BOUND TO HAVE FUN.

A Gay Crowd at the Homewood Track Determine to Have Some SPORT IN SPITE OF THE WEATHER.

Hot Race Between Mustangs Ridden by Police Officials.

THE BAY BEATS THE GRAY BY A NOSE

Threatening skies and a humid atmosphere could not crush the spirits of the 1,500 good fellows who went out to Homewood yesterday afternoon to witness the events of the third day of the Grand Circuit meeting. The track was muddy and slippery, and the monotony of the yellow soil and the gray sky, while it was broken, was not relieved by the bright hues of the Stars and Stripes fluttering from the flagstaff, or the cheerful strains of the Great Western Band.

Nevertheless, everyone was happy, while anxious that the sport should go on. The countenances of the association officials were closely scanned, but their features showed nothing but a moody thoughtfulness that was not encouraging. The track was being smoothed off, and two or three trotters, driven by dyspeptic-looking individuals, were slowly moving around the circle. Herdic leaned over his auction stand and conversed cheerfully with friends, the fact that he would have no pools to sell not worrying him in the least. He realized that for one day he could give his nimble tongue a rest, and would not have to furnish bail for pool-selling before he ate his breakfast in the morning.

HAD SOME FUN.

Mayor Gourley, of Pittsburg, and Mayor Wyman, of Allegheny, were at the track; the former because he is fond of horses, anyway, and the latter to see his former property, Kinsman, pace in the 2:23 race. Among the others present were W. D. Porter, Esq., ex-District Attorney; City Solicitor Elphinstone, Chief Murphy and Health Officer Bradley, and Councilman William Bader, of Allegheny. In fact, it appeared to be Allegheny's day.

"Well, we've got to have some fun, anyway—races or no races," said one man to another, and the sentiment was quickly taken up and passed around. This may have acted as an incentive to Detective Fitzgerald and Inspector Whitehouse, as they immediately challenged each other to a mile race on mustangs. Inspector Whitehouse owned one of the animals, with a wicked eye, the backbone of a snake and a bay coat. A gray mustang, owner unknown, was tied to a fence, and Fitzgerald mounted it and rode out on the track, closely followed by Whitehouse.

RIDING TO WIN.

They started on even terms, Fitzgerald keeping well on the gray's neck to keep him from rearing, while Whitehouse sat well back, so that in case of his horse bucking he might be able to get a hold before he passed over its ears.

Bay and gray ran side by side to the quarter, and at the half both were whipping. A man who had a stop watch said the half was done in 1:02¾, but later confessed that his watch was out of repair and could not be relied upon to a minute. At the three-quarters the bay led, the Inspector taking his seat amidships on the animal's back, and thereby securing a more even keel. Fitzgerald was pushing the gray, which was throwing up clods of mud until the horizon had the appearance of hammered brass.

The racers wheeled together into the stretch side by side and made a brilliant race to the wire. The band left McGinty at the bottom of the sea and joined the throng that rushed to the fence. Excited individuals with fat pocketbooks offered "8 to 5 on the bay, bucking barred," which was accepted by men whose countenances were crevassed by emotion as they made the proviso that "if the gray falls dead before she reaches the wire this bet don't go."

A TERRIBLE STRAIN.

On they came. Strong men held their breath, which was in itself a test of strength in many cases; small boys yelled, and Officer Crossan, the embodiment of calm suavity, unbent for once, and cheered the riders. At the last furlong both horses were coming under the whip, the bay a nose ahead. Fitzgerald was riding the gray to win, and fearlessly kept his horse from falling down by taking a firm clinch around its neck. The Inspector had no time to get a hold on the bay, so simply used the whip in the hope that the animal would the sooner run down. Just as the horses reached the wire the bay, which had apparently been there before, stretched its neck and thrust out its tongue, winning by 3½ inches. Several hundred dollars changed hands on the race.

Just about this time President Kerr announced that the races were off for the day, the track being so heavy that the drivers refused to bring out their horses. The races would be run to-day (Friday) regardless of the weather.

Then the crowd prepared to go home, but a gay crowd who wanted action for their money determined to have one more event before they went. They got together eight or nine boys and entered them in a 60-yard dash. The son of Driver Pridmore was at once made a favorite against the field, and sustained his backers' judgment by winning handily. Several hundred dollars were staked on the result.

Then everybody went home, but none appeared to regret that they had gone out.

After Herdic's Scalp.

Thomas R. Kerr, President of the Homewood Driving Park, gave ball yesterday in $800 each for Frank Herdic, Samuel English, and Harry Johnson. They will have a hearing to-day on a charge of pool-selling.

NOT EXACTLY CRAZY.

An Attempt to Clear a Murderer on the Plea of Insanity Fails—The Jury Didn't Think He Was Proven of Unsound Mind—He Must Stand Trial.

