Agricultural Department

NEBRASKA IN 1875.

Cost and Result of Farming on the Praries.

The people of Nebraska can now estimate their position: They have come through the horn, and out of the right end. It was hard upon them last year; but, in the grand history of the settlement of this continent, what state is there which has not had to undergo a period of trial? In this respect, Nebraska has suffered nothing in comparison with her western sisters. The only check there met with since the state was settled was last year; and now, in the year 1875, the land is heavy with a bountiful harvest. The following is an example of what farming land leads to in Nebraska—of the success which results from agriculture: Gen. Wright of Columbus, Ohio, owns land in Seward county, bought on 10 years credit of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad Company in Nebraska. He has had 100 acres broken, cross-plowed, seeded to wheat. The wheat harvested and carried to Seward, the market. The breaking cost $2,50 per acre, or $250; the cross plowing, $2,00 per acre, or $200; the seed cost $80, the sowing $50; the harvesting and carrying to market, $2,50 per acre, or $250, making the cost altogether, $830. The price of the land is $6,00 per acre or $600, making with the cost of cultivation, and the cost of the year's crop, $1430. What has General Wright received; Wheat 1486 bushels, for which he has had offered 85 cts. per bushel that is, $1,263,10; or, in one year, within $166.90 the purchase price of the land, the cost of cultivation, and the cost of the crop. And General Wright's success is by no means extraordinary. He is in a good section of the country, but not in a better section than the general. He has obtained an average of fifteen bushels per acre—the average of the indifferent farming of the new country, when, with good farming, the average in Nebraska might be 20 to 25 bushels per acre.—Farming the safest of all pursuits, is therefore safe in Nebraska. The right man—the good farmer—is in the right place in Nebraska. The land (cheap and fertile) is there in abundance. Those who occupy it have assured the future for themselves and their familes—that is, if they carry to their work skill and industry. No man, therefore, should struggle with rented land, or with limited or unfertile acres, while excellent farms in Nebraska are waiting the taking.

In the above example, it will be observed that General Wright is not resident in Nebraska. His work has to be hired and paid for. The farmer who is living on his own land, and doing his own work, of course, receives himself the wages for his labor.

The American Agriculturist says: That the pear is a long-lived tree, the famous Endicott and Stuyvesant pear trees, going back two hundred years and more, attest. Yet we frequently find trees that look old at fifty years and less, with dead limbs, mossy trunks, and fruitless boughs. These old trees are often seedlings or poor varieties, that have offered no particular inducement to their owners to care for them. A crop of astringent or sour pears is not much missed when it fails. These old trees sometimes occupy lawns or fields near the house, and will repay abundantly the little care that is needed to give them a new start, and to graft them with standard varieties. Some twenty years ago we took from the house, and removed it, with a block of frozen earth, upon a stone-boat to a rich border prepared for it in the fruit yard. It made a growth of a foot of wood the first season. It was then grafted with an improved variety: the grafts took kindly began to bear the third year, and have yielded good crops of delicious fruit ever since. Five years ago we grafted an old tree in the garden, which bore only indifferent winter pears, about second-rate for cooking with the Paradise of Autum. We began to get pears the second season from the grafts, and have had them in increasing quantity every year since. Last year it yielded over three bushels of splendid fruit worth at least twenty dollars. The secret of success with these old trees is to stir the soil all around them as far as the roots extend, to manure liberally, to cut out all the dead wood and about the second season, when the tree has got a good start, to commence grafting. We take three seasons to put on a new top, begining with the highest limbs and working down. In renewing the vigor of the tree, almost any kind of manure or compost is available. Wood-ashes is one of the best fertilizers. Old bones, well buried, will pay a large interest on on their cost. The contents of the privy vault and the cesspool composted, are exceedingly valuable in renovating these old trees. In stirring the soil, care should be taken not to break the roots with the plough. We attach about equal importance to the stirring of the soil, and to the fertilizing, in the process of renovation.

A contributor to the Pittsburg Post in answer to the question, How can a cow be cured of sucking herself? says: I have cured two of my cows by putting a double nozzle on the nose with sharp nails in. The strap is made to fit half-way between the eyes and the nose, giving the cow every opportunity for getting all the grass she needs. The outside strap holds the nails; the inside one is to hold the nails from coming out. The strap should be fastened to the cow's head like a horse halter I know of no better or more effectual remedy.

A Warren's Mills (Iowa) farmer says—Having heard much about "quarter cracks" on horses, and the cure, I will give my remedy, having tried it three times on different horses and each time with excellent results: Have the horse shod on the cracked foot with a solid shoe, that is, a round one. If the crack is in the front of the hoof, a wide toe-calk should be used; if on the side of the hoof have four calks. A steel shoe should be used on the edge of the hoof. A plate should be riveted over the crack Use tar or pitch freely. Don't stand the horse on a wood floor, but on the ground. He can be worked every day.

VARNISH FOR CHROMOS.—A good varnish for renewing chromos is made by diluting one-quarter pound Venice turpentine with about a gill of spirits of wine. If too thick a little more of the latter, if not thick enough a little more of the former, until about the consistency of milk.

WRITTEN LESSONS.

BY ALFRED HOLBROOK.

To secure thorough investigation, I would have pupils write their lessons.

The pupil is constantly practicing and improving in his penmanship, capitalizing, spelling, syntax and punctuation, which exercises are all avoided in the common book method of study, or the "whizza-whizza" plan.

The mind of the pupil is very much aided and encouraged by the employment of the fingers, and by seeing on paper or the slate the results of its labor.

Remark.—This is a kind of object lesson drill that amounts to something in developing attention, observation, penetration, clear conception, correct, free and happy use of language in the expression of thought.

Whereas, by the common method of study, the slow, honest student is constantly discouraged by his mistakes and inefficiency, as they are brought out and censured in recitation; while the quick and mischievous pupil is as constantly commended in recitation, and thus encouraged in idleness and mischief, the greater part of his time; this method gives ample opportunity for the teacher to commend the slow and backward pupil for his industry and faithful effort, while the active and sharp pupils will be held to continual application, by writing their lessons, and pursuing their investigations, as they never can be on the "whizza-whizza" plan.

The pupil is constantly learning to think independently, and voluntarily to use his dictionary and other reference books in the preparation of his lessons, in order to secure the most exhaustive reports on any subject assigned.

Remark.—The objections to the writing method of study may be numerous, but they all disappear or become real advantages under proper management. The plan, as I have before said, must be modified to meet the demands of every different branch, and to suit the different powers of pupils of different ages, and when so modified with any degree of skill or good judgment, every objection is removed, and the objects are secured, viz: the habit of critical, thorough investigation, and the habit of continuous, cheerful, earnest labor.—From Holbrook's School Management.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS, for all the purposes of a Family Physic, curing Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach and Breath, Headache, Erysipelas, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Billiousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of everybody, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar-coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless. Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass., Practical and Analytical Chemists. Sold by all druggists and dealers in medicines. [aug11,3m.]

SPECTACLES! SPECTACLES!

ARUNDEL TINTED.

These Lenses have the power of Protecting the Eye from IRRITATION arising from Light, accompanied by Heat. Under Wilson's American and English letters patent.

REASONS WHY THE

ARUNDEL TINTED SPETACLES

SHOULD BE PREFERRED TO ALL OTHERS:

They have the power of Arresting the Heat-Rays of Solar and Artificial Light before entering the Eye.

They are Violet Tinted, yet so constructed that when applied to the Eye appear colorless.

The high and low numbers are the same tint.
