The Daily Post.

Politics in the Army.

Washington Correspondence of the World.

Every one in Washington understands that the removal of Pleasanton, French, Newton, Sykes, and the other Generals from the Army of the Potomac, is a blow at McClellanism there, aimed by Secretary Stanton, though apparently executed by others. The stroke is a clever one. Probably it was necessary to reorganize and consolidate. There were too many officers for the more than decimated ranks of that brave body of soldiers, and the necessity of reorganization was the lever which Stanton has used to accomplish his purpose, but in choosing the Generals to be weeded out, he has had a single eye to a political purpose.

That purpose is to use every means to control the vote of the Army of the Potomac in the coming Presidential election. Now, the army would vote for General McClellan, if he were a candidate, almost en masse, in spite of all the blandishments of Mr. Lincoln.

There are those here who belive, and do not hesitate to assert, that it is the intention of the Administration to perpetuate its power in any event, whatever the result of the November election, and that the plans are laid wide and deep to accomplish that result. I do not choose to credit that theory yet, for I cannot suppose Mr. Lincoln and his cabinet think so lightly of their own necks, or so meanly of their fellow-countrymen as to suppose that they could accomplish such a revolutionary plot against the wishes of even a minority of one-fourth the legal voters of the country. I am only willing to admit as yet that the facts thus far disclosed, the threads of the Republican plot weaving, run more consistently with that theory than any other, thus far.

In spite of that I insist upon believing as yet that the real purpose of the Republicans is only to gain the next election by fair means, and foul means.

Seizure of Counterfeit Postage Currency.—The Troy Times of Saturday says that William H. Diamond, mail agent on the Hudson River Railroad, was arrested in that city on Friday by Deputy Marshal Lovell, of Syracuse, on a charge of circulating counterfeit fractional currency. The Times says:

"Marshal Lowell has for some time known that counterfeit postal currency and Treasury notes were brought to Albany and Troy by some unknown persons and delivered to confederates, to be scattered broadcast over the rural districts. Suspicion finally fell upon this mail agent, a man who has held the position for four or five years, and has been regarded as above reproach. He is a son of Captain William Diamond, of Stephentown, and is well known in Troy and vicinity. Officer Lowell has followed him patiently and finally "worked up" the case in a manner that authorized him to pounce upon Diamond.

Each embarked upon the train at New York—pursuer and pursued. Nothing occurred until the cars reached the depot, when the arrest was made. On searching Diamond he was found to have a large quantity of counterfeit postal currency—fresh clean and tolerably well executed—tied to the buttons of his suspenders. He acknowledged that he had been a common carrier of this bogus stuff for some time past, but denied having circulated any of it directly. It was his habit, it seems, to receive orders and deliver the currency—and a large amount of altered and counterfeit Treasury notns were to have been brought up on this particular trip. Officer Lowell telegraphed for officers Kipp and Hurlbut to be present at the depot to assist him in the arrest, but the dispatch did not reach them in time. Leaving the prisoner in jail, Mr. Lowell started for his home in Syracuse at noon today.

Loading Guns by Steam.—The English are great hands at getting up "new" things after they have been invented by somebody else first. An individual named "Walker" (a significant appellation) claims the armor on the Monitors as his discovery, and now another person, Mr. Cunningham, has just invented an apparatus for working large guns by steam power, and thinks it is a great novelty. Captain Eads of St. Louis, Missouri, has now nearly ready for service a gunboat called the Milwaukee, which is an iron hull gunboat with two revolving turrets, one of which is invented and patented by James B. Eads, and the other is after the plan of Captain Ericsson. Both mount two eleven-inch Dahlgren guns. In Mr. Eads' turret the guns are moved entirely by steam, and are loaded in the hold of the vessel, and raised by steam to be fired. They are run out by steam and recoil against steam, one man being all that is needed to work the guns, with the exception of loading them. The portholes are only the size of the muzzles of the guns, yet twenty-two degrees of elevation and five degrees of depression can be obtained from them. It is now over two years since Edwin L. Stephens, esq., exhibited a steam-loading apparatus on board of the Naugatuck,
