FARM LIFE.

The following beautiful lines from Mrs. Sigourney, give a lively and truthful picture of life upon a farm:

Saw ye the farmer at his plow,
As we were riding by?
Or wearied heath the noon-day toil,
When the summer suns were high;
And thought you that his lot was hard,
And did you thank your God
That you and yours were not condemned
Thus like a slave to plod?

Come, see him at his harvest home,
When garden, field, and tree,
Conspire with flowing store to fill
His barn and granary.
His healthful children gaily sport
Amid the new-mown hay,
Proudly aid with vigorous arm
His tasks as best they may.

The Harvest Giver is his friend,
The Maker of the soil,
Who drenches the mother, gives them bread,
And cheers their patient toil;
Oh join them round their wintry hearth,
Such heartfelt pleasure see;
You can better judge how blest
The farmer's life may be.

Sheep on a Poor Farm.

Some farmers of our acquaintance express antipathy to sheep for the reason that they "bite close." We consider this their chief recommendation. They can only bite close when the pasture is short, and the pasture is short only on a poor farm. A poor farm will necessarily be encumbered with briars, weeds, and brush in the fence corners. Under such conditions, we would say to a farmer who has twenty dollars or upwards in cash or credit for it, and then let him know the amount if he has to pay one per cent. a month for the use of it, invest it in as many ewes, not older than three years, as you can get for that money. Put them on a summer fallow in such a field as we have described and give them, in addition to what they can pick up, a peck of wheat bran and oatmeal daily, with free access to water and salt. They will first go for the briers to clean them out; every portion of the field will be trodden over and over again, and the weeds will have no chance. Hold them on that field during winter and carry to them feed sufficient to keep them thriving. Get the use of a good buck in season—a Southdown should be preferable—and in the spring, if you have luck (that means if you give them proper attention and feed regularly) you will raise more lambs than you have ewes. The money will be more than doubled, and the wool and manure will pay for their feed and interest. In the spring you may put that field in corn with the certainty of getting fifty per cent. increase of crop.—American Agriculturist.

Learn to Cook Well.

The health of the family depends upon it. We know that there are those who associate luxury, effeminacy, and their dependent ills, with every attempt of the kind recommended; but we do not believe that health is promoted by eating raw meats or doughy bread, or that, to have long life, it is necessary to turn cannibal. Nor were men made to graze as cattle do, or eat food like dogs.

Nor is it necessary, in order to shun the evils of which we speak, to rush into the opposite extreme. Good cooking does not consist in having the highest seasoned dishes—such as foster a morbid appetite, but in preparing every dish well, however simple or common it may be. There are, for instance, those who never eat any good food from one century to another, who have no idea of what it consists. Meats cooked any better than their precincts. Those simple but healthy delicacies which the good housekeeper knows intuitively how to prepare, are never seen here. A dish of potatoes cannot get themselves cooked right. A person might as well go among the Hottentots for a proper cooking is concerned.

These things ought not to be, nor is any need of their existence, for we have any just notion of her functions to herself or those about her.

The science of bread-making, meat cooking, stewing, roasting and boiling, vegetable cooking, and of preparing the many small dishes of variety, which go to make pleasant table and and those about, are to be learned only by study and practice.

Sweet Potatoes.—As the time has arrived for potatoes—to be harvested, to put them into barrels as the best mode of disposing of them. There are those who have tried this for years, and cannot be persuaded to keep their potatoes in any other way. Dig and expose to the air till dry; then put up as directed, taking the barrels to the field. Store in the cellar, any part most convenient. The advantage is that the air is not excluded, as with open bins, which often vitiate it, and always leave a potato odor. You have nothing of this. Another advantage: you can put where most covenient, and more at pleasure, with little difficulty, and you may tier upon tier of barrels till up to the floor. When it is wished to use any, a barrel is opened and used, and so on with the rest, leaving no dirt, the ground remaining in the barrel. Or, if it is wished to sell, they are already put up. Any barrel will do, so that it is strong enough—a flour barrel as good as any.

To Keep Tomatoes for Winter Use.—A correspondent sends the Rural New Yorker the following:

As the tomato season is here, I can contribute one way of keeping them for winter use, that may be new to some of our readers. I ate them in February sliced, and seasoned with sugar and a little vinegar, that tasted every way as good as tomatoes fresh picked from the vines. They were prepared thus: Dissolve a teacupful of salt in a gallon of water. Pick ripe tomatoes, but not overripe, taking a little of the stem on. The tomatoes must be kept well covered with the brine and they will keep till spoiled or longer.

Save Your Farm Implements.—The shrinking and and swelling to which the wood work of all farm implements is subjected through the working season, will cause speedy decay, unless the cracks and seams are filled and the surface covered. Putty will do the former, and cheap paint the latter. The handles of forks, hoes and other tools should be rubbed over with linseed oil.

The iron work of plows, cultivators, &c., should be rubbed over with an oiled rag before putting them away. Mowing machine knives, scythes &c., should also be oiled.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WHO VALUE THEIR SIGHT!
The sight of the aged assisted, the weak strengthened and the perfect preserved.
PHILADELPHIA OPTICAL INSTITUTE,
For the manufacturing of the
CONCAVE CONVEX, CRYSTAL LENSES, LONDON
SMOKED AND TINTED GLASS FOR WEAK OR INFLAMED EYES.

The Concave Convex Crystal Spectacles, made by the above institute are now a long time before the public, and the rapid and increased demand for them combined with the universal acknowledgment of their clearness in vision and ease to the eye, shows plainly that they are superior to any other glasses in the market.

The majority of Spectacles, (mostly imported) and no matter how fine the frames, contain but a poor and worthless articles of glasses, (generally cast or pressed) they are made to be sold only, without any calculation respecting benefit to the eye, and therefore the great complaint of poor and weak sight. Thousands are using glasses now which tire and fatigue the eye, where the objects get dim after short usage, or require an intensely strong light and therefore destroying the sight, which, were they properly suited, would be preserved a life time.

The advantages claimed for the Concave Convex Crystal Glasses are the following:

The Lenses are ground of the best material, pure and hard, and made only for optical purposes, they are therefore not liable to get scratched or dim.

They confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision not found in any other glass.

They can be used equally well by day or candle light without tiring or fatiguing the eyes.

They are ground mathematically true in the concave convex mirror, according to the philosophy of nature, and shape of cornea of the eye, therefore assisting nature only instead of forcing it.

That the lenses are ever correct into the frames.

They can be used longer than any other glasses without changing to a higher power.

The frames are made strong and durable by experienced workmen and warranted to give satisfaction.

WM. A. CHAMBERLIN,
Dealer in Watches, Jewelry and Silver Ware, Towanda, Pa., has the sole Agency for these glasses in Bradford county. No Peddlers employed.

You should study two things. First, to

TAYLOR'S CELEBRATED OIL!
The great Invigorator for Man and Beast.
Is sold by every Druggist, that keeps a Good Store in every Township, and Livery Stable keeper, every Physician and Horse Farmer in the United States. This oil is for lameness, when used according to directions, never fails. Not to be used for their own use and for its recommendation to disinterested horses, as nothing equals it for a liniment. Every bottle has a fac-simile of Taylor's signature on it, and burns quite as much as any equal quantity of the best Coal Oil. Beware of all imitations, and of all agents representing an entire right, for Taylor's Celebrated Oil, for it is a humbug. Every bottle warranted to give satisfaction. For sale by Dr. H. C. Porter Son & Co., Porter & Kelly and F. W. Brown Druggists, Towanda, Pa. And by every Druggist and Dealer in Drugs throughout the country.
