THESE elegant preparations combine the most desirable cleansing and astringent qualities. They render the Gums hard and healthy; neutralize the acid secretions of the mouth, (thereby removing the prime cause of decay.) By their detersive properties they preserve the natural color of the Teeth, without in the least degree injuring the enamel, while they impart to the breath a fragrance peculiarly aromatic and pleasant.—In fact they are THE BEST ARTICLES in use for the purposes named, as a fair trial will fully demonstrate, and as has been abundantly proved by their extensive sale in this community during the last 14 years; and which will be readily testified to by many who have repeatedly urged the Proprietor to still further extend their sale and usefulness. They are warranted to be free from those destructive acids which so frequently contaminate many of the preparations of the present day. WASHINGTON, May 14—10 P. M.

Dispatches dated headquarters Army of the Potomac, May 13, 12 M., have been received. The Associated Press messenger brings the following:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, May 13, 1864.

SOLDIERS:—The moment has arrived, when your commanding general feels authorized to address you in terms of congratulation. For eight days and nights almost without intermission, in rain and sunshine, you have been gallantly fighting a desperate foe in positions naturally strong and rendered doubly so by entrenchments. You have compelled him to abandon his fortifications on the Rapidan, retire and attempt to stop your onward progress, and now he has abandoned his last entrenched position so tenaciously held, suffering a loss, in all, of eighteen guns, twenty-two colors, and eight thousand prisoners, including two general officers. Your heroic deeds and endurance of fatigue and privation will ever be memorable.

Let us return thanks to God for the mercy thus shown, and ask earnestly for its continuance.

Soldiers! Your work is not yet over. The enemy must be pursued, and, if possible, overcome.

The courage and fortitude you have displayed renders your commanding general confident that your efforts will be crowned with success.

While we mourn the loss of many gallant comrades, let us remember the enemy must have suffered equal, if not greater, losses.

We shall soon recieve reinforcements which he cannot expect.

Let us determine, then, to continue vigorously the work so well begun. Under God's blessing, in a short time, the object of our labor will be accomplished.

(Signed) GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General Commanding.
S. WILLIAMS, A. A. G.

The Battle of Thursday.

WASHINGTON, May 14—9 P. M.

The Army of the Potomac has achieved the greatest victory of the war, after some of the severest fighting ever recorded in history.

The battle of yesterday is acknowledged to be the heaviest of all, lasting from daylight till after dark, and renewed about 9 o'clock P. M., and continued till nearly 3 A. M.; both parties during the night contending for the possession of a line of rifle pits from which our men had driven the enemy in the morning.

The rebels fell back early this morning, and skirmishing is now going on—our troops are following them through the woods.

The scene presented is entirely beyond description. The dead and dying are in the breastworks on each side in piles three and four deep, and many of them pierced in different parts of the body.

The enemy had removed a large portion of their dead and wounded during the night from some portions of the lines, but there were pits where they could not reach; in these places th-y lay as thick as our own.

It was Birney's division of the 2d corps that charged the position, and in doing so lost 700 men.

Every regiment in the division distinguished itself, and none bore a greater part than the 93d New York.

Col. Carroll's brigade aided this division in the charge, and as usual performed their share with marked gallantry.

Colonel Carroll was wounded a second time, but still was on duty. Some of the rebel caissons are now being brought in, which could not before this time.

The number of guns captured is thirty-nine. Many colors have been taken, but the captors still retain them as trophies.

Colonel Carroll's brigade took a number of prisoners and a stand of colors this morning from a regiment, which they surprised in a piece of wood.

LATER—2 O'CLOCK, P. M.

The enemy are found to have fallen back to a new line, abandoning their works on the right, and apparently getting into position for another contest.

General Meade has issued an eloquent congratulatory address.

Among the casualties to officers yesterday are the following: Killed, Major Truefoot, Capt. C. P. Warner, Lieut. Todd, all of the 119th Pa., and Capt. Ayres, Assistant Adjutant General on General Mott's staff.

The third brigade, (Russell's,) 1st division, 6th corps, lost but one field officer on duty, Major Hickman.

From North Carolina.

WASHINGTON, May 14.

Gen. Schofield has achieved a victory, and pursued the enemy into North Carolina. Gen. Thomas has gobbled up five thousand rebels and captured 12 guns.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.

The Bulletin has a special dispatch from Washington, that Grant's whole army is south of the Po river in pursuit of Lee.

Dispatch from the Secretary of War.

The following dispatch has been received from the Secretary of War:

WASHINGTON, May 14, 4 P. M.—To Major General Cadwallader, Philadelphia: Dispatches from Gen. Grant dated yesterday evening at 6 o'clock have reached this department.

