Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

Mr. B. C. Achenbach recently disposed of his bakery and confectionery establishment at State College to Mr. Abraham Miller. He will continue the stand at Bellefonte.

William Lyon, the Bishop street butcher, is having the storeroom in Lyon & Company's building on Allegheny street, put in shape for his meat market. Everything is being put in first class order.

Miss Laura K., daughter of Dr. A. W. Hafer, of Bellefonte, has passed her final examinations in the Pennsylvania Dental College at Philadelphia and will be one of the graduates this year. She expects to practice her profession in her father's office at this place.

Col. Austin Curtin, of Roland, Gen. John I. Curtin and Charles Smith of Bellefonte, have been selected by Gov. Pattison as a portion of the commission of 100 to assist in the location of the troops under the Antietam battlefield so that the positions can be properly marked. The commission will serve without pay and will meet in June.

Last Saturday Ed. Chambers created quite a stir by taking down his sign as Revenue Collector, on the front of his office. It gave the impression that the appointment of a Democratic successor had been made and the Bellefonte applicants became quite uneasy. Later it was learned that Chambers was only having a bit of fun at the other fellows' expense.

The Bellefonte Club, League of American Wheelmen, have a nice meeting place on the second floor of the Centre County Bank building where they have two rooms handsomely furnished. The reading room is supplied with the very best selections of current literature. In another room they have a fine pool table that is a recent addition to their place. The club has a membership of about fifty young men.

The Aaronsburg Reformed charge has secured a pastor, a call having been accepted by Rev. A. W. Brown, of Clinton county, who has entered upon his duties in that charge.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: Charles W. Snyder and Maggie N. Snook, both of Millheim; Newton O. Dreibelbis and Annie B. McWilliams, Ferguson Twp.; Burt Poorman and Blanche Purdue, both of Spring Twp.; Jacob Moyer, Snyder county, and Bertha Harpster, Port Matilda.

All previous records in Pennsylvania if not in the country, were smashed to smithereens when Mrs. David Rosenberger, a farmer's wife, gave birth to five bouncing babies at her home near Kittaning, Monday night. The children, all of whom are well developed and full of animation, are three girls and two boys. They appear to be strong, and the attending physician says that all of them are likely to live and grow up. But the astounded father, who is 40 years old and only five feet tall, has by no means recovered from his surprise, though Mrs. Rosenberger is quite as well as could be expected. "I thought," said Farmer Rosenberger with a sigh to a neighbor, "that we were coming to a time of astonishing pluralities when they began to count up the vote for Grow a week ago. Bye oh, my! I didn't look for anything like this—hard times and five babies at once!"

The Daily Gazette was discontinued with its issue of last Saturday. The present proprietors evidently do not believe that Bellefonte can support two daily publications. The Daily News is being published regularly from the Republican office and continues to give its readers news of the town in good shape.

Only a few weeks remain until the opening of the trout season. It is morally certain that long before that time hundreds of trout will have been captured contrary to law. This section contains a number of trout streams and they should be looked after, and violators of the law prosecuted to the full extent of the law. The penalty for catching trout out of season is severe.

One night last week a prowler gained entrance to the Hunter residence near Fillmore by cutting through the cellar door. He managed to find his way to the second floor where his movements awakened the daughter who gave an alarm. The fellow was in the sleeping apartments, evidently in search of valuables. He made a hasty retreat, falling over furniture and chairs, and got away.

The Bellefonte Council No. 1050, Royal Arcanum, has elected the following officers to serve during the ensuing year: regent, E. F. Garman; vice recent, C. D. Krider; orator, W. A. Lyon; secretary, John C. Miller; colonel, J. K. McFarlane; treasurer, George Van Tries; chaplain, S. C. Showers; guide, H. Holtz; warden, J. A. Aikens; sentinel, John P. Harris; trustees, Charles Smith, H. Holtz, and John Meese.

