Saturday Morning, July 4, 1863.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR HOLDING THE UNION STATE CONVENTION.

To the Editors of the Telegraph:

PHILADELPHIA, June 24, 1863.

At a meeting of the Union State Central Committee, held in this city to day, it was resolved to extend the time for holding the Union State Convention at Pittsburg, from July 1st to August 5th.

The following is the resolution adopted, providing for this extension:

Resolved, That in the present emergency, while many delegates to the Union State Convention are engaged in the military service, and cannot be present at the meeting appointed to be held at Pittsburg on the 1st of July next, it is deemed expedient to postpone the Convention until Wednesday, the 5th day of August next, at 11 o'clock, A. M., and it is hereby postponed until that time.

Editors of the different Union newspapers throughout the Commonwealth, will please give this notice an insertion in their columns.

P. FRASER SMITH, Chairman pro tem.
GEO. W. HAMMERSLEY, Secretary.

THE SITUATION.

We are obliged to go to press this morning without giving any definite results of the battle which was fought yesterday in the immediate vicinity of Gettysburg. We expected news in the evening, but the thunder storm interfered materially with the lines. The authorities assure us, however, that everything, so far as they knew, points to a decisive victory.

Several persons came here during yesterday direct from Gettysburg, who repeat different stories as to the result. All agree, however, that the battle was a bloody one, and that the wounded were cared for in the town of Gettysburg.

Troops have been arriving and departing from this city all day. We are massing an immense army here, enough to whip any rebel force that may attempt to come here.

All the rebel infantry and detachments of cavalry, under Jenkins, Imboden and Fitzhugh Lee have disappeared from the front, and travel has been resumed between this city and Carlisle.

The soldiers guarding a ford three and a half miles below here have been informed by the farmers who have escaped across the river, that the rebel cavalry scouts are infesting the woods along the bank of the river, watching the movements of our forces. Citizens up from Bainbridge and Columbia say that heavy artillery firing and continuous volleys of musketry, were heard all day yesterday, and up to three o'clock this morning.

Nothing is yet known as to results, but the impression prevails that the great decisive battle of the campaign has been fought in the neighborhood of Cashtown, on the road between Gettysburg and Chambersburg. It is believed that we have suffered heavy losses in officers and men, but that General Lee has been so crippled as to place him on the defensive.

Yesterday Gen. Meade assumed the offensive. The day before Lee had attacked Meade and was repulsed with heavy loss.

Lee holds a gap in the South Mountain, near Chambersburg, through which he expects to escape if defeated, and a guard stationed at Bridge 84 on the Northern Central railroad heard firing in that direction like that of flying artillery, whence it was believed that Pleasonton was at work again with his dashing cavalry fighting for the possession of the gap.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

When the Declaration of Independence was signed in the city of Philadelphia, July 4, 1776, the brave men who put their names to that instrument did not imagine that in thirteen years less than a century it would be repudiated by a portion of the American people, and that Philadelphia would so soon be called on to arm and fortify for the defence of the principles promulgated by that Declaration. Yet such is the fact. After eighty-seven years of success, such a test as no free government ever was stood, after the most unprecedented prosperity had blessed the nation, we are found in the midst of a domestic quarrel for the defence or the destruction of the very ideas which our revolutionary fathers had pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors to maintain. If the assault on our forms and principles of government had come directly from some of the powers of Europe, the battles now waging would be understood by the unprejudiced intellects of the world. But these assaults coming from our own people—the blows which are hurled at a free government issuing from the hands of freemen—renders the conflict inexplicable to the minds of men who have always been the friends of the American nation, and who have never until this moment doubted the capacity of man for self-government. Yet where the conflict is fairly understood, no such doubt is entertained, simply because it is the old battle for freedom which is being again fought. The same motive of oppression which induced the British aristocracy to plunder the American people during the rule of George III, and to attempt their unconditional bondage, animates the domestic enemies of the American Government at the present hour. And the descendants of that aristocracy in England are now engaged with the traitor upholders of secession, in attempting to bring about a condition of affairs which George III failed to produce. Thus it is that the old battles are being fought over. The issues are the same. Capital against labor. Aristocracy against the masses of the people—with England taking her part in the conflict, as she did eighty-seven years ago, for the vassalage of the laboring population of the American States. Let the reader pursue this idea for his own benefit. Our present struggle and that of our fathers of the Revolution, are the same. On the one side liberty—on the other slavery.

