Union State Convention.

The loyal men of Pennsylvania, comprising the National Union party, will meet in State Convention in the Hall of the House of Representatives, at Harrisburg, on Thursday, April 28th, 1864.

Each district will be entitled to the same representation as it now has in the State Legislature, and the delegates will be chosen at such times and in such manner as shall be directed by the respective county committees.

The State Convention is called for the purpose of placing in nomination an Electoral Ticket, selecting delegates at large to the National Convention of the Union party, to be held at Baltimore on the 7th June next, and taking such action as it may deem proper in reference to the approaching Presidential canvass.

The selection of the district delegates from Pennsylvania to the National Convention is left, where it properly belongs, to the people assembled in their county conventions; but the different county committees are earnestly requested to adopt such measures as will secure a full attendance at their respective conventions, and thereby secure, in the choice of delegates, a full and fair expression of the will of the people.

The committee cannot forbear to congratulate all lovers of liberty and the Union upon the recent triumphs of the good cause in New Hampshire and Connecticut, and to express the hope, shared by all loyal men, that they are only the forerunners of more splendid victories soon to be won in the same cause alike by the bullet and the ballot.

Gold yesterday was 164½ and 164¾ premium in New York.

An editorial of some length prepared for this morning's paper will be given tomorrow.

Attention is called to a communication on this page on "Popular Nominations." The sentiments of the writer are our own, and we will take an early opportunity to add a few remarks to what he has said so well.

New York follows Pennsylvania in deciding to pay the interest on her State debt in legal tenders instead of gold. The Times of Wednesday says: "It appears to have been decided by the Assembly that the interest on the State debt shall be paid to foreign holders as well as to native ones in paper and not in coin."

Horace Greeley was recently summoned to appear before Judge Barnard, of New York, to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of that official in publishing in the Tribune an article entitled "A Judicial Outrage." Wednesday was the day fixed for Mr. Greeley to make his appearance, but that gentleman again treated the Judge with contempt by failing to come to time. The case goes over until Monday next, when Mr. Greeley will be expected to answer certain interrogatories.

Hon. Thomas Williams.

The following extract from a private letter from Hon. Thomas Williams to a friend in Allegheny city, who had written to that gentleman urging his return for a few days, in view of the nominating convention called for Tuesday next, contains so much that is worthy of Mr. Williams' well acknowledged patriotism and self abnegation, that we feel constrained to publish the following extract:

Washington, D. C., April 18, 1864.

Dear Sir: I had just received your letter, when I had to go into a Union caucus, at which it was resolved, with great unanimity, that the interest and just expectations of the country required that we should push the revenue and some other important bills through without delay, and that every man should be kept in his place, and a report made of the absentees. It had been previously decided, moreover, to hold night sessions from this time forward, with the same object.

The consequence of all this is, that I shall be denied the privilege of going home at this particular juncture. I cannot do it without rendering myself obnoxious to the public imputation of abandoning my seat and neglecting my public duties, in order to advance my own interests. If I must suffer for it, at the hands of my constituents I must needs submit. * * * *

Yours truly,
Thomas Williams.

Johnny Clem.

Every reader of our paper will remember the incident told of the little drummer boy at Chickamauga, who rendered himself conspicuous in that hard fought battle by his activity and courage—first filling the office of a "marker," carrying the guidon whereby the lines are formed, and next picking up a gun that had fallen from some dying hands and using it with telling effect against the butternuts, one of his victims being a rebel colonel! This young soldier belonged to Newark, Ohio, his name was Johnny Clem, and his age at the time he became a hero not quite thirteen years. He was "small for his size." For his more than boyish courage, Gen. Rosecrans made him a sergeant, and a daughter of Secretary Chase presented him with a silver medal, appropriately inscribed. He has just been made the recipient of a neat sergeant's uniform by some citizens of Chicago. Mr. Benjamin F. Taylor, the Chattanooga correspondent of the Chicago Journal, in referring to the presentation of the uniform, thus tells the story of the shooting of the rebel colonel:

"Late in the waning day, the waif left almost alone in the whirl of the battle, a rebel colonel dashed up and looking down at him, ordered him to surrender: "Surrender!" he shouted, "you little d——d son of a b——!" The words were hardly out of the rebel's mouth, when Johnny brought his piece to "order arms," and as his hand slipped down to the hammer, he pressed it back, swung up the gun to the position of "charge bayonet," and as the officer raised his sabre to strike the piece aside, the glancing barrel lifted into range, and the proud colonel tumbled dead from his horse, his lips fresh stained with the syllable of vile reproach he had flung upon a mother's grave in the hearing of her child!"

