Raising and Caring for Cows.

The first thing to be attended to in the erection of a building, is to make a permanent and enduring foundation on which to erect the superstructure. Without this caution we shall be like the man "who built his house on the sand." It is equally important in the rearing of stock, that a good foundation be laid in the early life of the animal, if you wish to make the breeding of animals a source of profit. That is, we must keep all young animals in a thriving condition, from their birth to maturity, if we wish a good percentage of profit on our outlay between the two periods. By keeping heifer calves in a thriving condition, both summer and winter, they can be profitably brought into milk at two years old. It is conceded by practical dairymen that those that come into milk at two years old make the best milkers. It is important that cows should receive careful and gentle treatment, not only before they come into milk, but as long as they are kept in the dairy. A herdsman who is constantly using the cows under his charge with harshness and brutality should be discharged at once. Brutes appreciate kindness in those who care for them and feed them. The best hay of the season with some roots and mill feed should be reserved for the last half of the winter, when their appetites, from long feeding on dry hay, the warm weather approaching and being near parturition, have not as good appetites as in midwinter. No animal pays quicker for good care and feeding than a cow in milk. Milking is an important item in good dairying. Cows are a creature of habit as well as the higher grades of animal life. Regular hours of milking, both morning and evening, is important. Each milker should have certain cows to milk, and milk them in the same order, beginning and finishing with the same cows at every milking. Milking should be done rapidly to get the greatest amount of milk. They should not be whipped or chastised harshly except in extreme cases. A cow that uses her feet to the inconvenience of the milker can in most cases be cured by drawing a rope snugly around her body just forward of the udder. It does not hurt them, and the milker can sit down to them with safety and without the chance of being hurt. A cow that will not be quiet with the above treatment had better be sent to shambles. No invention is equal to the milkman's hand for drawing the milk from the udder. Some cows that are hard to milk can be remedied by cutting the teat with a proper knife. This knife is made of a plain piece of steel with proper temper, one-quarter of an inch wide, less than one-eigth of an inch thick, one end inserted in a wooden handle like a saw file, the other ground on both sides to angle will be one-quarter of an inch in length and not very thin, and in shape like an inverted V. One insertion will do the work and will not gat any wider than the width of the blade, the point of the knife following the orifice in the teat.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

Clean Culture.

It is a fact that ground which is kept from vegetation of any kind, will not dry up so much as that on which a crop is grown. There are many who doubt this, but if they would make a proper investigation their doubts would be removed. Make an experiment—take a piece of ground in the garden and hoe it every day, or often enough to keep all kinds of vegetation from starting. Sow another adjoining with grass, or some kind of grain. After a drouth of two or three weeks examine both pieces by digging into them with a spade or shovel. The earth of the grass or grain plat will be found very dry, like ashes, to the depth of a foot or more. The other will be dried in only two or three inches; below that it will be found quite moist.

Examine the ground in an orchard in a dry time, and unless it is naturally wet, it will be found dry to a great depth. If there is a tree in your corn field, see if the ground is not much drier near it than on similar ground away from the reach of its roots. The fact is, the roots of vegetation bring up the moisture from a greater depth below the surface than it could be done by simple evaporation. This may be known by noticing how much more moisture is required to support a crop of corn when the stalks are nearly full grown, than in its earliest stages.

Now from all this we deduce an argument in favor of clean culture—that is, a culture that permits no useless vegetation to grow among cultivated crops—the advantage of which would be to give the crop the whole benefit of the moisture and other nutriment of the soil, instead giving a portion to worthless weeds.

In a dry time we frequently hear farmers say: "It will not do to work my corn or potatoes; they need all the grass and weeds to keep the ground from drying up." Now this, as we have shown, is all a mistake—the grass and weeds make the ground dry faster and deeper.

But it is alleged that corn has been injured by plowing or working it when the weather was very dry. We admit that this effect may have followed under particular circumstances. That is to say, if corn gets too large before it is worked, injury may be done. The reason is that the roots have become extended, and the plow cuts off so large a portion of them that the remainder cannot supply the stalk, and it soon withers. This is the way the "fired" corn, sometimes spoken of at the South and West, is generally produced.—Cultivator.

ISN'T IT TRUE.—Some cooks will throw out water in which meats have been boiled, without letting it cool to take off the fat.

Bits of meat are thrown out which would make hash meat or hash.

