Reading Matter from Yesterday's Evening Gazette.

Democratic Nominations.

The Democrats yesterday went through the motions of placing in combination ward, city and county tickets for the approaching election. The conventions were noticeable for the entire absence of the riot and confusion that always attend Democratic caucuses. The assemblies yesterday were orderly and well conducted. The reason of this was that no one wanted the empty honor of a Democratic nomination, and the regular politicians avoided the conventions. No one was desirous of being immolated for the sake of the party, and, therefore, there was no scramble for office and no contention for preferment. Old worn out hacks and half-fledged politicians were the nominees. The conventions were composed of boys, scarcely free, who were orderly, because they did not know how to be anything else.

The European Harvests.

The London papers state that, notwithstanding the drought which seems to have visited the eastern as well as the western world, crops generally bid fair to be very good. The London Advertiser reports:

"Harvest being now in operation, fall wheat, although short, is of very fine quality—its berry being hard from much sunshine, may appear smaller than usual. Spring wheat, being yet rarely cut, will be of fair yield and prove a good sample generally. Peas, although not a heavy crop, is very fair, well colored, free of bugs, and in excellent condition. Oats are generally short of straw, but will prove heavy—an average yield. Hay—a heavier crop than expected. Pasture grass completely burned up, and cattle suffering. Butter will fall short of the usual supply, and prices may be anticipated to rule high."

The Appointment of General Sheridan.

Universal satisfaction is expressed at the appointment of General Sheridan to the command of the Middle Military Division. Pole comprises the four separate departments of Washington, the Susquehanna, Middle Department and Western Virginia. The status of each of these will remain the same as heretofore, but the appointment of General Sheridan to the general command gives military unity to the operations in the region named. Lack of itself would inspire high hopes of efficient work in a district in where that thing has been sadly needed; but this is further insured by the eminent ability of the new Commander. General Sheridan is, of all others, precisely the very best that could have been charged with the piece of business he will now have on hand in Maryland, on the Pennsylvania border.

The Draft to be Enforced.

From the following letter to the Provost Marshal of the Wheeling District, it appears the draft will certainly be enforced in those districts which fail to fill their quota before the 5th of September:

PROVOST-MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON CITY, August 3.

Col. John Ely, A. A. P. M. General, Wheeling, West Virginia:

See that your Enrolling Boards spare no pains in correcting the enrollment lists, and making all necessary preparation for proceeding promptly with the draft in September.

(Signed) J. B. FRY, Provost Marshal General.

A GOVERNOR WITHOUT A STATE.—One of the most curious documents that we have seen lately is "A Proclamation by Thos. G. Harris, Governor of Tennessee," printed in the Atlanta (Ga.) Appeal, appointing an election in the Eleventh Congressional District of Tennessee to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Hon. David M. Currin. Polls are to be opened not only in the district, but wherever there are Tennessee soldiers. Inasmuch as Harris has been an exile from Tennessee for a long time, and would not dare set his foot on its soil except clandestinely, this proclamation may be styled, "the height of the ridiculous."

THE NEW HIGH COURT.—Some time since, we stated that a number of prominent Republican gentlemen who have been mentioned for promotion to Congress, have already announced. Messrs. Washburn and Arnold, of Illinois, Speaker Colfax and Gen. Dumont of Indiana, and some others. We rejoice to know further that all three of the representatives of Vermont have been renominated. It is very bad policy to reelect inefficient Members, and very good to reelect the other sort so long as they will serve. Mr. Morrill, we know, has tried to retire, but his District would never consent. That is a sensible district.—N. Y. Tribune.

DAN VOORHEES removed his law office, to Terre Haute, a few days ago, and in doing so left behind a package of pamphlets which are now in the hands of the Provost Marshal. On examination, they were found to be fifteen hundred copies of the Yellow Book, containing the second and third degrees of the ritual of the Sons of Liberty, done up in an unopened express package.

A BOSTON police officer, having in custody a prisoner, met a justice of the peace driving to the city in company with a lady. He stated the case to the justice, and a court was immediately opened, and the accused tried and convicted while still sitting in the officer's carriage. He paid the fine and costs imposed, and was discharged, and the court and his companion went on to Boston.

ANOTHER romance of the war, that has commenced going the round, is that of a rebel officer who was blown up by the explosion of the mine at Petersburg, two hundred feet into the air, and come down alive and uninjured. The reader is expected to be nearly as breathless with surprise at this story as the rebel was when he came down.

