CITY AND SUBURBAN.

(FROM YESTERDAY'S EVENING GAZETTE.)

A Merry Sleigh Ride.

Among those who joined in the amusement of sleighing, on Sunday, was one James O'Rourke. He seemed to have an unusually large number of female friends, as he managed to fill a two-horse sleigh with them, and acted himself in the capacity of driver. He started off in the morning for McKeesport, duly sober, but on his return at night, he was either muddled, or some of the women had "turned his head." He was doing some of the roughest kind of driving along Federal street, between the hours of ten and eleven o'clock, and the women, in momentary expectation of being overturned, attracted the attention of the Allegheny night police. The team was almost exhausted, and owing to the manner in which they were being driven, were making very slow time. O'Rourke, however, being the only man in the party, still held to the lines, and kept heading steadily on towards Pittsburgh. On entering the St. Clair street bridge, he drove one runner of the sleigh directly over the division stone, and in an instant the whole load of feminine flesh was dumped out in one confused and scrambling heap. This put an end to O'Rourke's further attempts at driving, as he was immediately arrested and conveyed to the lock-up, where he remained until this morning, when he was fined five dollars and costs by Mayor Morrison. The sleigh was placed in charge of one more competent to manage it, and the women were moved off towards their homes, indulging in remarks more emphatic than polite, owing to the manner in which their gallant had treated them.

An Erroneous Impression Corrected.

Many persons who paid commutation money in 1864, are laboring under the impression that they are not liable to draft under the present call. The impression was based upon one of General Fry's eccentric decisions or orders, to the effect that the names of all who had paid commutation in June, 1864, should be taken from the wheel "until further orders." The further orders have been issued, and are as follows:

"OFFICE OF A. A. PROV.-MAR. GENERAL, Western Division of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 26, 1865.

"Circular No. 7.—Questions having been made to this office, with reference to the liability of men who paid commutation under the drafts of 1864, to be drafted under the call of December 19th, the attention of District Provost Marshals is called to the 5th section of the Amendatory Enrolment Act of February 24th, 1864, from which it should be understood that the names of all men drafted after the latter date, and exempted upon payment of commutation, should be returned to the wheel for the draft under the calls of December 19th, 1864. By order of

Major R. I. Dodge,
A. A. Provost Marshal General.
WILLIAM SHEPHERD, Capt. and A. A. G."

Deaths in Col. Gallupe's Regiment.

The following members of the 2nd Battalion 5th Heavy Artillery, have died during the past week:

B. Koonce, Co. H, Dec. 28th; J. Brown, Co. C, Jan. 5th; M. Couchie, Co. H, Jan. 9th; P. Stamer, Co. H, Jan. 15th. Their bodies were sent to their relatives.

A correspondent, in speaking of the health of the regiment, says:

"Quite a number of enlisted men of our regiment have been discharged for disability. Our surgeons express surprise that they should have been passed by the Examining Surgeons. One poor fellow, named Carson, of Company E, received his papers to-day, but it is doubtful whether he will be able to reach his home, so low is he with consumption, a disease which had marked him for the grave before his enlistment. Most of those discharged had been sent to General Hospital, some of them having performed but little, if any, duty with their companies. Should not Examining Surgeons be held to a strict accountability? Nothing but the most culpable carelessness on their part could have placed the very considerable number of physically disabled men in our regiment."

Col. C. O. Loomis.

This distinguished officer, who has earned a national reputation by his gallantry and efficiency in the artillery service, recently spent a brief furlough among his numerous friends in this city, and has returned to the front, to report to Gen. Thomas. So quiet and unassuming have been the movements of the Colonel here, that the public generally were not aware of his presence. His old friends, however, paid due attentions to him, and showed their due appreciation of his services by presenting him with a magnificent light artillery sabre, gotten up at an expense of $150. The blade is made of thorough Damascus steel, while the scabbard is of silver. On the blade is engraved, "C. O. Loomis, Colonel First Michigan Light Artillery." The names of the numerous battles in which the Colonel has participated are inscribed on the scabbard. It will be remembered that Colonel Loomis' was Chief of Artillery, under General Rosecrans and Thomas, at the battles of Stone river, Chickamauga and Nashville, and rendered gallant service.

