MEDICAL.

THE GREAT INDIAN MEDICINE,

COMPOUNDED FROM

ROOTS, BARKS, & LEAVES.

CHEROKEE CURE!

An unfailing cure for Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, and all diseases used by self-pollution; such as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pains in the Back, Dimness of Sight, Premature Old Age, Weak Nerves, Difficult Breathing, Trembling, Wakefulness, Eruptions of the Face, Pale Countenance, Insanity, Consumption, and all the Direful Complaints, caused by departing from the path of nature.

☞ This medicine is a simple vegetable extract; and one on which all can rely, as it has been used in our practice for many years, and with thousands it has not failed in a single instance. Its curative powers have been sufficient to gain victory over the most stubborn cases.

☞ To those who have trifled with their constitution, until they think themselves beyond the reach of medical aid, we would say, Despair not; the "Cherokee Cure" will restore you to health and vigor, and after all quack doctors have failed.

☞ Price, $2 per bottle, or three bottles for $5, and forwarded by Express to all parts of the world.

☞ Pamphlet sent by mail free of postage, by

Dr. W. R. Merwin & Co.,
No. 63 Liberty street, New York.

MALADNEW'S FOR THE UNFORTUNATE!

THE LONG SOUGHT FOR

DISCOVERED AT LAST!

Cures in from one to three days.

CHEROKEE REMEDY,

AND

HEROKEE INJECTION

Compounded from Roots, Barks and Leaves.

HEROKEE REMEDY, the great Indian Diuretic cures all diseases of the urinary organs, such as Incontinence of the Urine, Inflammation of the Bladder, Inflammation of the Kidneys, Stone in the Bladder, Stricture, Gravel, Gleet, Gonorrhœa, especially recommended in those cases of Fluor Albus (or Whites in females) where all the old nauseous medicines have failed.

It is prepared in a highly concentrated form, the dose only being from one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day.

It is diuretic and alterative in its action, purifying and cleansing the blood, causing it to flow in all its original purity and vigor; thus relieving from the system all pernicious causes which have induced disease.

HEROKEE INJECTION is intended as an ally or assistant to the Cherokee Remedy, and should be used in conjunction with it medicine in all cases of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture Albus or Whites. Its effects are healing, cooling and demulcent; removing all scalding, heat and pain, instead of the burning and almost unendurable pain that is experienced in nearly all the cheap quack injections.

☞ By the use of the Cherokee Remedy, Cherokee Injection—the two medicines taken at the same time—all improper discharges are removed, and the weakened organs are speedily restored to full vigor and strength.

☞ Price Cherokee Remedy, $2 per bottle, three bottles for $5.

☞ Price Cherokee Injection, $2 per bottle, or three bottles for $5.

☞ Sent by Express to any address on receipt of price.

☞ The Cherokee Remedy, Cherokee Injection, and Cherokee Cure, are sold by enterprising Druggists in the civilized world. Unprincipled dealers, however, try to sell worthless compounds in place of these; those which they can purchase at a cheap price, and sell more money by selling, than they can on these medicines. As you value your health, the health of your future offspring, do not be deceived by such unprincipled Druggists, ask Druggists will not buy them for you, and if they say so, enclose the money in a letter, and we will send them to you per Express, securely sealed and packed free from observation.

Ladies or Gentlemen can address us in perfect confidence, stating fully and plainly their diseases and symptoms, as we treat all diseases of a private nature in male or female. Patients need not hesitate because of their inability to visit us, as we have treated patients successfully in all portions of the civilized globe, by correspondence.

Patients addressing us will please state plainly the symptoms of their complaints, and write Post Office, County, State, and name of writer plain, and inclose postage stamp for reply. We send our 32 page Pamphlet free to any address. Address all letters for Pamphlet or advice to the proprietors,

MEDICAL.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.

THE PRIVATE MEDICAL ADVISER, an invaluable treatise of 64 pages, by published for the benefit of the sex.

On receipt of ten cents it will be sent post paid, in a sealed envelope, to all who apply for it.

It gives a concise description of all the diseases peculiar to females, together with means of cure, and treats of Conception, Pregnancy, Miscarriage, Sterility, Sexual Abuses, Prolapsus, Ulcers, Female Weakness, Consumption, &c., and much other valuable information not published in any other work. Every lady should procure a copy without delay. Three Editions, 50,000 each, have already been published and distributed this year.