AN UNFOUNDED REPORT.—The Herald's Washington dispatch, to the effect that a strong effort was being made by leading Republicans to secure the restoration of McClellan to the command, and that the President was disposed to yield, on certain conditions, is without the slightest foundation.

A MAN, at a circus in Paris, lifts up a cask of wine with his teeth, while a man seated upon it playing the fiddle.

News and Miscellany.

We publish in an another column a list of 40 colored soldiers belonging to the 54th and 55th Massachusetts regiments, now held as prisoners in Charleston, S.C., sent us by a white officer of distinction, recently exchanged, and who had also been confined in Charleston. Of the authenticity there can be no doubt, and the friends of these poor fellows, who have heard nothing from them for more than a year, will be greatly relieved to know that they are, at least still alive. The number of colored soldiers taken prisoners in the Department of the South during the last year is probably double the number here reported but no doubt their numbers have been thinned by death. It is not impossible, however, that there may be other survivors than those whose names are given in this list, unreturned either in Charleston, or somewhere else in South Carolina. It is, at any rate, a relief to be assured that this number have been held as prisoners of war, and not summarily shot or sold into slavery. In their case the barbarous policy announced by the rebel authorities as to be followed in regard to all colored men taken in arms has not been adhered to; and it is only another proof that our own Government can, if they will insist upon justice being done by all our soldiers, compel the rebels to grant it. It is undoubtedly to the fear of retaliation in case of their massacre or enslavement, that these men owe it that they are held as prisoners of war. And it is for the Government to say whether all negro troops who shall be taken by the rebels shall be assured of that measure of mercy.—N. Y. Trib.

THE English newspaper press is feeling the pressure of our war as bad nearly as our own newspapers. All the articles used in newspaper publishing have advanced in price, from scarcity. The curtailment of the cotton trade renders cotton waste scarce and dear. The price of rosin has been augmented considerably, owing to the war, and alkali and bleaching powder, for the same reason, are very dear. The English newspapers feel this so severely that, in the House of Commons, on the 22d ult., Mr. Maguire, a newspaper proprietor, asked for a commission to inquire into the state of the paper trade, and see if some remedy could not be applied.—Phila. Ledger.

HOOKAWHAT may be a good military engineer, but he is a bungler at mining operations. The Schuylkill county boys of this State, with their practical knowledge, can beat him two to one. They mined the rebel works, and put their magazines directly under the rebel fort, to be sent sky-high, but the rebel miners came near blowing themselves up with their countermine, so greatly had they miscalculated the distance. They are apt scholars, however, and our men should keep an ear as well as an eye upon their future operations.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing from Sherman's army says: "All the army officers whom I have heard speak of Hood allude to him as a man of very common attainments, but of undoubted courage. His classmates, of whom there are several here, allude to him as a West Pointer better versed in the mysteries of 'bluff' and 'draw' than in tactics and engineering." Gen. Miller, who knew Hood intimately in California, thinks his appointment a great advantage gained by us, and in the view of the purposes of Sherman, Hood's appointment looks encouraging.

A NEW COMET.—Mr. Hind, of England, has discovered a new comet, whose orbit is remarkable for its near coincidence with the plane of the earth's path. This comet in the middle of August will be nine hundred times brighter than in the mid dle of last July, when it was by no means a faint telescope object. It is not one that has been previously computed.

A GOOD HIT.—Last Sunday the Rev. Mr. Mullen preached a war sermon in Lafayette, and, in which he told the pious Copperheads that in a single battle fought by the Hebrews 120,000 were slain and 200,000 carried into captivity. But the best thing he told them was that intemperance carries of 40,000 off our males every year, or more than have fallen in battle for national life in three years, and yet they have not howled once about it.—Cin. Gaz.

POLAND GOES.—Russia has so modified the Polish policy as to forbid Polish proprietors from transferring their estates to others, thus insuring confiscation and also to exclude from the purchase of State property, Russian Cossacks and Poles. Thus is the thorough incorporation of Lithuania and White Ruthenia with the Russian Empire to be effected.

AGED OR OLD AGE.—Sarah Hollingsworth died the other day in Philadelphia, aged 110 years. She retained her mental faculties to the last, though she had been for some years physically helpless. Formerly she lived by peddling starch from door to door, and latterly had been supported by the charity of members of St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

ARCHBISHOP WHITELY when preaching has been known in the height of his argument to get his leg over the pulpit. He was an invalid, too, and was usually accompanied by three favorite dogs, whom he had taught various tricks, and was a thorough believer in clairvoyance and mesmerism.

