Saving the Leaves.

We [illegible] at this moment to call the attention of [illegible] to the following hint taken from Downing's Horticulturist. After several years experience, the editor of the Germantown Telegraph says he has especially for small fruits discovered leaves to be peculiarly accumulative—and as the raspberry, currant, gooseberry, blackberry, [illegible] &c. He says: [illegible] weeds, grass to be seen about them.—The Horticulturist [illegible]

SAVE THE DEAD LEAVES.—Very few farmers could be guilty of so foolish a thing as to waste [illegible] If they are almost all gone [illegible] We make [illegible] of the leaves the fall at this season of the year from [illegible] and sumachs on all sides. Every hostler [illegible] leaves—which contain no only the [illegible] but the earthy salts, [illegible] for the next [illegible] leaves to be swept away by every wind that blows and finally be lost altogether.

A wise husbandman will diligently collect, week to week, the leaves that fall on his premises and by [illegible] where they will do any good [illegible] to the cheapest manner, [illegible] this time. I remain very [illegible] the value of the leaves [illegible] the richest compost for a supply bearing [illegible] every foot of [illegible] that is planted off each year, or [illegible] from them at the end of [illegible] the leaves that [illegible] carefully saved and dug in beneath the surface of the soil. One single year's experience of the good results will be sufficient to induce him to continue the practice.

Sowing Grass Seed.

I see a communication in your paper of the 8th inst., in regard to sowing grass seed, signed by "A Peddle I Farmer," in which he recommends sowing one bushel of timothy seed and twelve pounds of clover seed per acre. He also says "I formerly lived in Pa. I have been personally acquainted with farming for at least the length of time, and have lost no sale under experience in sowing and raising grass, especially timothy, and have always found when I sowed a peck to the acre the grass was sufficiently thick, and some times as thick as I wished for a meadow, and I believe that one bushel to every five acres, is more than enough."

He does not inform us what time he sows the grass seed, or whether in the fall, or early winter or early spring. If he sows it in the spring, and after there has been rain enough to pack the ground, I believe he might save a bushel to the acre and find it none too much, as the seed has been too solid, and the seed does not get sufficiently covered to grow; or should it sprout it will scald due. It should be always sown immediately after the grain is harrowed in, and it should have a light harrowing after. I think it is all the better.

But the best way I have found to raise good timothy, is to put your ground in good order the same as you would for wheat, and harrow very fine, and then the beginning of September, sow one bushel of timothy seed to four and a half or five acres, and plow light harrow after.—Cor. Germantown Telegraph.

Cultivating Peach Trees.

A correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph, gives the manner in which he treats his peach trees, and concludes by thanks himself wiser than his neighbors in consequence of the experience thus he proves to be successful. He says:

The trees, 1,300 in number, I purchased of Mr. J. Perkins, Fairview Nursery, Moorestown, N. J. I planted them sixteen feet each way, two inches deeper than what they stood in the nursery. I preferred planting in the fall.

The first summer I cultivated vegetables among the trees, and was careful to keep the ground loose and mellow around the trees, by frequent plowing & hoeing. The second winter I shortened in all the trees, by cutting off half the last year's growth.—About the first of March, I took a light plow, and ran it around each row of trees and threw a furrow from them. About the first of April I had a man to scrape the ground from the roots with a hoe; I then got down upon my knees with a long bladed knife, examined the bark; and if I chanced to find a worm I had him out. The third season I hoed and applied 1 oz. of saltpetre and 1 oz. of salt to each tree, around the stem and roots. When this was done, I took a light plow and threw the dirt back again to the roots.

About the first week in May, I took 4 gallons of warm water and one quart of soft soap when dissolved; I then set it with a hand brush, and scrubbed the stems from the ground to the limbs. The first week in August I again examined each tree and killed every worm I found. Lost, on this season repeated the same operation, and found but few worms. In the three having the yellows or looking unhealthy. The trees themselves are in prime for there cannot be found a healthier, and more flourishing orchard. As I said, so say those who have seen the orchard in June by a [illegible] Below the Stock any of our readers [illegible] any way of the [illegible] and if to be them benefit, as they may rely [illegible]

We have not a doubt of the efficacy of this mode of treatment, and that it will be found to be worthy of adoption by all who may desire successfully to cultivate the peach, either for the market or home use.

Hogs.—The American Farmer says: "when you hogs [illegible] know [illegible] their ears [illegible] and then look all sulphur. It is [illegible] the hog to perfect health."

Another Rescue by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup.