The anniversary, to-day, will not be allowed to pass unobserved. The soldier on the battle-field will yield it his homage. That homage may be a crowning victory on the soil where the Declaration of Independence was signed, which will forever establish man's capacity for self govnment, and which will also eternally subdue every mad passion of slavery. Such a celebration of the anniversary of American Independence would indeed be glorious. God grant that it may be realized.

Southern Taxes.

There are persons in every community who find fault on account of the taxes exacted by the Government for the purpose of aiding in restoring the Union. If those who thus complain would remove South they would discover a difference between the two sections calculated to reconcile them to the state of affairs in the loyal States of the Union. We invite the attention of our readers to a few facts upon this subject. The first section of a bill passed by the rebel Congress, levies a tax of eight per cent. on the value of all naval stores, salt, wines, spirituous liquors, tobacco manufactured or unmanufactured, cotton, wool, flour, sugar, molasses, syrups, rice and other agricultural productions. Bankers are taxed $500; auctioneers $50, and 2½ per cent. on the gross amount of their sales; wholesale liquor dealers are taxed $200 and 5 per cent. of their gross sales; distillers pay $200 and 20 per cent. of their gross sales; hotels and eating-houses pay according to the yearly rents of the property, from $800 a year down to $30; theatres pay $500 and 5 per cent. of gross sales; billiard-rooms pay $40 for each table; butchers and bakers pay $50 and 2½ per cent. of sales; photographers, lawyers, apothecaries, doctors and confectioners pay $50 each, with a tax on all but lawyers and doctors of 2½ per cent. on sales. Incomes are taxed as follows: Over $500 and under $1,500 a year, 5 per cent.; over $1,00 and less than $3,000 a year, 5 per cent. the first $1,500 and 10 per cent. on the rest. over $5,000 and less than $10,000, 12½ per cent.; over $10,000, 15 per cent. Farm produce is still taxed more heavily. After comparing these statements with the trifling sum required to be paid in the North, no one with a spark of loyalty in his heart should complain.

Unmasking a Traitor.

We have recently heard of many rich incidents as to how secret traitors have been deluded into confessions of their guilt, but the following from the Bulletin of last evening excels all that we have ever heard of in the same line. It appears that the army wagon train which left Harrisburg a few days since, arrived in Philadelphia on Wednesday, but had halted on Tuesday evening at a point about fourteen miles from that city. The people along the road were frequently alarmed as the train advanced, supposing it to be a rebel force. But at the point where the halt of Tuesday evening occurred, the proprietor of a fine house and estate went to the chief officer of the train and asked if they were secessionists. By way of joke, he replied that they were. Thereupon the gentleman bid them welcome, and told them that his house, grounds and everything he had were at their disposal. The officers and men were disgusted at such copperheadism, and letting him know that they belonged to the Union army, helped themselves to what they wanted, and treated the proprietor to a ducking. They were principally from Ohio, and have been in service for a long time in Virginia, where they say they encountered no worse enemy of the Government than this Pennsylvania copperhead.

Shakespeare on the Copperheads.

The Great Bard, whose pen has written more truths than that wielded by any other man of ancient or modern times, save the inspired writers of the Bible, left on record a description of many villanies, among which the following may be regarded as having a direct application to a class of traitors who claim citizenship with loyal men. It is a picture of the copperhead politician of the most graphic order. Let none fail to procure and preserve it:

"What would you have, you [illegible]
That like nor peace nor war? The [illegible] ROUTE
you,
The other makes you [illegible] you curs,
Where he [illegible] one affrights
you,
[illegible] proud. He that trusts to
THREE T[illegible]
should find you lions, finds you
hares;
Where foxes, geese: you are no surer, no,
Than is the coal of fire on the ico,
Or hailstones in the sun. Your virtue is,
To make him worthy whose offence subdues
him,
And curse that justice did it. Who deserves greatness
Deserves your hate; and your affections are
A sick man's appetite, who desires most that
Which would increase his evil. He that depends
Upon your favors swims with fins of lead,
And hews down oaks with rushes."

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO MRS. LINCOLN.—This morning, at about ten o'clock, as Mrs. Lincoln was passing in her carriage across the open lot near the Mount Pleasant Hospital, the driver's seat suddenly became detached from the rest of the carriage, and the coachman precipitated to the ground. At this accident the spirited horses immediately took fright, and dashed along with fearful velocity.

Mrs. Lincoln was quite alone in the carriage at the time, but, seeing the imminent danger she was in, with courage and presence of mind remarkable at so critical a moment, sprang quickly from the carriage, while the horses were running at full speed. Though for the moment stunned, she most fortunately received no more serious injury from her fall than several severe bruises. From the most severe of these—one on the back of the head—the blood flowed freely.

