Do Farmers' Wives Pay?

A lady correspondent of the Country Gentleman discusses this question as follows:

"We are not in the habit of writing for the papers, and have some fears lest you should think this once too many times for us to aspire to so much honor as your notice, but there has been considerable discussion of late as to whether "farming pays," and the question occurs to us "Do Farmers' Wives Pay?" A man can estimate with some degree of accuracy, the cost and value of his lands, stock, crops, labor, &c., but who can estimate the cost of his wife?

"Now, we wish to leave out of sight all sentiment—all reference to the little comforts and felicities that go to make up the sum of domestic happiness, and come right to the practical question—Does a young woman, who comes to her husband with little or no dowry, but with willing heart and hands, and a fair share of intelligence, who takes care of him, of his house, and of his family as it increases, without hired help—really earn anything more than her food and clothing?

"No man will say but that a good wife is a treasure. Certainly, her care and labor secure him many comforts, but how much would he consider them worth in dollars and cents? It is a great comfort to him to have his three meals a day, properly cooked and prepared at hours to suit his convenience.

"He can swallow a dinner in twenty or thirty minutes that she has been all the forenoon in preparing. He may think it a very good dinner, but how high an estimate, think you, he would put upon it if required to state its worth in money? With what astonishment and disgust would he look upon his table set out with dishes that had not been washed since they were last used, but how high a money value would he put upon this one unromantic item of washing dishes, which, nevertheless, takes so large a share of a woman's time?

"With what satisfaction he put ons the clean, smoothly-ironed shirt, and the socks nicely darned! They do not look much like the ones he pulled off last week and threw down with the wash? Some one had to rub pretty smartly to get the dirt all out—some one spent an hour or so in darning the unsightly holes in the heels of those stockings. And this is done, not this week only, but every week as surely as it comes round. Now, he does appreciate cleanliness, notwithstanding his protestations against washing-days and hous-cleaning. But is it really worth anything in money?

"Then there is the care of the milk and the butter-making. Every day must the milk be taken care of, the cream must be churned at the proper time, and the butter properly worked and salted. He is proud to have her make good butter—is quite happy when his neighbor says, "I want to engage my butter of you this season, for I think your wife makes the best butter of any one around." But then, are not the cows his? Does he not furnish the feed and do the milking? Is not her work slight compared with his? Is it really worth anything in dollars and cents to do her part?

"Then there is the care of the children; early and late are her energies taxed to take care of them. She is interested there, of course; but she don't pretend to own but half. Is it really worth nothing to soothe, amuse, teach, feed and spank his half; to make and make over, and mend his clothes for his half? This is real brain work! Where is the man who will say it does not require all a woman's wit, this care for their children, but if asked to place a money estimate upon it, to what figure think you would fall?

"A farmers' wife, that really does her work, has no easy task, as can be proved by thousands of our country women; we would not ask for her more than is justly due. If there is any standard by which the value of her services can be rightly estimated, we would like to know it. We wish to know whether there may be any surplus in her favor! Whether when she asks for a few dollars for the purchase of something not strictly necessary—a book, perhaps—she ought to feel she is asking for his hardly earned means, or whether she has a right to feel that it is her due. If the value of her labor does not ordinarily equal her expenses, we would like to know how much she is to credit to her husband's generosity. Can any one answer? Young men should ponder these questions, and let maidens beware if no satisfactory answer can be given, for a farmers' wife has a life of too much toil to make it desirable, if with all her labor, she is still considered a beggar."

CURE FOR GLANDERS.—A writer in the Western Rural gives the following remedy for glanders. He says: One of my neighbors had a good horse sick with that scourge, the glanders; the disease was well advanced, and his near neighbors were looking threatnings and the law. He asked me what I would do in such a case. I told him I would take one ounce of calomel and make four dough pills, putting one fourth of the calomel into each pill; give the horse one of the pills every three or four hours; and for drink give him water as strongly tinctured with very sour vinegar as the horse would drink freely of; to keep the horse comfortably housed, and to salivate him until his mouth runs freely. This was in November last; he followed the directions, and though his horse did not salivate, he got well, and is doing his usual amount of work. I ought to add that the course was repeated once.

CLOVER AND GRASS SEED.—Do you know that Ohio is the greatest clover-seed producing region in America? and this production is mainly confined to a few of the mid northwestern counties, as Wyandot, Crawford, Allen, Morrow, Seneca, and others there about. This winter the trade in clover-seed is quite lively, and very much of it is sold through Cincinnati, Tennessee, and Georgia, and considerable quantities are sent to New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Formerly there was a large production of clover-seed in France, but the war has cut off the crop of France this season, and now American clover is going to England and Scotland.

TEA-TIME CAKE.—One coffee cup [illegible] two teaspoonfuls of butter [illegible] one teacup of sweet [illegible] three of two eggs (or one [illegible] if you do not want it very [illegible]) one coffee cup of sour [illegible] teaspoonful of tartar, half [illegible] of soda.

TO THOSE GETTING THEIR

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

You should study two things. First, to

GET THEM WHERE FIRST-CLASS CLOTHING IS MADE

Secondly,

WHERE THEY ARE SOLD CHEAP

And in order to be able to sell a good article cheap the merchant must understand his business, and know how, where and what to buy as a practical man does; and a

PRACTICAL TAILOR

In all its branches I profess to be, having had

EIGHTEEN YEARS EXPERIENCE in the business. Have been a cutter in some of the best houses in

NEW YORK CITY.

I do my own buying, selling and cutting, and divide my profits with no man; so that less of it will do—and with low rent and other expenses in proportion, thus making the cost of carrying on the business very small.

If reading the above you will see why it is that

I CAN SELL GOODS CHEAPER

Than men following the business, and having no knowledge of it themselves, have to employ others at large salaries to attend to it, and customers must pay accordingly—as they, like myself,

DO BUSINESS TO LIVE BY IT.

If you doubt the above statement, be convinced by trying on

CONCAVE CONVEX, CRYSTAL LENSES, LONDON

SMOKED AND TINTED GLASS FOR WEAK OR INFLAMED EYES.

The Concave Convex Crystal Spectacles, made by the above institute are now a long time before the public, and the rapid and increased demand for them combined with the universal acknowledgment of their clearness in vision and ease to the eye, shows plainly that they are superior to any other glasses in the market.

The majority of Spectacles, (mostly imported) and no matter how fine the frames, contain but a poor and worthless article of glasses, (generally cast or pressed,) they are made to be sold cheap, without any calculation respecting benefit to the eye, and therefore the great complaint of poor and weak sight. Thousands are using glasses now which tire and fatigue the eye, where the objects get dim after short usage, or require an intensely strong light and therefore destroying the sight, which, were they properly suited, would be preserved a life time.

The advantages claimed for the Concave Convex Crystal Glasses are the following:

The Lenses are ground of the best material, pure and hard, and made only for optical purposes, they are therefore not liable to get scratched or dim.

They confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision not found in any other glass.

They can be used equally well by day or candle light without tiring or fatiguing the eyes.

They are ground mathematically true in the concave convex mirror, according to the philosophy of nature, and shape of corner of the eye, therefore assisting nature only instead of forcing it.

That the lenses are centered correct into the frames.

They can be used longer than any other glasses without changing to a higher power.

The frames are made strong and durable by experienced workmen and warranted to give satisfaction.

To this repair-shop is the place for to go
To get them re-vamped, neatly tipped or half soled,
And your feet well protected from the wet and the cold

New work we can make you with the above double quick,
We can make them for you thin, or we can give them to you thick,
We can make them with high heels, or we can give them to you flat,