I was on the verge of the grave, and so far gone that I my friends and myself had lost all hopes of my recovery; and when in this situation, having been recommended by the use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, I desire to testify, with grateful emotion to Dr. Schenck, the unexpected benefit I have received from the use of this invaluable medicine.

Early last fall, I contracted a violent cold, and in consequence of which I had chills, alternated with fever, pains in my right breast and shoulder blade, with a bad cough, and no expectoration. I kept getting worse until I took my bed, and had the attendance of my family physician. I was under his care about four weeks and in the expiration of that time was reduced so low that despair took hold of myself and friends, and even my physician abandoned me and gave me up to die with the hasty consumption. My appetite was gone, my bowels very irregular, fever and night-sweats upon me, in my breast and shoulder, attended with a distressing cough, which was very tight; my flesh had nearly all gone, and was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head from the pillow, and was truly an object of pity to behold. My friends had been sent for to see me die, and my sick bed was surrounded by sad and sympathizing neighbors, who had come to witness my departure from this world.

When all rays of hope had fled of my recovery, a neighbor, Mr. David Conrad, proposed to try Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, with a view of loosening my cough and relieving me of the tough phlegm, and as a means of affording temporary relief, remarking at the time, that I was too far gone for the Syrup to be of any permanent benefit." My wife, anxious for the relief of my intense sufferings, procured some of the Pulmonic Syrup. I found it afforded me relief, and continued using it. I could feel its healing influence in my lungs.

I continued to improve under its use, and my friends were much gratified to witness my unexpected improvement; many of my neighbors came to look at me as one raised from the dead.

My cough was become loose, and I felt something loosening in my breast. I had the pain in my breast, and I discharged large quantities of yellow matter. I have at times discharged and raised a spit box full of matter in a day, which had lumps like grains of something. My bowels now became regular and natural, and my appetite was so far improved, that I could scarcely refrain from eating too much. My strength improved, I regained my flesh.

I continued to improve in every respect soon after I commenced using the Syrup, and the improvement of my mind was restored to my health. I have passed through the bleakest weather of the latter part of winter and the spring, and feel as well now as ever I did in my life, and I am this day a living testimony of the great efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup in curing pulmonary diseases.

I desire its extensive introduction, and have no doubt but many people, I see by the certificates of a number of the citizens of Troy, who saw me at different times during my disease, and never expected to see me restored. I also refer to the certificate of the brothers of Mystic Lodge, No. 270, I. O. of O. F., who kindly watched over me, and fully believed they would consign me to the tomb; but, thanks to Dr. Schenck for his invaluable Pulmonic Syrup, my life has been spared, and I am prompted to make the foregoing statement for the benefit of suffering mankind.

I live at Troy, and am well known by most of the people there, and will be pleased to have any person call upon me and learn more of the particulars of this medicine. JOHN C. GREEN.

June 21d, 1851.

The undersigned members of the Mystic Lodge, No. 270, I. O. of O. F. of Hollidaysburg, Pa. do here verify that we know John C. Green (and he is a member in good standing in No. 270 I. O. of O. F.) who was dangerously ill with a low Pulmonary Consumption, last winter, to be the same [illegible] and we believe he now fully restored to perfect health, and that he has taken Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup.

We believe his certificate is correct in every particular.

The undersigned, residents of Tacony, eight miles above Philadelphia, being well acquainted with John C. Green, and the circumstances attending his case, feel impelled by a deep sense of imperative duty, to make universally known to the public his entire recovery from the very last stages of Pulmonary Consumption. Short of his decease was his condition, having been but a brief period since in that rapidly sinking and emaciate state, as to utterly preclude, in the opinion of his physicians and friends, who watched by his bedside, all hopes of even a temporary recovery and restoration to his present robust health. He has the cheerful to ascribe your invaluable Specific, the Pulmonic Syrup, under the circumstances of his previous prostrate, not to say dying condition, one of the most startling results that the whole annals of medical science can produce. It decreases to be impressibly recorded to your credit, and secure to you, the great discoverer of this hitherto remediless disease, a lasting monument and a world-wide reputation in the healing art, that no time may either diminish or destroy. Having witnessed Mr. Green's distressing struggles and sufferings from a continued cough, superadded to the other symptoms consequent upon, or attending to the last stages of a pulmonary disease; and moreover, it being so generally believed by his numerous friends that no human power could relieve, or protract his life, much less restore him back again to his former health, we feel it thus our duty to give our unbidded testimony to Mr. Green's perfect recovery by means of the exclusive use of your wonderful Syrup; and we should indeed rejoice if we could be made the humble instruments of relief and cure to others who may be so unfortunate as to be similarly afflicted.