Several surgeons from the Mount Pleasant Hospital were instantly upon the spot, and administered promptly to her injuries. So soon as it was ascertained that the injuries, though painful, were not of a serious character, and that no bones were broken, it was decided that she could be safely transported to the White House. The original design, therefore, of conveying her to the Mount Pleasant Hospital was abandoned. A carriage passing at the time was taken possession of, and Mrs. Lincoln now quite recovered from her fright, was placed in it.—Washington Star, 2d.

Goods sent to the Warehouse of Messrs. Peacock, Zell & Hinchman, Nos. 808 and 810 Market street, above Eighth, Philadelphia, by 4 o'clock, P. M., will arrive at Harrisburg, ready for sale the next morning.

The Battle of Gettysburg.

Official Dispatch from Gen. Meade.

THE ENEMY REPULSED AT ALL POINTS.

THE BATTLE AGAIN RAGING YESTERDAY.

The Entire Rebel Force Engaged.

THE LOSS OF OFFICERS AND MEN HEAVY.

THE REBEL GENERAL BARKSDALE KILLED.

WASHINGTON, July 3—9 o'clock. P. M.

An official dispatch was received here this afternoon from Major General Meade, dated Headquarters Army of the Potomac, July 2—11 P. M.

The enemy attacked me about 4 o'clock this afternoon, and after one of the severest contests of the war, was repulsed at all points. We have suffered considerably in killed and wounded. Among the killed are Brigadier Generals Paul and Zook, and among the wounded Gens. Sickles, Bartow, Graham and Warren, slightly. We have taken a large number of prisoners.

[SECOND DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A later dispatch has been received from Major General Meade, dated at 8 o'clock this morning, which says:

The action commenced again at early daylight upon various parts of the line. The enemy thus far have made no impression upon my position.

All accounts agree in placing the entire rebel army in position on our front.

The prisoners we have taken report that Longstreet's and A. P. Hill's forces were much injured yesterday, and many general officers killed.

The dead body of Gen Barksdale, of Mississippi, is within our lines.

THE BATTLE OF YESTERDAY.

YORK, July 2, via Columbia.

The firing yesterday was near Oxford, Adams county, and not Dover, as was supposed.

There was fighting nearly all day and late in the evening. The cannonading was resumed this morning.

Our scouts state that the enemy has been repulsed three times.

This morning the firing is more distant than it was yesterday.

Yesterday two citizens of York were arrested in our lines as spies. Their names are Faigher and Wiley, old residents of the place.

Lieutenant Colonel Sickles, of the Twentieth regiment Pennsylvania Militia, went to Columbia to-day, paroled. His capture was unavoidable.

He had gone back to try to save some regimental supplies when he war surrounded and fired on. Thirty-six were paroled. Among them are Lieut. Col. Sickles, of the Twentieth; Capt. Roberts, of Philadelphia; Capt. Forrest and Lieut. Baines.

FROM COLUMBIA.

A Courier of Gen. Meade's Murdered by a York County Farmer

COLUMBIA, July 3.

Captain Roberts, of Philadelphia, who was captured near Gettysburg, and paroled, has arrived here. He reports that yesterday, beyond York, a courier from General Meade to General Couch stopped at a house to have his horse fed. The women in the house were alarmed and blew a horn to collect the neighbors, when the courier, fearing that the noise would reach the rebels, threatened them if they did not desist. At this moment the owner of the house arrived, and, drawing a pistol, killed the courier. His dispatches were subsequently sent to Baltimore, very foolishly, instead of to Harrisburg.

Captain Roberts says that numbers of people in York and Adams counties offered every possible assistance to the rebels, pointing out the property of Union citizens and of the Government, and showing them the roads.

Heavy and continuous artillery firing was heard yesterday afternoon and last night in the direction of Dover, eight miles northwest of York.

A portion of the Philadelphia City Troop left here yesterday as scouts in the direction of York. The rest of them are still here, doing provost guard duty.

There will be a grand civic and military celebration at Marietta to-morrow, in which Col. Frick's regiment will participate.

From Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, July 3, 12½, P. M.

One thousand rebel prisoners were marched through the city to-day, [illegible] and twelve [illegible]

Gen'l Manager, Williamsport.

FR[illegible], last night about ten o'clo[illegible] hundred more this morning. The news from the army, as far as known, is favorable.