To the Sons of Wm. A. Marks.

We regret to announce the death of William A. Marks, son of Rev. J. J. Marks, D.D. The deceased, although but nineteen years of age, had labored for nearly a year as relief agent in the service of the United States Sanitary Commission, and died at Harper's Ferry, on the 21st inst., of fever contracted in the benevolent work of relieving the sufferings of others. In this service, he was humane, judicious and faithful. In his exertions to alleviate the sufferings of the soldiers he was unwearied. His ready sympathies, singleness of purpose, true, religious spirit peculiarly fitted him for a work to which he gave himself with singular devotion. From his early life he had manifested a deep religious sensibility, and for many years he had been connected with the Presbyterian Church as a consistent member. All who knew him respected and loved him; and very many, both soldiers and kindred, sadly mourn his loss.

Anniversary Meetings.

The Beaver street M. E. church, Allegheny, held their anniversary meetings, on Sabbath last, in behalf of the cause of missions. Rev. J. M. Thoburn, Missionary from India, preached in the morning to a large congregation, after which the usual collection was taken up.

In the afternoon the Sabbath School held their anniversary meeting, which was addressed by Rev. Thoburn and Hee Kno, a native Hindoo. The services were of an interesting character.

In the evening the reverend gentleman preached again to a large and interested congregation.

The entire contribution at the different meetings, footed up the large sum of $3,000, an amount creditable alike to the liberality and charity of the congregation.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Friday morning, William McAdams, employed at Murphy's tobacco factory on Liberty street, was fatally injured by the breaking of a lever of a tobacco press, which, flying upward, inflicted a severe contusion on his head. He, however, managed to walk home, but died from the injuries on the following morning. He resided in the Fifth Ward, and leaves a wife and two children. He bore the reputation of a sober, industrious man. His funeral took place from St. Paul's Cathedral, on Sunday, and was composed of a large concourse of friends.

OPPOSED TO THE INCREASE.—The citizens of the borough of Manchester held a meeting at the School-house Saturday evening, for the purpose of expressing their opposition to the proposed increase of fare by the Manchester Railway Company. The meeting, though not very large, was decidedly hostile to the change. Resolutions in opposition to the increase of fare were unanimously adopted.

THE LADIES will be pleased to learn that Petersen's for February, is in. It is an extra number this month. Pittock has also received a new assortment of card-photographs, including a variety of Vestvali cards. He has also all the late papers, books, magazines, and an endless stock of albums, which he sells at the lowest price. Remember Pittock.

THE GERMAN NATIONAL BANK.—The German Trust and Savings Bank will transact its business, after February 1st, as the German National Bank of Pittsburgh, with the following officers: Augustus Horrocks, President, Springer Harbaugh, Vice President, and George A. Early, Cashier.

France in Mexico.

Incredibly as the French acquisition in Mexico would seem to be, we unpublish by the circumstantiality and positiveness of the statement put forth through The Herald [illegible] of San Francisco, evidently only at second hand from Dr. Gwin himself. That statement imports that Maximillian I. of Mexico, for and in consideration of the blood and treasure expended by France in conquering his empire for him, has ceded to Napoleon III. (Lower California, Sonora, Sinaloa, and other portions of Northern Mexico, wherein Durango, Chihuahua and perhaps New-Leon and Tamaulipas are included. In other words: Napoleon and Maximillian are dividing the swag, and the former has [illegible] his share of the booty to Dr. Wm. M. Gwin, once of Mississippi, later of California, and now of the outside world in general, who is to be his Viceroy or Governor-General, under the title of "Duke of Sonora." And Gwin has already commenced toiling the discomfited Secessionists who once shared with him the rule of California into his new satrapy by proffers of rich mines, ample privileges, and good liquor generally. California rejoices in the prospect that many of them will go. Of course, Max only cedes the northern half of his empire temporarily, or until he can pay off the heavy debt incurred in conquering Mexico for him; but, this will deceive no one who recollects how the French come to be in Mexico at all. That debt could never have been paid anyhow, and its liquidation is now more hopeless than before. There was a fair chance that the unworked mines of the northern departments might somehow have enabled Max to reduce if not discharge his debt; but that has now vanished. Napoleon has taken his pay; the rest of Maximillian's creditors will wait long enough for theirs.