$500 CHALLENGE!

WHATEVER concerns the health and happiness of a people, is of all times of the most valuable importance. I take it for granted that every person will do all in their power to save the lives of their children, and that every person will endeavor to promote their own health at all sacrifices. I feel it to be my duty solemnly to assure you that WORMS, according to the opinion of the most celebrated physicians are the primary causes of a large majority of diseases to which children and adults are liable: if you have an appetite continually changing from one kind of food to another, bad breath, pain in the stomach, picking at the nose, hardness and fullness of the belly, dry cough, slow fever, pulse irregular—remember that all these denote Worms, and you should at once apply the remedy:

Hebenstreit's Worm Syrup.

An article founded upon scientific principles, compounded with purely vegetable substances, being perfectly safe when taken, and determined in all its effects and not leaving the system in a diseased condition, as is not advertised nostrums, composed of Calomel, for the removal of Worms, such as Lozenges, Vermifuges, &c., but has performed the most astonishing cures, and saved the lives of Thousands, both young and old, who have been pronounced hopeless—incurable by Physicians. Read the following, and become convinced of its efficacy over all others:

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

OF all the numerous medicines extant, (and some of them valuable) for the cure of pulmonary complaints, nothing has ever been found which could compare in its effects with this Preparation. Others cure sometimes, but at all times and in all diseases of the lungs and throat where medicine can give relief, this will do it. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe in accordance with the directions. We do not advertise for the information of those who have tried it but those who have not. Families that have known its value will not be without it, and by its timely use they are secure from the dangerous consequences of Coughs and Colds which neglected, often lead to fatal consumption.

The Diploma of the Massachusetts Institute was awarded to this preparation by the Board of Judges in September 1847; also, the Medals of the three great Institutes of Art, in this country; also the Diploma of the Ohio Institute at Cincinnati, has been given to the CHERRY PECTORAL, by their Government in consideration of its extraordinary excellence and usefulness in curing affections of the Lungs and Throat.

Read the following opinion founded on the long experience of the eminent Physician of the Port and City of Dr J. Ayer: St. Jonns, May 8, 1851.

Five years trial of your Cherry Pectoral in my practice, has proven what I have now from its composition it will be true, that it eradicates and cures the coughs and colds to which we, in this section, are peculiarly liable. I think it is equal to any remedy for the disease, I do not know how a better remedy can be made for the distresses of the throat and lungs.

J. J. BOWNS, M.D., F.R.S.

See what it has done on a wasted constitution, not only in the following case, but a thousand more:

Dr. Ayer: SUNBURY, Jan. 21, 1852.

In the month of July last, I was attacked by a violent diarrhoea in the mines of California. I returned to San Francisco in hope of receiving benefit from a change of climate and diet.—My diarrhoea ceased but was followed by a severe cough—and much soreness. I finally started for home, but received no benefit from it on the voyage. My cough continued to grow worse and when I arrived in New York, I was at once marked by my acquaintances as a victim of consumption. I must confess that I had no sufficient reason to doubt what my friends all believed. At this time I commenced taking your truly invaluable medicine with little expectation of deriving any benefit from its use. You would not receive these lines and I not regard it a duty to state to the afflicted, through you that my health in the space of eight weeks is fully restored. I attribute it to the use of your CHERRY PECTORAL. Yours truly,

WILLIAM W. SMITH.

WASHINGTON, Pa. April 2, 1848.

Dear Sir: Feeling that I have been spared from a premature grave, through your instrumentality by the providence of God, I will take the liberty to express my gratitude.

Cough, and the alarming symptoms of Consumption had reduced me too low to leave me anything like hope, when my physician brought me a bottle of your "Cherry Pectoral." I procured it and immediately relished, and in a few weeks time I considered me to sound health.

If will do as much for others as it has done for me you are certainly [illegible] to know this.

He has also attached to his establishment a carefully selected stock of

and is thus enabled to furnish and make up in the best manner, and at the shortest notice, every article in his line of business.

He is confident that from his long experience in trade he can give general satisfaction. Being young but the most expert workman in the county, his work will not suffer by comparison with the best city shops, either in excellence of workmanship or elegance of style; and his constant attention to business, to merit a share of the liberal patronage which has been extended to him heretofore.

Returning sincere thanks for past favors, he asks the public to give him a call and see for themselves. ☞ Don't forget the place

Three Doors South of Brick Row.

☞ CUTTING done to measure and warranted to fit, or ready made up. G. H. BUNTING.

Attention Regiment!

MAKE READY! TAKE AIM! FIRE!