The Crisis, a paper published by a certain Medary, at Columbus, Ohio, contains the following remarks in relation to the action of their State Copperhead Convention:

"There can be no doubt about the fact that any attempt to transfer the Democratic party on to a war platform will be resisted with more determination than some men, who would sell the country for an office, suppose. They want neither Lincoln nor any of his Major Generals.

"The strength, and the only strength, of the Democratic party, from first to last, has been opposition to this war, unholy, barbarous and ruinous."

General Order No. 252, issued at Washington in July last, thus lays down the law of retaliation:

"For every soldier of the United States killed in violation of the laws of war, a rebel soldier shall be executed: and for every one enslaved by the enemy, or sold into slavery, a rebel soldier shall be placed at hard labor on the public works, and continued at such labor until the other shall be released, and receive the treatment due to a prisoner of war."

The new two cent piece which has been recommended for Congressional sanction, has a very great resemblance to a gold coin. In the centre of one side is stamped "2 cents," and around it a wreath of wheat, and also the words, "United States of America." On the other side is the shield of liberty, upon which are the words, "God is our trust."

The rebel General Buford who led the attack on Fort Pillow, is said to be a brother of two Federal Generals of the same name.

Popular Nominations.

The old delegate system, so far as the Union or Republican party is concerned, is about played out. Theoretically it is a very nice system; and so long as none but intelligent and pure minded citizens, who had no axes to grind for themselves or their special friends, were chosen as delegates, it worked admirably. But when that time was has very nearly faded from the memory of the "oldest inhabitant;" and for a long time it has been a kind of mill, kept in operation by the strength of many to grind corn for a few. In most of the counties in Western Pennsylvania, the people grew sick and tired of having the nominations made by a few wire workers at the county seats, and took the work into their own hands. Hence arose what is called the "Crawford County System."

This system is extremely simple, and perfectly democratic. Names of citizens, members of the party, are publicly announced by themselves or friends as candidates for nomination; and a particular day is appointed for holding a primary election. The several candidates have tickets printed and distributed, and in most cases canvass the county in person to make themselves acquainted in all respects as at the general election on the second Tuesday of October, except that no citizens are allowed to vote except such as will pledge themselves to support the ticket at the October election, whether his favorite is or is not nominated. Trustworthy citizens are chosen by the County Committee to conduct the elections; and when all the votes are in, they are counted in the usual manner, regular returns made out, the ballots preserved and a return judge (not a delegate) is chosen by and from among the election officers, to carry the returns on a specified day to the county seat, where the official return of the whole county is made out, and the successful candidates, being those having the largest vote, are announced and officially notified of their nomination. If, any conferees are to be appointed, the convention of return judges appoints them. This is all the delegated power they have.

Large townships are often divided into two, three, and even four precincts, for the convenience of the voters. At these elections pretty heavy votes are frequently polled, and animated contests are not unfrequent. But when the election is passed, and the candidates are announced, it is rare to hear any expression of dissatisfaction at the result.

Simple as this system is, it is very unmanageable. Hence politicians, in the technical sense of that word, hate it; and aspirants to office, who have not many personal qualities to recommend them to popular favor, do not like it; for it puts every man upon trial, as to his own proper merits and deserts, before he is allowed to mount upon the back of the Union, or of the Republican party, which, in a county like this, is strong enough to carry almost anything.

But a really worthy and honorable man, who wished to be a candidate for office, would prefer it to the old system, even though it might put him to a little more expense, and give him somewhat more trouble; for its wear and tear upon his self respect is so much less that it more than compensates for the additional trouble and expense.

We are having a great revolution in the nation, which has broken one heavy yoke; but slavery is not the only yoke that might be advantageously broken. It would not be amiss to make a little revolution of the same kind in this initial work of our party politics. The popular system has worked well in other counties, and I can perceive no good reason why it should not work just as well in Allegheny county. The heavy Union majority in this county renders a nomination tantamount to an election; but this only makes it still more the duty of the people to guard with jealous care the primary step in the business of choosing officers. C.

More Rebel Barbarities—A Savage Deed in Missouri—Another Fort Pillow Incident.

