CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Union Jubilee in Noblestown.

A short time since the people of North and South Fayette townships had a grand jubilee in Noblestown over the election of Lincoln and Johnson. Early in the evening the people began to congregate, and at six o'clock the village was alive with the Union-loving citizens of the two townships. The ladies from all the surrounding country were out in their might. At six o'clock the supper bell pealed out its welcome ding-dong, and eighty of the assembled multitude camped themselves around the large tables that had been fitted up in a spacious hall of the village. Ample justice was done to the oysters, beef, chickens and pie" and the other good things under which the table groaned. Three tables were served and two hundred and forty persons partook of the bountiful repast, and all felt satisfied that the getter up of the supper, Mr. D. Gooch, was "the right man in the right place." After the table had been cleared one of them answered as a speaker's stand, and Rev. Hutchinson and Messrs. Hoffman and Sterling made short and appropriate addresses. At the close of this part of the meeting a gentleman proposed three cheers for Lincoln and the Union and they were given with a will. Then the entire assembly, consisting of men, women and children, adjourned to the street to witness an exhibition of fireworks. The pyrotechnical display lasted forty or fifty minutes, and at its close a burning tar barrel was borne through the streets, preceded by a band of music. At the home of the prominent Democrats the procession cheered lustily for Lincoln and the Union. The more sober and sedate then returned to their homes, whilst the "youth and beauty" again took possession of the hall and "chased the hours with flying feet" until the village chanticleers proclaimed the midnight hour. Everything passed off pleasantly, and in the "wee sma' hours ayont the twal" the multitude quietly dispersed, feeling entirely satisfied with the festivities of the evening.

Change in Railroad Officials.

General J. Stewart, who has acted as Passenger Agent for the Pennsylvania Railroad in this city for more than eight years, has resigned that position, having accepted the Secretary and Treasurership of the "Plymouth Coal and Improvement Company," his office to be in Philadelphia. During his residence in our city, the General has made a host of friends, and endeared himself to all classes of our citizens by his courtesy and politeness. Although mild and unobtrusive in his manners he is a gentleman of superior business tact, and is well qualified for his new position.

In order to give expression to their high estimation of his excellence and worth, the officers at the Passenger Station presented the General with a massive and exquisitely finished gold headed cane on Saturday last. The presentation speech was made by H. M. Butler, Esq., depot master, and the General responded in a few remarks of touching pathos and intense feeling.

William H. Beckwith, Esq., has been appointed as General Stewart's successor in the passenger agency at this point. Messrs. Geo. N. Beckwith and Henry Bell are Mr. Beckwith's assistants. These gentlemen are all well versed in Railroad matters, and possess all the necessary qualifications for the situation.

Connellsville Railroad Appointments.

The appointment of Wm. Oden Hughart, Esq., as President of the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad Company, was a most judicious one, and will doubtless prove highly beneficial to the interest of the company. Mr. Hughart has been closely identified with the affairs of the road for a number of years past, and is thoroughly acquainted with all the details of the business. He is a gentleman of good business qualifications, prompt, active and energetic, and will make an excellent officer. He will have the assistance of an experienced Board, and it is to be hoped that they will succeed in relieving the company from its present embarrassments.

The services of Charles Shinn, Esq., have been retained as Solicitor, and in his hands the legal interests of the company will be carefully guarded.

Wm. B. Stout, Esq., the able and gentlemanly Superintendent, still retains his position, which he has filled with great acceptance to the company, and with honor to himself. He is assisted by Mr. J. B. Caven.

J. H. Page, Jr., Esq., has been promoted to the office of Secretary and Treasurer, a position which he is well qualified to fill, while Mr. A. V. Coale assumes the office of General Agent, made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Page.

Coal at Cost.

We direct attention to the advertisement of the Western Pennsylvania Mutual Coal Company, which is about to be formed under the mining and manufacturing laws of the State, for the purpose of furnishing the citizens of Pittsburgh and vicinity with coal at cost. The company have secured eighty acres of coal, and propose to form a company with a capital stock of $125,000, divided into twenty-five thousand shares at five dollars per share, par value, with a reserved working capital of ten thousand shares. Each subscriber to fifty shares of stock will be entitled to five hundred bushels of coal per annum at actual cost, the surplus coal produced to be sold at market price, and the profit divided among the stockholders. The land is situated on the Allegheny river, sixteen miles above the city, and the bank is open. It is estimated that, as soon as the company can construct a railway from the pit to the river or railroad, coal can be delivered at the river landing, or coal yard, at less than eight cents per bushel. This is an enterprise which commends itself to the interest of every citizen. Books for subscription to the capital stock will be opened at the office of Geo. M. Blackstock, 37 Fifth street, and at J. T. Sample's, Federal st., Allegheny.