Gwin is a man of very considerable ability, sixty years old, thoroughly unscrupulous, as great a spendthrift as his new master, with a passion (like that master) for gambling adventure. He will attract colonists, and develop the resources of his viceroyalty, but he will never send a dollar to the French treasury. On the contrary, his dukedom will outvie all the horse-leeches' daughters in crying, "Give!" "Give!" to the unfortunate Finance Minister of Paris. France may derive some trade from this grant, especially if it is made to include Matamoras and one or two other ports of the Gulf, but not one dollar of all that her ruler has spent in Mexico will ever come back to her treasury.

—Is not all this menacing to us?

In our view, not at all. We have but to be patient form few years and Emperor Max, Duke Gwin and all their realms, will vanish from the soil of Mexico. That country will not support those aspiring magnates—cannot be made to yield the revenue absolutely necessary to their existence as potentates. We might hold them on their thrones by trying to push them off, but we shall be wiser and let them severely alone, and that seals their fate. Neither Emperor nor Duke can wrench from his subjects the means of obtaining his sway, and France will very soon tire of supporting either. Only let them alone, and they will both be nearly fugitives in Europe within a very few years. Patience.—N. Y. Trib.

Desecration of the Rebel Leaders in North Carolina.

The "reign of terror" in the interior of this State is now about to reach its culminating point. As the day of retribution approaches the rebel leaders are becoming more furious and bloodthirsty than ever. The chief objects of their vengeance just now seems to be the Union men of the State. Unable to drive these men into the shambles prepared for them by the despotism at Richmond, the strongest effort is now being made by Vance to crush them to the earth. There is a deep and wide-spread "irrepressible conflict" now going on, and these inkulted and abused Union men ought to have every possible support and encouragement that Federal arms can give them.

The outrageous and infamous conduct of Vance has naturally aroused the opposite feeling of hatred of every man in the State having the slightest Union feeling. Vance now "out-herods Herod" in his persecution of every man who does not scream and shout for Dixie. All those who have been disposed to let him down as a liberal man having some sympathy for the Union cause, may at once rid themselves of this delusion. He now stands in his true colors—an implacable foe of the national government and an unceasing coworker with the vilest traitors and rebels in the South. Let every true Union man stand firm and delight, with the rule of this miser able tool and tyrant of Davis' making will not long be at an end, and be compelled to fly before the indignant masses he now attempts to trample under foot. If we do not mistake the "signs of the times," the day of deliverance from the jaws of despotism in this State is very nearly at hand. When that auspicious event does happen, then the perpetrators of wrongs who have persecuted men for the sole crime of adhering to the Union will have to look well to the safety of their own necks.—North Carolina Times, 21st.

GENERAL PATTERSON'S REPORT.—Gen. Patterson has at last published his history of the famous Winchester campaign. It is an elaborate defense of his operations, and a labored attempt to prove that the defeat of Bull Run was lost through no fault of his. Gen. Patterson produces in this pamphlet a letter from President Lincoln, who writes: "I am unable to see that you could have done anything else than you did do. Your hands were tied; you obeyed your orders, and did your duty, and I am satisfied with your conduct." Gen. Thomas, who was in Gen. Patterson's command at that time, also approves his conduct.