IN Philadelphia, on Saturday, a boy climbed upon a freight car slowly moving down the street. He mother caught him to pull him off, and in the struggle the lad fell upon the track, and was quite cut in twain before his mother's eyes.

THE hay crop in New Hampshire is much better than was anticipated. Many farmers have gathered as much this year as last, and all concede that the crop is superior in quality, and was gathered in much better condition.

ONE of the largest farms in Northampton, Massachusetts, produced nineteen thousand dollars worth of tobacco last year, and several other "farmers rule" from five thousand to ten thousand dollars' worth.

THE rebel major who was killed shortly after the evacuation of Chambersburg, by the citizens, and who was reported as the notorious Gilmore, turns out to be Major Bailey, 21st Independent Maryland Battalion.

GENERAL SCOTT refers to it as a striking fact that the three Vice Presidents, Aaron Burr, John C. Calhoun and John C. Breckenridge, became, each in his day, a leader in treason.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

A Strange Story.

There resides in this city, in one of the lower wards, a keen, sprightly and dashing woman, who has a slow, easy going, simple minded husband. The match was one of those in which a strong-willed—the lady possessing all the pollen, strategy and intellect, and the husband content to be merely passive, and quietly submissive to her will. The household consists of three persons, and an only daughter, a romping little girl of some six summers. The family removed to this city when this child was a babe. Everybody knows, and it is no harm to say it here, that the "progress of events" is closely watched, particularly by the matrons of a neighborhood, and where the visits of children, like those of angels, become few and far between, the facts noted, and becomes the subject of much quiet gossip.

Some surprise was created when a confidential friend of Mrs. ——announced that after six long years she was again to be blessed. Time grew on apace. A visit from the family physician, closely followed by the unwelcome presence of the undertaker, told of disappointed hopes. The flower of a day lay withered and dead. Surrowing friends whispered words of sympathy in the ears of the weeping mother. The beautiful babe lay cold and silent in the little coffin; the minister came and spoke tender, words of consolation, and the tiny corpse was conveyed to the silent tomb. But the reader will ask, what is there strange in all this? Let the sequel tell.

Some six months previous to the event above narrated, an unfortunate girl applied to a friend for assistance to enable her to bring to justice a young man who had deceived her, and left for the west. Nothing could be done, as the man had entered the government service. In two or three weeks after the death of Mrs. ——'s child, this girl had occasion to apply to the same party, for a device to enable her to obtain a sum of money due her, and divulged the following singular facts: After failing in her efforts to apprehend her seducer, her condition by some means became known to Mrs. ——, who sent for her and expressed a desire that she should remain with her until her trouble was over—that she would assume all the appearances and all the responsibilities, and afterwards adopt the child as her own. The girl, under the circumstances, readily consented, but she had not remained in the house long until it was evident that this arrangement could not be carried out successfully.

A boarding house was then obtained for her in Allegheny, and she continued there, in close quarters, with instructions to report immediately to Mrs. —— when the critical moment arrived. Mrs. —— had gradually developed her plans, and was anxiously awaiting the arrival of the messenger. A miscalculation in the time caused her no little annoyance, but the female messenger, so anxiously awaited, finally arrived, and Mrs. ——, becoming suddenly ill, popped into her chamber and sent for Dr. ——. A second visit of the messenger from Allegheny brought the unwelcome news of death. "Bring it to me, dead or alive," whispered Mrs. ——, who lay in the very picture of maternal anxiety. The physician who attended the girl in Allegheny was now let into the secret, and he remarked that Mrs. —— might as well buy the child anybody else. The body was removed accordingly, and the burial was conducted in elegant style. A prominent minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church officiated, but of course he was not a party to this cunning fraud. The "mother," of course, got along remarkably well, and was soon convalescent. The physician who attended Mrs. —— was a party to the affair, and assisted in carrying out the scheme. Besides in this city.