The flour is sifted in a careless manner and the bread pan left with the dough sticking to it.

Pie crust is laid by to sour, instead of making tarts for tea.

Cold pudding is considered good for nothing, when oftentimes it can be steamed for the next day.

Vegetables are thrown away that would warm for breakfast nicely.

Dish cloths are thrown where mice can destroy them.

The scrubbing brush is left in the water.

Tubs and barrels are left in the sun to dry and fall apart.

Nice handled knives are thrown into hot water.

Silver spoons are used to scrape kettles.

Vinegar is drawn in a tin basin and allowed to stand until both basin and vinegar are spoiled.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WHO VALUE THEIR SIGHT!

The sight of the aged assisted, the weak strengthened and the perfect preserved.

PHILADELPHIA OPTICAL INSTITUTE,

For the manufacturing of the

CONCAVE CONVEX, CRYSTAL LENSES, LONDON SMOKED AND TINTED GLASS FOR WEAK OR INFLAMED EYES.

The Concave Convex Crystal Spectacles, made by the above institute are now a long time before the public, and the rapid and increased demand for them combined with the universal acknowledgment of their clearness in vision and ease to the eye, shows plainly that they are superior to any other glasses in the market.

The majority of Spectacles, (mostly imported) and no matter how fine the frames, contain but a poor and worthless article of glasses, (generally cast or pressed) they are made to be sold only, without any calculation respecting benefit to the eye, and therefore the great complaint of poor and weak sight. Thousands are using glasses now which tire and fatigue the eye, where the objects get dim after short usage, or require an intensely strong light and therefore destroying the sight, which, were they properly suited, would be preserved quite time.

The advantages claimed for the Concave Convex Crystal Glasses are the following:

The Lenses are ground of the best material, pure and hard, and made only for optical purposes, they are therefore not liable to get scratched or dim.

They confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision not found in any other glass.

They can be used equally well by day or candle light without tiring or fatiguing the eye.

They are ground mathematically true in the concave convex mirror, according to the philosophy of nature, and shape of cornea of the eye, therefore assisting nature only instead of forcing it.

That the lenses are centered correct into the frames.

They can be used longer than any other glasses without changing to a higher power.

The frames are made strong and durable by experienced workmen and warranted to give satisfaction.

WM. A. CHAMBERLIN,

Dealer in Watches, Jewelry and Silver Ware, Towanda, Pa., has the sole Agency for these glasses in Bradford county. No Peddlers employed.

NEW PLANING MILL.

The undersigned having built a large and commodious Mill in the Borough of Towanda, and filled it with the most modern and improved machinery, for the manufacture of

WINDOW SASH AND BLINDS

Are prepared to fill orders, whether large or small, upon the shortest notice. We have also a large variety of MOULDINGS, of the latest style and pattern, which we can furnish much cheaper than they can be worked by hand.

PLANING,

TONGUEING, GROOVING, AND SCROOL SAWING,

And all other work pertaining to Joinery, will be done to suit our customers.

Persons building, and not living more than twelve to fourteen miles distant, will find it largely for their interest to buy of us, or bring their lumber and have it worked by our machinery. Bring your grist of Flooring, or other lumber, and while your team is feeding, have it ground out and take it home with you.

We will pay CASH for PINE AND HEMLOCK LUMBER delivered at our lumber yard. Come and see us, or if you can't come, write.

CONSUMERS OF CONFECTIONERY!

COME,

LET US REASON TOGETHER!

How can any person manufacture Confectionery, and sell it at 15 cents a pound, when sugar is worth 16 cents at the Refinery, (unless it is terribly adulterated)?

How can any dealer retail such a vile compound to his customers and have a conscience void of offence?

How can any consumer expect to purchase pure Confectionery at twenty-five and thirty cents per pound when a pure article cannot be manufactured less than thirty to forty cents per pound, consisting of cassia buds, burnt almonds, and such class of goods?

Within a few days we have been offered cassia buds, etc., for fifteen cents per pound, and Chocolate Creams at twenty cents, and the agent acknowledged that they were adulterated ten per cent. with Terra Alba; and it is a fact that tons of this cheap Confectionery are made and sold in this country every year, and the consumers are the only persons injured by it.

Now, for the benefit of those who wish a Pure article of Confectionery, we will warrant every article of our manufacture Strictly Pure and free from every ingredient deleterious to health.
