soon learned to operate the steam engine which operated the machinery and for a time was engineman, remaining in that post until he became a blacksmith at the Jenkins & Lingle foundry.

In 1908 Mr. Dukeman joined the Bellefonte police force, and those were days when a police officer in these parts had to be plenty tough. Dukeman's experience in hammering into red hot billets of metal at the foundry stood him in good stead when he was forced to hammer sense into intoxicated iron workers on their Saturday night sprees.

Police of that era had to be ready at all times to overcome by sheer physical force any of the many fractious elements which kept Bellefonte's night spots in the limelight.

Harry Dukeman's actions on the force pleased Councilmen so much that in 1910 he was elected Chief of Police—a post he has held continuously since that time with the exception of a period from 1919 to 1924 when he served a term as Sheriff. Upon coming out of that office he resumed his post as Chief of Police.

When the Dukemans first moved to town they resided at Sunnyside. Subsequently they moved to Beaver & Hoy Row, and from there to one of the Schad houses on West Lamb street. Later they resided on South Water street, remaining there 18 years until moving only a year or more ago to their present residence on West Howard street.

Chief Dukeman, who now is 68 years old, declares he feels like 45 and looks the part. He stands six feet, two-and-three-fourths inches tall and weighs 225 pounds. There isn't an ounce of excess fat on his frame. Five or six years ago, after his health had failed noticeably, he underwent an operation for the removal of a goitre. The operation was performed in the Clearfield Hospital on a Monday morning, and on Saturday night Chief Dukeman was home. His recovery from that operation was considered remarkable, and his health since then has been excellent.

Mrs. Dukeman, who is a few years younger than her husband, injured a hip in a fall about six years ago and has never fully recovered from that injury. In more recent years her sight has been failing somewhat.

"Dukie" is one of the best known persons in Centre county. He keeps in touch with the coming generation of youngsters, knows scores of them by their first names, and hundreds of others through acquaintance with their parents. Children consistently admire him, but at the same time hold him in awesome respect.

Chief Dukeman at times has been charged with a too-easy administration of the law, but his actions have stood the test of time. He's always evidenced a willingness to give a first offender a second chance, but after that he tolerates no foolishness and many a person has learned that the Chief is no man to trifle with.

Always close-lipped about his profession, Chief Dukeman nevertheless is a walking storehouse of knowledge about Bellefonte and its citizens. As a result of his never-ending study of people, he has demonstrated, time and again, an almost uncanny ability to point the finger of guilt at the right person when most any crime is committed hereabouts. For every one of the crimes he solves and to which newspaper publicity is given, the Chief solves a dozen or more crimes which never gets into the newspapers. These mostly are minor offenses, thefts, and the like, in which first offenders are involved, or in which family or personal considerations keep them from going through the regular channels and so reaching the public press.

Mr. and Mrs. Dukeman are the parents of two children, a daughter Marion, married to Terrance N. McAlerney, and a son Robert, who died in infancy. The McAlarneys reside at the Dukeman home on West Howard street.

Chief Dukeman has three sisters and two brothers: Mrs. Elby Martin, of Pike street, and Mrs. Pearl Kline, of Lamb street, Bellefonte; Mrs. John Osman, of Lewisburg; Harrison Dukeman, of Clearfield, and William Dukeman, of Altoona. Mrs. Dukeman has two brothers, Austin Deeters, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and George Deeters, of Altoona.

The Chief is a member of the Logan Fire Company and of the Bellefonte Elks Lodge. He hobbies his time in hunting and fishing, and has the reputation of being one of the best anglers in this area.

He has been Chief of Police of Bellefonte for so many years that many person now in middle life cannot remember the day when "Dukie" was not head of the town's law enforcement agency.

4-H CLUB WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

County Members Prepare to Exceed Last Year's $13,500 Production

Centre County will take part in the National 4-H Mobilization Week, March 4 to 12, Assistant County Agent Glenn W. Ely, announces.

During this period plans will be made to surpass the 1943 record when Centre County had 220 club members. Last year the Pennsylvania total was 21,329 and the national membership was 1,700,000.

Among the achievements of Pennsylvania agricultural club members last year was the production of more than 2,000,000 pounds of meat and poultry. In vegetable gardening projects 3600 members had gardens covering 934 acres. In addition, 9411 members assisted with the family gardens, 851 taking entire care of such gardens. Another group of 4473 members assisted in caring for the family poultry flock, 573 assuming full care of these flocks.

The acute farm labor situation did not find the 4-H club members wanting. There were 6506 members who devoted 545,541 hours to planting and harvesting. About one-third of this group spent 73,876 hours in helping in harvest on neighbors' farms.

In what was called "Service for Victory" 4-H Club members gathered more than a million pounds of scrap—metal, paper, and rubber. They also invested their earnings to the amount of $190,279 in war stamps and bonds.

Centre County agricultural club members made the following contributions to the State production: 2100 pounds of pork; 2300 pounds of lamb; 8500 pounds of poultry meat; 2½ tons of tomatoes; 1 ton of sweet corn; besides producing some honey, beef, and other vegetables. The total value of production by 4-H club members was over $13,500.

During 4-H Mobilization Week, present 4-H club members will lay their plans for 1944, boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 20 years will be enrolled, and some new clubs will be organized. Anyone who is interested in joining is urged to see or call Assistant County Agent Ely at Bellefonte, or the local club leader.

Aged Woman Found Unconscious on Road

Philipsburg hospital authorities reported yesterday that Mrs. Clara Trump, 88-year-old New Liberty woman found lying unconscious along a road near Center, Monday afternoon, had regained consciousness but that her condition is "not good."

Doctors stated that her condition was due to a cerebral accident. It was pointed out that it was likely spontaneous—a broken blood vessel in the head—which likely resulted from her advanced age.

She regained consciousness about midnight Monday night and has been conscious since that time.

She was reportedly found by John Harvey and George Raines, coal strippers, who have a stripping operation in that area. They were traveling over the old road in search of a likely spot to start a new operation when they discovered the woman lying along the road.

It was first believed that she was dead but it was learned that she was still alive and she was rushed to the hospital. Investigation disclosed that she had collapsed on the scene. There were no external injuries. She carried between $30 and $35 with her.

Mrs. Trump's home is near the Hershel Kanour residence at New Liberty. It was believed that she was walking to visit some friends when she suffered the attack.

$4000 Too Much? Jury Here Makes It Just $500 More

The Pennsylvania State Highway Department suffered a set-back in court here Tuesday when a jury, asked by the Department to decrease a claim of $4,000 for road damages, returned a verdict of $4,500 against the department.

C. Frank Clevenstine, of Zion, had been awarded $4,000 damages by a board of view for damage to his farm as the result of the relocation and construction of the Pleasant Gap-Zion highway. The Highway Department, contending that award was excessive, appealed from the ruling of the board of view.

The jury here added another $500 on the board of view's findings.

Some citizens are more worried about the supply of liquor than the supplies on Nettuno beachhead.
