The result of the Presidential election, says the New York Commercial of Wednesday, having relieved the market of an element that has so long kept the market inactive, there was the morning a general increase of act ivity in the market, prominent among the leading stocks of which a common one set and the market exhibited more buoyancy than at any period since last month. Quite parties are coming into the market to ascertain what are the chances of speculation, and the prospects are so to that the brokers will be much busier than the market exhibits to themselves at late.

The increased speculation has produced an activity in demand for money, and the tendency is towards a decided stringency. Rates for call loans continue at 6 ¾ per cent. Discounting is very dull. Very little first class paper is offered, and other grades are not wanted. The rate continues 8a12 per cent.

The New York Commercial and Shipping List, under date of this last says: Under the excitement incident to the election of Chief Magistrate of the Nation, together with other adverse influences, the volume of business since our last has been small by half. The Gold speculation has been subject to the usual wide fluctuations, and a irregular course affords a tolerably true reflection of the rulings of commercial values which we may add, have had a slight upward tendency. There appears to be a growing conviction in commercial circles irrespective of party considerations, that touching the fortunes of war that prices will hardly be any low r this year at least, and as the exigencies of consumption are in many instances becoming rather pressing, it is quite probable that we shall soon be called upon to chronicle an increase of business in money, now that the chaotic element in politics is about to be superseded.

Gold has been very irregular. As a general thing prices have ruled higher, but it is evident that the advance is purely the result of speculation. It is a noteworthy sign of the times that the holders of the produce is trying to avoid the ruinous policy of "forcing" stocks for the accommodation. Present appearances would seem to indicate that the Gold rope had been stretched to its utmost tension.