Rev. James Boal, of the Presbyterian church, who has resided at Centre Hall for a short time, has accepted a call from the Port Carbon, Pa., Presbyterian church. He will leave for there this week . . . Samuel Foster, justice of the peace who has been on the sick list for some time, is not improving. During the past few days he has been confined to his bed and was in a delirious condition. Mr. Foster is well advanced in years and is one of our old and well known citizens.

Some of Bellefonte's sportsmen recently organized a gun club and last Friday they had their first outing, consisting of a shoot on Halfmoon Hill. About eight live pigeons were released and one-half of them were killed. The balance of the day was put in banging away at blue rocks, clay pigeons. Those who participated were: W. H. Hughes, of Williamsport; J. M. Ward, of New York City; and Frank Warfield, John Lane, John Furst, Thomas Morris, George Jackson, George Meek, Harry Valentine and Mr. Terry.

The P. O. S. of A. camp No. 447 and 639 of Bellefonte and the furnace, had two flags placed on school buildings last Friday. The first flag was raised at the school building in Spring township taught by J. H. Dilligher. The exercises were interspersed with speeches and martial music by Bellefonte's drum corps. The oration of the day was delivered by John G. Love, who spoke in an eloquent strain. These exercises over, the procession marched to Coleville where another flag was raised over the primary school taught by Miss Barnhart. Mr. Love made a brief address at this place.

Twenty Years Ago

Mrs. J. L. Montgomery, who had sold her home on North Allegheny street to the Presbyterian church for use as a manse, was preparing to move her possessions to the Bush House.

Ray White, of Bellefonte, purchased the drug business of the late J. S. Zellers, and was to operate the store under the name of J. Zeller & Son, with a view of perpetuating the name of his employer.

Measles were rampant in Blanchard and throughout Liberty township, and some of the cases were reported to be serious. Seven members of the John Hoy family were ill at the same time and two of them were in serious condition for several days.

W. H. Macker, former Bellefonte taxi man who was located in Miami, Florida, wrote that among the Centre countians he had seen in recent weeks were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smeltzer, of near Bellefonte; Mrs. Satterfield, of Bellefonte, and L. H. Musser, all of Bellefonte, who were in the south to spend a part of the winter.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: William Guy Carver and Margaret L. Beam, both of Clarence; Blair McCloskey, Clarence, and Thelma Moore, of Snow Shoe; Miles O. Campbell and Dorothy C. Coble, both of State College; Jay M. Burke, Pittsburgh, and Virgie V. Bundy, Bellefonte; Clarence E. Thompson and Leona A. Howell, both of Snow Shoe; Fred D. Miller, Howard, and Alma S. Stricker, of Blanchard.

T. Clayton Brown secured a three-year lease on the Opera House recently purchased by the Bellefonte Moose Lodge.

Philip Beezer, of Bellefonte, suffered a second attack of paralysis and was reported to be in critical condition at his home on Bishop street.

Theodore Haupt, foreman of the construction crew engaged in remodeling the Opera House, for the local Moose Lodge, went to Harrisburg to consult architects in regard to a difficult part of the operations. The work was scheduled for completion by April 1.

Miss Gertrude Kane of Bellefonte went to Oil City to be with her aunt, Miss Maggie Kane, who was in critical condition as the result of a fall in which she fractured her hip. Miss Maggie Kane was a sister of the late James Kane, of Bellefonte, and was 81 years old.

Thieves looted the Angelo Genua shoe repair shop on Water street of $150 in cash and a quantity of cigars, cigarettes and tobaccos. Entrance was gained by smashing a small window in the basement. Police suspected the place was robbed by someone familiar with the shop.

Centre county was due for a poor spring sale season if prices paid at the J. E. Houtz farm in Halfmoon township were any indication. Two cows at the sale brought only $45, the animals being sold together. One horse brought $5 while another was bid up to $60. A binder, almost new, was bid to 50 cents but Mr. Houtz would not let it go at that figure. A two-horse wagon and a corn worker brought $1.25. A 100-pound sow was auctioned off at $5. A fair-sized crowd attended the sale, but there was just no demand for the goods.