Shocking Murder of a Soldier.

Howard Campbell, of Company H 12th, W. Va. Infantry, was murdered on the 10th ult., by three members of the 3d Indiana Cavalry, while serving as safeguard near Newtown, Frederick county, Va. The cause of the murder was thus: Some of our cavalry had been depredating upon the citizens to rather a mournful extent. One of the Third Indiana Cavalry, on the 9th, happened at the house at which Campbell was serving as a safeguard, and Campbell inveighed in terms of the highest disapprobation against the conduct of the soldiers in marauding the premises of helpless women and children, observing that he would prefer bushwhacking to conduct so unpolite-like. The cavalryman did not resent this at the time, but returned the next day with three comrades of his regiment and set upon Campbell and shot him with revolvers until he fell dead, nine balls piercing his body. Campbell was an innocent, inoffensive man. The men who committed the deed are known and will be dealt with in accordance with military law. Mr. Campbell formerly resided in Taylor county, Va.

Mr. Murdoch's Readings.

Mr. Murdoch drew a large and highly fashionable audience to Lafayette Hall last evening, and his readings were received with the most cordial appreciation and applause. The selections were mainly of a tragic character, but this evening Mr. Murdoch will give an entirely different class of selections. The subject which he has chosen is "An Evening with Tennyson, Byron, Read, Baker and Dickens." The selections embrace humorous, pathetic, and soul-stirring poems, among which we may mention the popular war-ballad entitled "Sheridan's Ride," by T. Buchanan Read, which was recited by Mr. Murdoch, in Cincinnati, soon after its publication, with thrilling effect. All of our readers have read this poem, and there is not one who would not desire to hear Mr. Murdoch recite it. An unpublished poem, by Mr. Baker, entitled "Farragut's Fight at New Orleans," will also be read. The other selections are highly attractive, and the house will doubtless be filled. Reserved seats can be secured on application at Mellor's music store.

Shooting Affray at Uniontown, Pa.

On Friday last a man named Dr. Sheppard, hailing from Fairmont, Virginia, who has been stopping in Uniontown for a short time, went into McClelland's grocery store, where Sheriff Ellycope and a number of other gentlemen were conversing, and being a blatant secessionist, began to give vent to his treasonable sentiments, at the same time shouting for Jeff Davis. Mr. Cope, who is Assistant Provost Marshal, endeavored to quiet Sheppard, chiding him at the same time for his rebellious expressions, whereupon he became more boisterous than ever. Mr. Cope finding it impossible to calm the rebel, struck him a blow, felling him to the floor. Sheppard drew a revolver and fired twice, the first ball striking Mr. Cope in the right breast, inflicting a slight flesh wound, and the second entering the thigh, producing an ugly wound.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—An accident occurred at the depot of the Connellsville railroad on Monday morning, by which an old and esteemed citizen of the Fifth ward, Frederick Haas, received injuries which produced death in a few hours afterwards. He was stepping from the platform to the cars of the seven o'clock train while they were in motion and missing the step accidentally fell between them, and was crushed to such an extent that he died about two o'clock in the afternoon. Deceased kept a barber shop opposite the market house in the Fifth ward, and was a quiet and inoffensive citizen, and an old resident of that ward. He is about fifty-four years of age and leaves a wife and family of grown up children.

TIME EXTENDED.—The time for receiving bids for the building of the bridge over the Monongahela river, at the point, has been extended to the third of January next.

Book Notices.

"CORRELATION AND CONSERVATION OF FORCE.—A series of expositions by Prof. Grove, Dr. Faraday and others. New York: D. Appleton & Co."

The views presented in this volume on the Correlation and Conservation of Forces constitute, as was truly said by the President of the British Association for the advancement of Science, the most important discovery of the present century. And that is saying a great deal, for the century has been very prolific of grand scientific results. As in all grand discoveries, men in different parts of the world have hit upon the same idea at the same time, and their views, presented in different publications, in different parts of Europe, are here for the first time, gathered into one volume, and although the several treatises are familiar to students on this side of the water, this is the first American Edition of them. We are rejoiced to see them brought together in this shape, and the editor, Prof. Youmans, has rendered a great service in giving to American students an opportunity of examining them in this accessible shape.