An inquest as to the sanity of Frank Gerade was held in the Criminal Court yesterday before Judges Collier and Slagle. On March 15 Gerade murdered his 9-year-old stepdaughter at his home on Shady Lane, Allegheny. He grasped her by the legs and dashed her brains out against the side of a cradle standing in the room. Mrs. Gerade ran from the house and told the neighbors of the occurrence. When the police arrived they found the body of the child on the floor and Gerade in the cellar, with a butcher knife in his hands. He was overpowered and placed under arrest. His trial was fixed for yesterday, but when he was arraigned his attorney, J. C. Dicken, made a special plea. He claimed that Gerade is now insane and incapable of making a defense, and asked that a jury be impaneled to inquire into his sanity. A jury was obtained, and the inquisition commenced.

Dr. Chessrown, jail physician, was the first witness called. He stated that he had seen Gerade every day in jail, for the last four months. From his actions and appearance, he thought he was insane. At times he would not eat, and would not wear his shoes. Dr. McCord testified that he had examined Gerade once, and from his conduct thought him insane. He had only been with him 20 minutes. Jailers Marshall, Price and Irwin gave it as their opinion that Gerode was insane. When he was brought to jail he looked as if he had been on a spree. He has refused to talk to them, and for a time refused to eat or take his daily exercise.

Dr. Wylie was placed on the stand for the prosecution. He was formerly a physician at Dixmont. He said he would not be able to say a man was insane, after but a 25-minutes' examination, and it was often hard to distinguish between real and pretended insanity. Dr. J. Guy McCandless gave similar testimony.

District Attorney Johnston maintained that Gerade was sane, and that because a man refused to eat or wear his shoes occasionally, under the circumstances, did not make him a lunatic. Attorney Dicken argued from the testimony, etc., that Gerade was insane, and asked the jury to so find.

Judge Slagle charged the jury briefly, saying that they were only to find whether or not Gerade was now insane, not if he was so at the time of the crime. If insane he would probably be sent to an asylum, and would not be tried until, if he ever did, he recovered his sanity. The jury was out but a brief time, and returned a verdict to the effect that they found Gerade to be sane. Gerade was remanded to jail, and his trial for murder fixed for next Thursday.

SAVED CONSIDERABLE TIME.

A Man Accused of Receiving Stolen Goods Pleads Guilty.

The case of Philip Spealer, charged with receiving stolen goods, was put on trial before Judge Collier yesterday afternoon. Spealer's wife and daughter were convicted two weeks ago for stealing a lot of goods from Porter & Donalson. Judge Collier is anxious to have this case finished, and ordered a night session, so that the case could be ended.

When court reconvened in the evening, the case had proceeded but a short time when Spealer was placed on the stand and pleaded guilty. He was remanded to jail for sentence and court adjourned.

Must Pay the Costs.

Judge Acheson, in the United States District Court, yesterday refused to open a case for argument on the question of costs. The case was that of some deckhands of the steamboat Twilight, who refused to pull out ashes and were discharged from the boat. The deckhands demanded pay for the entire trip, but the court only allowed them wages for the time they actually worked. The costs in the case were assessed against the libelants, and they protested that the costs should be placed on the defendants.

Wants $5,000 for a Broken Leg.

Alexander Cantley filed a suit yesterday against William H. Barnes, receiver of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, for $5,000 damages. Mr. Cantler alleges that on the 15th of last March he was working at Shoenberger's mill loading pig iron on a car. There was a plank leading from the ground to the car, and, while walking up this plank with a load, he alleges, although the trainmen had been notified not to move the train as the car was not loaded, and the plaintiff's leg was broken at the left ankle.

To-Day's Trial List.

Criminal Court—Commonwealth vs. Joseph Fairbaugh, Catherine Burns (2), Sol Coulson, Benjamin Lawson, Nellie Wallace (2), Louisa Crangelow.

Notes From the Courts.

THE jury in the case of John Brecken, charged with assault on Bessie Bryan, was yesterday discharged, having been unable to agree.

THARIAN ACKERMAN and George Altwater were placed on trial before Judge Slagle yesterday for burglary. The case is still on.

THE Fourth National Bank of New York, yesterday, entered suit against J. F. Sadler & Co., to recover $5,000 on a promissory note given in 1884.

ROGER HARTLEY, yesterday, entered a suit in ejectment against William P. Marshall, to obtain possession of a lot in the Fourth ward, Allegheny, the title to which, he claims, is vested in him and not in Marshall.

LADIES,

See to Your Furs.

Before leaving for the seashore or mountains, would it not be wise to take a sly peep at your seal garments? They possibly need repairing, changing or renovating after being packed away so long. If they do, now is the best time to have it done. We can do our work much better and cheaper than later in the season.