An explosion of gas in the furnace at the Decker Brothers Garage on Water street, caused a fire which resulted in the destruction of the building and a number of automobiles. Total loss was estimated at $30,000. Ten automobiles, four of them new ones, were damaged beyond repair. Accessories valued at $5,000 also were lost. Workmen were at their duties in the garage when the furnace doors burst open and red hot coal scattered over the wood floor. One mechanic, Earl Houck, brother of the manager Jack Houck, was slightly burned when he attempted to drive one of the cars from the building. Fortunately a new garage was under construction by Decker Brothers, and work was to be rushed on that building so that the business could continue without interruption.

The William S. Katz store, which had undergone extensive remodeling, was re-opened on a small scale while workmen completed their task.

Mrs. C. D. Tanner, of Bellefonte, had leased the small store room in the Tate building on West High street, and expected to open a cut-rate drug store there.

Sheriff "Dick" Taylor and deputies John Garis, Gottlieb Haag, Jacob Knisely, Jr., and a Mr. Corman went to Pittsburgh to take four prisoners to the Western Penitentiary.

Miss Ethel Dale, a teacher in the schools of Central City, Colo., arrived in Bellefonte to spend her annual spring vacation with her parents, Attorney and Mrs. Clement Dale. Mr. Dale, who had been quite ill for a time, was recovering steadily.

A small irregular piece of wood on display in the window of the C. F. Tate plumbing shop had caused so many questions by pedestrians that Mr. Tate explained that although the article resembled the body of a cat, it actually was only a piece of petrified wood which he had found while hunting on Purdue Mountain.

Robert Garman, son of Robert Garman, Sr., and nephew of Mrs. Rebecca Cruse of Bellefonte, was elected president of his class at Mercersburg Academy. He also was head cheer leader at the Academy, a member of the Student Senate and vice president of the Literary Society. Among his classmates were the Coolidge boys, sons of President Coolidge.

Two men were killed on the Pennsylvania Railroad near the plant of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company at Philipsburg, presumably having been run down by a northbound freight train. Discovery of the mangled bodies was made by Ernest Raybould, Harbison-Walker employe, who was walking in the darkness to work. He kicked a shoe and then discovered the two bodies, lying between the rails. One man was identified as James Manion, aged about 49, of New York City. The other was James J. Deacon, 29, Philadelphia. Both of Deacon's legs were severed, one at the ankle and the other above the knee, and he suffered a fractured skull. The other man's right leg was severed at the ankle and at the thigh, both arms were badly crushed and he had crush injuries of the chest.

ORVISTON

There were 88 present at Sunday school.

Verna Shank of Tyrone, spent the weekend with her father, A. M. Shank.

The community was very sorry to hear of the death of Harvey Watkins at the County Home this Monday morning. Mr. Watkins had lived in Orviston most of the time since the town was founded and had a host of friends who offer their sympathy to his family.

JULIAN

The community has been saddened by the news of the passing on of two of its prominent citizens. We will greatly miss Alfred Rowan, Sr. and Mrs. Minerva Harris. They both lived a life which contributed much to the betterment of the community. The many friends of both families wish to extend sincere sympathies.

Mrs. John Weller has returned home from Philadelphia where she was a surgical patient for some time.

The young people's community party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gill last week. All report a very enjoyable evening. Refreshments and group games were enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gill of Chester, were weekend visitors among friends and relatives in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Nearhoof visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Williams over the weekend. Kyle returned home to report to his local draft board.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donnely and family of Chester, were weekend visitors at the homes of John Weller and Charley Donnely.

The ladies of the M. E. church spent a busy day last week making doughnuts and selling them in the community. They report that the project was a success and are looking forward to more sales in the future.

The many friends of Colonel Andrews are sorry to hear of his serious illness. His son, Delaun has just returned from paying him a visit in Turtle Creek and states that arrangements are being made to return him to his home. We all wish him a speedy recovery.