The advance of Hancock yesterday developed that the enemy had fallen back four miles where they remained in position.

There was no engagement yesterday.

We have no account of General officers being killed in the battle of the preceeding day. Col. Carroll was severely wounded.

A dispatch has just been read from General Sherman, dated near Resaca, May 14.

It states that by the flank movement on Resaca, Johnson had been forced to evacuate Dalton, and our forces were in his rear and flank.

The weather was fine and the troops in fine order, all working well and as fast as possible.

No intelligence has been received from General Butler.

Guerrillas have broken the telegraph lines between Williamsburg and Old Jamestown.

This is believed to be the reason why no report has been received from him.

Dispatches from General Sigel report him to be at Woodstock.

The rumor that he had broken the railroad between Lynchburg and Charlottesville is not true.

Our wounded are coming in from Belle Plain as fast as the transports can bring them.

Grant's army is well supplied.

WASHINGTON, May 15—10 P. M.

Major-General Dix:

The following telegrams have just reached this Department from General Butler.

No other official reports have been received since my dispatch of this afternoon.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

HALFWAY HOUSE, May 14, 8 A. M.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

We are still before the base of the enemy's works at Drury's Bluff, Fort Darling. The enemy are still here in force.

Gen. Gilmore by a flank movement with a portion of his corps and a brigade of the 18th corps, assulted and took the enemys works on their right at dusk last evening. It was gallantly done.

(signed) BENJAMIN F. BUTLER.

HEADQUARTERS, HALF-WAY HOUSE, May 14, 10 o'clock, A. M.

To Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

General Smith carried the enemy's first line on the right, this morning, moving at eight o'clock. The loss was small. The enemy have retired into three square redoubts upon which we are now bringing our artillery to bear with effect.

Signed, BENJ. F. BUTLER,
Maj, Gen. Commanding.

NAVAL ENGAGEMENT.

WILMINGTON, May 9.

The iron clad Albemarle engaged nine of the enemy's Gunboats and sunk one.

REBEL NEWS.

FORT MONROE, May 14.

Nothing later from the front to-day.

Yankee raiders have burned the bridge over New river, on the Virginia and Tennessee railroad, and have destroyed the Dublin depot, with all the supplies stored therein.

This is Averill's work.

The Central Railroad is destroyed by the enemy at Beaver Dam, in Hanover county. General Jenkins, S. C., killed; General S. M. Jones, killed; Gen. Pegram, seriously wounded; Gen. Benning, seriously wounded; Gen. Hafford, died of wounds; Colonel Frances, S. C., killed.

The Petersburg Register, of the 13th, gives an additional list of killed and wounded officers—seventy-two in number.

Mr. Britton, who exploded the torpedo in James river, was instantly killed by the enemy.

Major A. W. Starks, of the artillery, sunk the Yankee Gunboat Shawsheen on Saturday in the James river. Bushrod Johnson has command in Petersburg.

The exchange of prisoners is recommended, Aikens' Landing has been agreed upon as the place of delivery.

Later from Gen. Butler.

BERMUDA HUNDRED, May 13th, 8 P. M., via FORTRESS MONROE, May 14.—At an early hour Gen. Butler renewed his advance toward Fort Darling, and reached Kingsland Creek at noon. Formed in line of battle on the south side of the creek, with the right on James river, with the monitors and gunboats near the mouth of the creek, within three miles of Drury's Bluff.

At 3 P. M. Gen. Butler superintended the concentrating of the batteries.

Tuesday afternoon the advance pickets captured a rebel courier with a dispatch from Beauregard to the officer in command of Drury's Bluffs, which said, hold your position—will reinforce you this evening.

In two hours the rebel reinforcements came.

General Butler had sent a force to the turnpike and attacked and drove them back.

Our loss was slight. Gen. Ames is in a position to keep Beauregard in Petersburg.

The rebels at Drury's Bluff evidently are not disposed to fight without reinforcements.

BERMUDA HUNDREDS, Va., May 13—P. M.—via FORTRESS MONROE, May 14.

Rebel prisoners captured last night say Lee admits a loss of thirty thousand men in killed and wounded.

The Petersburg Register of May 12th says Gen. Walker, of Va. was wounded yesterday.

Gen. L. A. Spafford, La., died yesterday in Richmond.

SHERIDAN'S OPERATIONS

WASHINGTON, May 14—MIDNIGHT.

Major-General Cadwalader—Philadelphia:

An official dispatch from General Sheridan, dated at Bottom Bridge, via Fort Monroe, May 13, states that on the 9th instant, he marched around the enemy's right flank, and on the evening of that day, reached the North Anna river, without serious opposition.