Died.

On the 2d inst, at the residence of his brother, Dr. E. W. Hale, of Mifflin county, Gen. R. C. HALE, in his fifty-first year.

The funeral will take place from St. Mark's Church, Lewistown, on Saturday, the 4th inst., at 4 o'clock, P. M.

In Philadelphia, on Thursday morning, July 2, CARRIE T., wife of Samuel H. Wallace, of Harrisburg.

Funeral will take place this (Saturday) afternoon, at 3 o'clock, from the residence of Dr. Gebhard, No. 816 Race street, to proceed to Woodland Cemetery.

FIRE! FIRE! FIRE!

PHILADELPHIA, May 30, 1863.

M. C. Sadler, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: During the night of May 19, 1863, our Grocery and Provision Store, at North Second and Willow streets, took fire at about 2 o'clock A. M., and as the store was a two-story wood building it burnt rapidly, and before the fire engines could act upon the fire, our whole stock of goods, including much combustible material, and amounting to over $2,000, were wholly destroyed. We had one of your No. 11 Chilled Iron Safes, which was in the hottest part of the fire, and it came out of the fire not in the least injured, except the melting off of the name, plate and paint. The contents inside were not affected in the least, and we consider the Safe just as good a protection against fire now as before, and shall use it hereafter with increased confidence. The lock works as perfectly as before the fire.

Yours truly, McMANUS & CROFT,
Late 429 North Second Street.

Attention to the above certificate is particularly requested, as it is the first trial of LILLIE'S SAFES in an accidental fire in Philadelphia.

I would say to all parties who want a Fire and Burglar-proof Safe that LILLIE'S WROUGHT AND CHILLED IRON SAFES are much the cheapest and the only real Fire and Burglar proof Safes now made; and to those who want simply a Fire-proof, I would say that LILLIE'S WROUGHT IRON SAFE is fully equal in all respects to any of the most approved makers and is sold at fully one-third less price.

All parties interested are invited to examine the safes above described at my store.

Miscellaneous.

PENNSYLVANIA, SS:

In the Name and by the Authority

L.S. OF THE

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

ANDREW G. CURTIN,

Governor of the said Commonwealth,

A PROCLAMATION.

The enemy is advancing in force into Pennsylvania. He has a strong column within twenty-three miles of Harrisburg, and other columns are moving by Fulton and Adams counties, and it can no longer be doubted that a formidable invasion of our State is in actual progress.

The calls already made for volunteer militia in the exigency, have not been met as fully as the crisis requires. I, therefore, now issue this my proclamation, calling for SIXTY THOUSAND MEN to come promptly forward to defend the State. They will be mustered into the service of the State for the period of NINETY DAYS, but will be required to serve only so much of the period of muster as the safety of our people and honor of our State may require.

They will rendezvous at points to be designated in the General Order to be issued this day by the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, which order will also set forth the details of the arrangements for organization, clothing, subsistence, equipments and supplies.

I will not insult you by inflammatory appeals. A people who want the heart to defend their soil, their families and their firesides, are not worthy to be accounted men. Heed not the counsels of evil disposed persons, if such there be in your midst. Show yourselves what you are—a free, loyal, spirited, brave, vigorous race. Do not undergo the disgrace of leaving your defence mainly to the citizens of other States. In defending the soil of Pennsylvania we are contributing to the support of our national government, and indicating our fidelity to the national cause.

Pennsylvania has always heretofore responded promptly to all the calls made by the Federal Government, and I appeal to you now not to be unmindful that the foe that strikes at our State, strikes through our desolation at the life of the Republic, and our people are plundered and driven from their homes solely because of their loyalty and fidelity to our free institutions.

People of Pennsylvania! I owe to you all my faculties, my labors, my life. You owe to your country your prompt and zealous services and efforts. The time has now come when we must all stand or fall together in defence of our State, and in support of our Government. Let us so discharge our duty that posterity shall not blush for us. Come heartily and cheerfully to the rescue of our noble Commonwealth. Maintain now your honor and freedom.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State at Harrisburg, this twenty-sixth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-seventh.

A. G. CURTIN.

BY THE GOVERNOR:

ELI SLIFER,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

BANK NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given, that an association has been formed and a certificate prepared for the purpose of establishing a bank of discount, deposit and circulation, under the provisions of an act entitled "An Act to establish a system of free banking in Pennsylvania and secure the public against loss from insolvent banks," approved March 31, 1860, and the supplement thereto, approved May 1, 1861.