The new doctrine of forces set forth in this volume is based upon the idea that Force, like Matter, is indestructible. "Scientific inquiries," the preface says, "are becoming less and less questions of matter, and more and more questions of force; material ideas are giving place to dynamical ideas." "Heat, light, electricity and magnetism are now no longer regarded as substantive and independent existences, but simply as modes of motion which are capable of mutual conversion. Heat may be transformed into electricity, which is another form of force, or the process may be reversed. A given quantity of one force produces a definite quantity of another, so that power, like matter, can neither be created nor destroyed; though ever changing form its total quantity in the Universe remains constant and unalterable. Every manifestation of force comes from a pre-existing equivalent force, and these relations among the modes of energy are known by the phrases Correlation and Conservation of Force." This is a brief indication of the views presented at large in this volume, and all students of mechanics and of the elements of force should get it and read it.

"HISTORY OF THE BONANZA FINDER THE ENGINEER. By Charles Alexander, R. D. Vols. V. and VI. New York: D. Appleton & Co.

We have heretofore, upon the receipt of the precious volumes of this beautiful reprint of a standard English work, spoken of it in high terms of commendation; and these additional volumes, but confirm us in our favorable opinion of it. The history is brought down, at the close of the sixth volume, to the destruction of Jerusalem; and the interest awakened by the first volumes is kept up in these throughout. It is altogether a most valuable work, and will prove a welcome addition to any student's library.

"APOLOGIA PRO VITA SUA: By John Henry Newman, D. D. New York: D. Appleton & Co."

Dr. Newman is well-known as the foremost among those who took part, with Dr. Pusey, in the preparation and issue of "Tracts for the Times." This movement, although Dr. Newman furnished the brains for it, took its name from Dr. Pusey, and has had a marked effect in the English Church, but while Dr. Pusey and many of his coadjutors remained and still remain in the English Church, Dr. Newman followed out his convictions to their logical result (as he thought) and handed in the Catholic Church. Once there, the advancement he sought was easily found; but obscurity could hardly come to a man of so much mind, even when he sought it; and hence, although he has written little or nothing for years, his name is as well known to-day as ever. The present volume seems to have been called out by a remark of Rev. Charles Kingsley in Macmillan's Magazine, that, according to Father Newman, Truthness not and on the whole ought not to be a virtue with the Roman Clergy. After denying the correctness of this imputation, and discussing it, with Mr. Kingsley, he comes to what may be considered the vital part of the book, his autobiography. In this he gives a complete history of his religious life and opinions from 1833 until he found his legitimate home in the Romish Church in 1845. He gives a candid detail of all his mental experience in that time, and, although not to merit, it is probably one of the complete expositions of a man's inner life ever published. Perhaps our want of sympathy with the author may make us think it is not very pleasant reading; but those who can sympathize with him, and those who wish to study mental phenomena, will undoubtedly think better of it than we do.

"CHAPPELL'S LIBRARY. Six beautifully illustrated volumes

"LIBRARY OF TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE. Three volumes, with colored engravings. New York: D. Appleton & Co."

"Uncle John's Library" is a progressive series, beginning with exercises in short, easy words, with pictorial accompaniments, and ending with stories adapted to more advanced readers, the six volumes being in one neat case. The phraseology is adapted to the capacity of the child, and great pains have been taken to make the reading matter gradually progressive. It is a most excellent series, entertaining and instructive, and children cannot fail to appreciate them and improve with the reading of them. The "Library of Travel and Adventure" is a fitting sequel to the other series, and like it, is contained in a neat case. We have here "Fast in the Ice," "Fighting the Whales" and "Away in the Wilderness," all of them being attractive stories, intended to convey to the youthful reader valuable information. Each volume is complete in itself, but together they contain a variety of interesting knowledge not to be found elsewhere in the same compass.

All of the above works for sale by Davis, Clarke & Co., No. 56 Wood street.

Soldiers' Aid Concert.

Editors Gazette: It sometimes falls to the lot of man to perform a work he is entirely unable to perform. It sometimes happens that a person is called upon to report something he is utterly unable to report; and that's just the fix I find myself in at the present time. However, I'll try to tell you something about it. It's a Concert I'm talking about—a Christian Commission Concert. Some of the C. C. C.'s are not of much account, but the C. C. C. I speak of was good, grand, splendid, jolly!

This Concert came off at the Valley church in Findley township. The day was rather disagreeable—the rain drizzled and dropped continually, but notwithstanding this the house was crowded.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. Rankin, after which, Prof. Samuel J. Byers and the Hanover and Clinton Glee Clubs took the stage, and made preparations to delight us with some music. The fiddles were brought out, the fiddles were twanged and tuned and screwed and screwed and screwed and shook, the fiddles were pronounced in order, and then, my soul! the air got never tinkled and trilled and jingled and danced and squeaked and shouted and pounded with as much delicousness and delight as it did that day in the hands of Prof. Byers, McClaren and other members of the Club.