During that night he destroyed the enemy's depot at Beaver Dam, three large trains of cars, and one hundred cars, two fine locomotives, two hundred thousand pounds of bacon, and other stores, amounting in all to a million and a half of rations.

Also the telegraph and railroad track for about ten miles embracing several culverts, and recaptured three hundred and seventy-eight of our men, including two Colonels, one major and several other officers.

On the morning of the 10th he resumed operations, crossing the South Anna at Grand Squirrel bridge and went into camp about daylight.

The 11th he captured Ashland Station; at that point he destroyed one locomotive, a train of cars, an engine house and two or three Government buildings containing a large amount of stores.

He also destroyed six miles of railroad, embracing six culverts, two trestle bridges, and the telegraph wires.

At about 7 o'clock A. M., of the 11th, he renewed the advance on Richmond.

He found the rebel Stuart with his cavalry concentrated at Yellow Tavern, and immediately attacked him.

After an obstinate contest he gained possession of the Brockle Turnpike, capturing two pieces of artillery, and driving the enemy's forces back towards Ashland and across the north fork of the Chickahominy, a distance of four miles.

At the same time a party charged down the Brock Road, and captured the first line of the enemy's works around Richmond.

During the night he marched the whole of his command between the first and second lines of the enemy's works on the bluffs overlooking the line of the Virginia Central railroad, and then on Mechanicsville turnpike, after demonstrating against the works and finding them very strong, he gave up the intention of assaulting, and deteminred to recross the Chickahominy at Meadow Bridge.

It had been partially destroyed by the enemy but was repaired in about three hours under a heavy artillery fire from a rebel battery.

Gen. Merritt made the crossing, attacked the enemy and drove him off handsomely, the pursuit continuing as far as Gaines' Mills.

The enemy observing the recrossing of the Chickahominy came out from his second line of works.

A brigade of Infantry and a large number of dismounted cavalry attacked the Division of Generals Gregg and Wilson, but after a severe contest were repulsed and driven behind their works.

Gregg and Wilson's divisions, after collecting the wounded, recrossed the Chickahominy on the afternoon of the 12th. The Corps encamped at Walnut Grove and Gaines" Mills.

At 9 o'clock, A. M., of the 13th, the march was resumed, and our forces encamped at Bottom Bridge.

The command is in fine spirits. The loss of horses will not exceed one hundred. All the wounded were brought off except about thirty cases of mortally wounded, and those were well cared for in the farm houses of the country. The wounded will not exceed 250, and the total losses not over 350.

The Virginia Central Railroad bridges over the Chickahominy, and other trestle bridges, one sixty feet in length, one thirty feet, some twenty feet, and the railroad bridges for a long distance south of the Chichahominy were destroyed.

Great praise is given to the division commanders Gens. Gregg, Wilson and Merritt and Gens. Custer and Davids, Cols. Gregg, Divine, Chapman, M'Intosh and Gibbs, brigade commanders. All the officers and men behaved splendidly.

12:30 P. M.—In a dispatch this moment received from Admiral Lee, he reports to the Secretary of the Navy that the Richmond papers of yesterday mention the death of General J. E. B. Stuart—shot in battle.

This no doubt happened in the battle with General Sheridan.

(Signed) E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

LATER FROM GEN. GRANT

WASHINGTON, May 15, 8-50.

Maj. Gen. Cadwallader, Philadelphia:

An official dispatch from the battle field at Spottsylvania yesterday morning at 6-30, states that during the preceeding night (Friday) a movement was made by the fifth and sixth corps to our left, and an attack was to have been made at daylight but no sound of battle had been heard from that quarter.

This manœuvre, it is said, if successful, would place our forces in Lee's rear, and compel him to retreat towards Lynchburg.

No cannon or any sound of battle was heard yesterday at Belle Plain or Fredericksburg, which affords ground for the inference that Lee had retreated during Friday night, and before the advance of the Fifth and Sixth corps.

Nothing later than 6.30 A. M. of yesterday has been received from the army by this Department.

All our wounded that had reached Belle Plain yesterday evening, have arrived here.

The surgical report from the headquarters of the army states that the condition of the supplies is satisfactory, and that the wounded are doing well.

The Medical Director at Belle Plain reports that everything at that point is satisfactory.—The surgical arrangements have never been so complete as now.

Gen. Sheridan's command had reached the left bank of Turkey island at three o'clock yesterday afternoon and have formed a junction with the forces of Gen. Butler.

(Signed) EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.