Now as to the motive which prompted this piece of maternal strategy. We have the following explanation: Mrs. ——, having a very wealthy relative, an ex Governor of an adjoining State, who expressed an intention to settle a big handsome on her children, whenever she should have any, was naturally very anxious on that subject. But heaven did not favor her in this respect, and the little girl above spoken of was obtained somewhat after the manner of Abraham's second attempt. But no matter about that, since her uncle by relative, true to his promise, settled $10,000 upon the child. And it was with the prospect of obtaining another $10,000, that the scheme, so unhappy in its issue, was formed. That she did not succeed was no fault of hers, as she is said to have performed her part most admirably. The only thing she failed in, was in not paying the girl the price agreed upon, which circumstance led to a revelation of the facts.

Destructive Fire in Fallston, Beaver County—Loss over $30,000.

A most disastrous fire occurred in the manufacturing town of Fallston, Beaver county, on Wednesday night, resulting in the destruction of property valued at over $30,000. Fallston is located three miles from the Ohio river, on the west side of Beaver creek, the manufactories being principally located on what is known as "the race." The fire broke out at half past eleven o'clock Wednesday night, either in the keg factory of Messrs. M. T. Kennedy & Co., or in the saw mill of Messrs. Stewart, Kennedy & Duff, immediately adjoining. When the fire was discovered it was impossible to tell from which of these buildings it proceeded. Both these works were destroyed, together with a large quantity of lumber.

The fire next spread to the large brick store and dwelling belonging to the estate of Matthew Gilliland, which was destroyed. There was no goods in the store, it not having been used for some time.

Kennedy & Duff's lumber office, together with several thousand dollars worth of lumber, next fell a prey to the flames.

Wolcott's four story cotton factory was the next building destroyed, but there was not much lost here, as the factory had been idle for some time.

A large two story frame sash factory, belonging to Stewart Kennedy, but lately used for the manufacture of furniture, was also destroyed.

The saw keg sash factory of Messrs. Kennedy and Co., was next attacked by the flames, and completely destroyed. The building was new, three stories high, and located on "the race." It had been gotten up at great expense. The proprietors were about ready to commence operations.

The hardware store of Mr. Wm. Cannon, (formerly of this city,) was left a mass of ruins, and Mr. C. lost nearly all his stock. His means were nearly all invested in the building and stock.

The dwelling of Mr. B. McCooky was destroyed, together with nearly all the household goods.

A large boarding house, kept by Mrs. Johnston, was also destroyed, together with a number of dwelling houses along the base of the hill, the owners or occupants of which were not known to our informant. The hill was covered with goods which had been carried out to prevent their being burned, and a number of families have been rendered houseless.

Edgar's large grain mill and Darragh's machine shop were saved by a change in the wind.

The extensive tub and bucket factory of Messrs. Miner & Merrick was saved by means of an apparatus in their works fitted up expressly for extinguishing fires. The engine throws an immense volume of water, and has thoroughly proved its efficiency, as well as the prudence and foresight of the proprietors. By this means the wire and rivet factory of Messrs. B. Tomlinson & Co. was saved, together with much other valuable property.

The fire raged with great violence for several hours and the entire loss will not be less than $30,000, while it may exceed that figure considerably.

Nomination of Hon. Thos. Williams.

The Conferees of the 23d Congressional District, composed of the counties of Butler and Armstrong, and a portion of Allegheny, met at the Repiqo House, Kittanning, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress in that district. Present—Hon. Darwin Phelps, Dr. T. H. Allison and Jeremiah Bonner, Esqs., of Armstrong; Hon. James Kerr, Thomas Robinson and Isaac A. D. of Butler, and T. H. Newing, Josiah King and John M. Porter, of Allegheny county.

On motion of Mr. Robinson, the Hon. Darwin Phelps was called to the Chair, and on motion of Dr. Allison, J. M. Porter was chosen Secty.

The Chairman having stated the object of conference, Mr. Porter nominated the Hon. Thos. Williams, of Allegheny county, and there being no other nominations, on motion of Mr. Robinson, Mr. Williams was nominated by acclamation.

The meeting, after adopting resolutions endorsing the Congressional course of Mr. Williams, and commending him to the loyal voters of the 23d district, adjourned.

McILWAIN'S second great auction sale of lots at Braddock's Field comes off on Monday next, 15th inst. Quite a number of lots were sold at last sale, notwithstanding the military scare and suspension of business on that day. Many of those sold are to be improved at once, which, with other improvements and the large car machine shop, foundry, &c., now in rapid progress of completion, speak well for the prospect of the place. Excursion trains leave both depots (Connellsville and Pennsylvania) at same hour—1 o'clock. Tickets free, on both roads and both ways.