Miss Maggie Donaldson presided at the melodeon, and when the singers and fiddles started off on that grand piece "Tribute to Ellsworth" every man, woman and child in that vast assemblage was electrified with delight.

After the "Tribute" they sang some more grand and patriotic pieces, and every ear and every eye and every mouth opened wide with astonishment that such delightful, such delicious music could be produced by earthly mortals.

Addresses were delivered by Revs. M'Pherson, Taylor and Rankin, to the returned soldiers—for the meeting was a soldiers' reception, as well as a concert. At the evening session, Rev. Henry Stewart and David Shaffer made short, but eloquent and patriotic addresses.

The Misses Harper, from Service, were amongst the singers, and were the especial favorites of all. As I listened to their sweet voices floating and rippling and dancing along through "Babylon" and the "Good Time Coming," I fancied myself away up in the seventh heaven and listening to the rich, soul-thrilling melody of the celestial choir.

The song "Ha, ha, ha! That's So, or the Union Cause is gaining Ground" was well received. It was twice encored, and the plaster seemed in danger of tumbling from the walls with the tumultuous applause it received. Handkerchiefs were waved, boots kicked the floor and the stores, and men and boys shouted with delight. Such a glorious old song had never before waked the echoes along Montour's Run—such a joyful, bounding, roaring, rollicking song had never before crashed down on the ears of the sturdy yeomanry of the hills and valleys around, and when it came in all its grandeur and magnificence, every eye danced with delight and every foot bounded with ecstacy.

The ladies of the "Valley" deserve the very highest praise for the arrangements they made for the advent of the Professor and his Glee Clubs. The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers, evergreens, the stars and the yellow leaf" and the glorious old "Flag of the Free."

In conclusion, Messrs. Editors, I have only to say, long live the Christian Commission and the singers of Hanover and Clinton.

Musically yours,

O. PIDDLE STYX, of "Pintle Hill."

THE NINTH WARD SHOOTING CASE—VERDICT OF THE JURY.—The Coroner's jury, impannelled to inquire into the facts connected with the death of Frank Ott, reassembled this morning at Alderman Donaldson's office. A number of witnesses were examined, after which the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death from a ball from a pistol believed to be in the hands of James Neeson. The jury held four sessions, and a large number of witnesses were examined. Mr. Neeson is still in jail, but we understand that an effort will be made to have him released on bail.

A PITTSBURGH SOLDIER GONE.—Mr. Thomas C. Davitt, a son of our respected townsman John C. Davitt, Esq., who was a member of Company F, Fourth Regular Infantry, died in prison at Millen, Georgia, about the 1st of November. The deceased was taken prisoner in the Wilderness, was taken to Andersonville, and our information states that the prisoners had nothing but pease to eat, and no wood to cook them with. Mr. Davitt leaves a wife and child in this city. Peace the bra to soldier's ashes.

THE STEPTIE FARM OIL COMPANY.—This is the title of a new company, formed with a capital stock of $150,000, in shares of one dollar each. The working capital is $20,000. Mr. C. W. Hickerson is President, and John M. Tiernan, Secretary. A description of the property will be found in our advertising columns. The books for subscription will be open at the office of Messrs. Steel & Bailey, William Hall, on Wednesday morning, December 7th, at ten o'clock.

OIL STRIKES ON DUNKARD CREEK.—Reliable intelligence has been received in this city, to the effect that two fine veins of oil have been struck recently on Dunkard creek, in Greene county. One of these was struck in the Vandergrift well, at the depth of four hundred and twenty-five feet, and the other in the Continental well, which is located near the famous Wiley well. This will be good news to those interested in the oil territory on Dunkard Creek.

BROWN'S Bronchial Troches, advertised in another column, are highly recommended for public speakers and others, for the relief of colds and to clear the voice. Their efficacy is strongly attested by Congressmen, clergymen, and singers who use them. Among the certificates of their merits we observe letters from Henry Ward Beecher, N. P. Willis, E. H. Chapman, and others of eminence.—New York Evening Post.

DR. LIGHTHILL.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that this celebrated SPECIALIST, from New York, is now in this city, on his second visit, and can be consulted at the St. Charles Hotel until Friday evening, December 23d, on Catarrh, Deafness, and all diseases of the Ear, Throat and Air Passages.

OVERSHOES and carriage calls will be taken at the omnibus office, No. 410 Penn street, day or night. Orders for hotels, and places will be promptly attended to. All calls must be paid in advance.
