RIVER NEWS.

The weather, although oppressively hot, was comparatively pleasant, the thermometer only reaching 95 in the shade, against 101 on Sunday. The river business in this locality is confined altogether to the Monongahela packets.

The little steamer J. L. Graham, formerly a Pittsburgh boat, was sold at Louisville the other day for $4,000.

The New Orleans papers say that Capt. J. Stutt Neal will run his low-pressure steamer in the Memphis and New Orleans trade.

Portland bar continues to be a formidable obstruction to navigation. Four and a half feet in the water in the channel over the bar was reported on Saturday.

—The following returns of passenger receipts by steamer have been made at St. Louis before the United States Assessors: Schuler, $1,741; Illinois, $2,074; City of Pekin, $1,654; Post Boy, $1,268; Clara, $1,176; Jennie Lewis, $1,208; Andy Johnson, $2,718; J. H. Johnson, $2,541; Rob Roy, $2,611; Tom Jasper, $3,599; Mollie McPike, $993; Lizzie Gill, $1,164; Bismark, $3,651; Stonewall, $1,734.

—We clip the following from the St. Louis Republican, of Tuesday: The argument on the motion to admit to bail Capt. Sam. Barr, Jr., implicated as an accessory to the murder of Henry Anderson, was concluded before Judge Primm yesterday. Johnson and Mauro argued against the motion, and Mr. Shreve for it. The Judge delivered a lengthy opinion, quoting from his own decision in the similar case of Geo. Starr, who was bailed while an indictment for murder was pending against him. The Judge said the Supreme Court had never decided a case of this kind, and the inferior courts were left to their own course. The law does not say that murder is not a bailable offense; nor is an indictment prima facie evidence of guilt. When bail is asked, the facts elicited by the preliminary examination must be taken into consideration, and the court can not hear new testimony on a case of this kind. He fixed the bail at $20,000, and Capt. W. H. Thorwegan and Capt. Dan. Able became the securities.

—A Louisville special to the Cincinnati Commercial says: The first low-pressure steamer of the Mississippi Valley Navigation Company, under the plans of Captain De Haven, is now under contract. The building committee, representing the cities of New Orleans, Memphis, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, and Madison, have, upon mature, deliberation, awarded the contracts in this city for the hull, machinery and upper works. The engines are to be designed and built by John B. Davies, of the Washington Foundry, and the monster hull and upper works by the firm of Stuart, Barmore & Co., Jeffersonville. This company is represented by all sections, with a vast amount of actual cash capital invested, to insure the completion of several boats. The stockholders include the best practical mechanics, skillful boatmen, active financiers, and wealthy speculators of various kinds, all of whom are fully impressed, not only with the importance of the project, but of its triumphant success. Captain De Haven and Commodore J. Ed. Montgomery, as agitators and prime movers in this gigantic enterprise, are now more sanguine than ever of the triumph of the grand enterprise.
