The Pittsburgh Gazette

MISE.

My heart has wandered in the chilly air,
Circling around my Lady's gentle frame,
Which ever sweetly glowed, yea glowed the more
When I was near, and warm in dumb desiring.
I turned away to case the pain wrought there;
Alas poor heart! 'twould struggle hard to tame
The wildered love it bore my Lady fair.
How fearful thrilled the sound of her dear accent!
But, I have felt a happiness, to day
Answer as all was bitter, and a balm
Has soothed my cruel wounds; a gentle play
Of thought is in me, a dear delicious calm;
For I have seen the love light sweetly shine
While her bright eyes were trembling into mine.

NEWS FROM ABROAD.

—Thirty deaths per diem is the horrid record of the cholera in St. Domingo City.

—Plays with English titles are now figuring largely at Paris theatres, and seem to be popular enough.

—The new Record building in London is said to be the only absolutely fire-proof structure in England.

—The Merchants' and Commercial Banks of Montreal have amalgamated, and are hereafter to be known as the Merchants' Bank of Canada.

Dr. Carl Hugen, one of the most illustrious of German historians, is dead. At the time of his demise he was Professor of History at the University of Berne.

—The boiling down of meat for exportation has become a very important branch of Australian trade, and bids fair to become the most important before very long.

—The Suez Canal is to be finished in October, 1869. The total cost will be $77,000,000. Several steam navigation companies are already negotiating for landings at Port Said.

—In mercantile shipping Great Britain is at the head of the list, rating 7,000,000 tons. America follows with 5,000,000 tons. Germany is third and France comes up slowly a bad fourth.

—President Cabral and his Cabinet have fled from St. Domingo to Venezuela. What a blessing it would be if a certain other President and part of his Cabinet would follow President Cabral.

—On the 19th of February the Crown Princess of Prussia presented her people, that are to be, with a fine healthy Prince. The family of the Princess is already nearly as large as that of her august mother.

—London has at last to succumb to the pressure for street railways. Like every other American idea, this one has first been hooted at, then attributed to the inventive brain of some Englishman, and at last adopted.

—London is tired of having the huge droves of Dutch cattle parading the streets, and is about to have a foreign cattle market located besides the Thames, where they can be sold immediately on importation.

—A London tailor who has purchased the right of calling himself Court tailor to the Prince of Wales, has given notice that he will make clothes for no man who does not belong to a family of position or standing in the country.

—In America, champagne is cider. In England, champagne is gooseberry wine. At a late grand ball given by the Mayor of Liverpool, ninety-seven dozen of this delectable fluid disappeared down the throats of happy Englishmen.

—In 1867 the papers of England and Wales, exclusive of lunatic poor, and vagrants, increased 86,885, and the English journals think that the present state of that country gives reasons for expecting a still further increase this year.

—Two young girls were recently brought before the Staffordshire assizes, who could neither read nor write, had never heard of either God or the Bible, and had never been at school or chapel. They were scullions on board of canal boats.

—Mr. Hodgkin, an English member of Parliament, has made a speech ridiculing the Pan-Anglican Convention, and particularly the idea of inviting American Bishops to assist in it. The Honorable member is letting his spite and envy of things American carry him out of his depth.

—The new flag of the German Confederation is rather oblong in shape and has a white ground with a black cross which divides it into four equal parts. Three of these parts are white, the fourth being the upper left hand corner, is striped with red. The arms of the black cross do not unite in the centre, but enclose a round white medallion in the centre of which is the black eagle of Prussia.

—The mercantile marine of Italy is remarkably diminutive in comparison to that of other countries. In spite of a fine stretch of sea coast and good harbors, there is no perceptible advance in this particular. France, England and Austria are the largest consumers of her products, and do most of her carrying. Railways are now being rapidly completed, which will develop large tracts of country heretofore only accessible by tedious journeys from the sea coast. The Pope has refused to render the coin of the States of the Church similar to that of the surrounding kingdom, and much monetary confusion is the natural result. Italy is evidently not yet a land of very great progress.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—A citizen of Cherokee county, Texas, says in a letter to the Houston Journal. "The freedmen of this county are respectfully industrious. The whites are at work and economizing. Many are marrying and giving in marriage, and seem determined to replenish the earth, in obedience to the divine edict. The farmers of this county will plant but little cotton this year, turning their attention to the producing of the cereals, raising hogs, horses, etc. Cherokee county presents an inviting field for immigrants this year. Corn is selling at 40c, potatoes at 25c, pork at 5c, and other provisions in proportion. The best land unimproved can be bought on accommodating terms, at from one to three dollars per acre, and improved farms at from two to six dollars per acre; and plenty of farms to rent for the year 1868, to good industrious white men."

—New Albany has a negro who, a few years ago, commenced turning white and has continued so doing ever since. He seems to be in perfect health, but the black skin shrivels up and drops off, leaving a white clear one below. More than one-half of his body is now covered with a skin such as, for color and delicacy, any white man might be proud of.

—Major R. W. Pierce, a gentleman who divides his time and his voice between Louisiana and Alabama, is devoting his time at present to the writing of articles urging the whole southern population, with white skins, to emigrate to Honduras. Why he picks out that particular place of territory we don't know, unless it is because no one else ever did.

—We are requested, by an exchange to copy the following:

If this should meet the eye of Augustus, a printer, he is earnestly requested to return to his home in Ohio, immediately, and relieve the anxieties of a distressed family.

—The South is a good place to invest spare shinplasters in now. Fractional currency will buy what greenbacks do up north. 165 acres of ground in Tallahatchie county, Miss., sold for five cents an acre.

—Mr. Jones, proprietor of a saw mill in Michigan, met with rather a disagreeable accident recently. He was sawed in two and they buried him the next day.

—All the London police stations are provided with bullet proof iron shutters, and an assortment of small arms and ammunition, all on account of the Fenians.