The rebel soldiers seem to have an insatiable appetite for deeds which rival in barbarity the outrages committed by the savages in Minnesota. The St. Louis Democrat publishes the following account of a new atrocity, furnished by a correspondent at Jefferson City, Missouri, under date of April 15:

"On last Tuesday night, the 12th inst., the notorious bushwhacking gang of Shumate and Clark went to the house of an industrious, hardworking German farmer named Kuntz, who lives some twenty-five to thirty miles from the mouth of Osage river, and demanded his money. Kuntz had saved some money for the express purpose of sending for his family to come over from the old country to his new home. He stoutly denied having any cash, but the fiends not believing him, or perhaps knowing that he did have some money, deliberately took down a wood saw, which was hanging up in the cabin and laid his left leg three times below and four times above the knee with the saw. Loss of blood, pain and agony made the poor fellow insensible, and he was unable to tell where the money was concealed. His mangled body was found next day, life extinct. A boy who lived with him succeeded in making his escape, terror-stricken, to give the alarm. After leaving Kuntz's, the gang went to an adjoining American farmer, whose name I was unable to learn, and not succeeding in their demands for money, they destroyed everything in and around the place, took the man out and literally cut his head off. All of this is vouched for by the whole neighborhood."

ANOTHER INCIDENT FROM FORT PILLOW.

The same paper has the following additional item of the Fort Pillow massacre:

"The full atrocities committed at Fort Pillow under Forrest's order on the 12th, are not yet before the public, and many of them never will be. They are too shameful for public prints. It seems that Lieut. Akerstran, who was Post Quartermaster, was nailed to the side of a building, with his arms extended and the house set on fire. His remains were found thus charred and blackened by those who knew him, next day. Several were buried alive, and the ground shows that they made superhuman efforts to escape suffocation."

The Fever Abated.

The Corbondale Advance, says: "The fever has abated and nearly disappeared from our town. Not only are we without new cases of fever, but many are remarkable and happy exemption from other diseases. Our physicians assure us that Carbondale is just now remarkably healthy. This is truly most gratifying intelligence, and will do much towards dissipating the clouds of gloom that have enveloped us. Our community has been most terribly and fearfully scourged during the past three months. So many families have been called to mourn; so many dear ones have been suddenly removed by death, without warning and without remedy, that our whole community has stood aghast. Business, though not suspended, has been almost paralyzed, and attended to as a formality than as a matter of interest or importance. The removal of the dreaded scourge will scatter the clouds that have enshrouded us and let in once more the cheerful light. Business will revive and the public mind recover its tone. It has also disappeared from Kingston, and the place is now perfectly healthy."

A fleet of war steamers went to sea on Tuesday morning. The iron-clad Onondaga left the Navy Yard early in the morning. The Kanderbilt, Navy Yard tug, and the Ross accompanied the iron clad from the yard, the Mattabassett following shortly afterward. The fleet is to touch at Hampton Roads, and it is said that its orders are not to be opened until after its departure from that point. The Mattabassett is one of the twenty-seven double-enders, and sister ship to the Chenango.—N. Y. Commercial.

A Sensible Conclusion.—The London Times, which has been discouraging the emigration to America of the Irish, now says: "It is better to encourage emigration than to maintain these people at the expense of the Government." Just so, as an able-bodied laborer can earn more in a day in this country than he can in a week in Ireland, the inducement to go abroad is not to be resisted.

RORABACK'S

Compound Chemical Soap,

(Patented March 24, 1857,)

From its superior excellence, surpasses all other Soaps ever offered to the public. It has invariably met the approval of all persons who have given it their attention. Its use in washing cotton or linen goods saves the labor of boiling, and to a great extent the rubbing, thereby effecting a great saving in labor, time and destruction of fabric. For woolen goods it cannot be equalled, flannels that by careless washing with other soaps have become shrunk and hard as a board, are restored to their former softness and flexibility by its use. In cleaning paints and varnished work, all dirt, no matter how long standing, grease spots, alcoholic stains, &c., are instantaneously removed. Britannia and Tinware are not only quickly cleaned, but a polish equal to that produced by whiting, and accomplished in the tenth of the time, is the result. Carpets and cloths, linens are also quickly and thoroughly freed from grease or paint. For shaving or bath purposes it will be found to surpass the best quality of Windsor Soap, leaving the skin soft and pleasant. It contains nothing alkali that can injure the finest fabric; and persons who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with a cutaneous disease, will find it has long and beneficial. Owing to its peculiar properties and cheapness, it quickly finds favor among those who use it, and is destined to supersede all other Soaps.

The patent is now at its highest. HARK'S HOTEL, in this city, where he will remain for a few days, selling State and County Rights. Persons desirous of a good investment will find this a rare opportunity, for it is seldom that a patented article of so universal use is offered in State and County Rights, thereby enabling men of very moderate capital to acquire that which would ensure them a competence. The patent has a few counties in this State which he is desirous of disposing of previous to his departure for the west, and offers superior inducements to any person wishing to invest.