HARVEY'S CHRONO THERMAL

the most lufallible and popular remedy ever known for all diseases of the female sex. They have been used in many thousand cases with unfailing success—and may be relied on in every case for which they are recommended, and particularly in all cases arising from OBSTRUCTION OR STOPPAGE OF NATURE, no matter from what cause it arises. They are effecting from Weakness and Debility, Uterine Discharges, Nervousness, &c., and they ACT LIKE A CHARM in strengthening and restoring the system. Thousands of ladies who have suffered for years and tried various other remedies in vain, owe a renewal of their health and strength wholly to the efficacy of

Dr. Harvey's Female Pills.

They are not a new discovery but a long tried remedy—the celebrated

DR. JOHN HARVEY,

one of the most eminent physicians, prescribed them for many years in his private practice, and no physician was more truly popular or widely known than him in the treatment of

FEMALE DIFFICULTIES.

All who have used DR. HARVEY'S FEMALE PILLS recommend them to others. Nurses recommend them in preference to other medicines, because of their merits. No lady objects to taking them for they are elegantly

Prepared by an Experienced Chemist.

Price One Dollar.

☞ Cut this notice out if you desire Dr. Harvey's Pills or Book, and if you cannot procure them of your Druggist, do not take any other, for some dealers who are unprincipled will recommend other Female Pills, they can make a larger profit on—but enclose the money and send direct to

DR. J. BRIAN, General Agent,
Box 5092. 76 Cedar Street, N. Y.

Who will take all risk if properly directed; and you will receive them post paid, securely sealed from observation, by return mail.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS GENERALLY.

NOTICE TO ALL CONCERNED.—Among a certain class of self-important people there is a peculiar feeling of contempt attached to all physicians that advertise and treat the diseases named in this card, (PRIVATE DISEASES.) Why this should be, they nor no one else can tell. Are they not aware that all physicians treat diseases of every denomination, in fact solicit the very diseases that are so obnoxious to these very refined parties. I suppose they would not vote a female family go to a party that has dessed the fact, and their family physician says he is a humbug so he can get the case. Others he has almost deprived the party of his life. He comes at last to the physician for help. He comes and asks, Are they to know? Are they not aware that Sir Astley Cooper, Sir Benjamin Brodie, Sir Charles Ball and M. Paul Ricord devoted years in the treatment of these diseases? These men are held up as shining lights in the medical world; I don't assert that all men are worthy that publish, still there are a great number of them that are. There devoted myself to the study and treatment of PRIVATE DISEASES upwards of 40 years, and without egotism can say I have saved hundreds from years of misery and untimely death. My treatment is confined to the vegetable kingdom, as I think it is the best and most certain. It is in my power to bring hundreds of certificates if I thought it necessary to certify to my practical success; but my long residence in this city is sufficient proof without adding more. Spermatorrhœa and all diseases arising from it are cured in a much shorter time than heretofore. It behooves every young man and woman to be careful in selecting a physician. The different advertisements that are seen in our papers are of no worth, and no benefit will arise from answers than only loss of health and money. Hundreds are cured annually by my new remedies. OHIO RIVER BRIDGE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT ON MONDAY, THE 24th DAY OF OCTOBER, 1864, the Holliday's Cove Rail Road Company will, under the authority of its charter from the Legislature of Virginia, and under the Act of Congress declaring the Railway Bridge at Steubenville a lawful structure, commence the elevation of the channel span of said Bridge, and for this purpose it will be necessary temporarily to obstruct the three hundred feet designed as a channel-way.

Attention of persons engaged in navigation is called to this provision of the second section of the Act of Congress, "and the officers and crews of all vessels and boats navigating said river, vessels and boats and of any pipes or chimneys belonging thereto, so as not to interfere with the elevation construction and use of said Bridge."

All persons are also notified that the span next west of the channel span is completed, and that the top of 86 feet above low water, and there is a water-way exceeding two hundred feet, between piers next east of the channel span also exceeds two hundred feet, and that the headway here will be clear, as the company does not intend to proceed with the erection of this span until the channel span is completed, and the obstructions necessary to its erection removed.

All persons are notified, further, that this Bridge is erected without a draw, and that all the requisitions of the Act of Congress have been complied with, by the company.

The erection of the channel span will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible, and due notice will be given as to the time when the obstructions will be removed.

NATIONAL BANKS.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

OF PITTSBURGH.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY,
Washington City, Aug. 6th, 1864.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that the FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF PITTSBURGH, in the County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania has been duly organized under Congress, entitled "an Act to provide a National Currency, secured by a pledge of United States Stocks, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved February 25th, 1863, and has complied with all the provisions of said Act required to be complied with before commencing the business of Banking.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Hugh McCulloch, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that the said FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF PITTSBURGH, county of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the Act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof witness my hand and seal of office, this 6th day of August, 1864.

HUGH McCULLOCH,
Comptroller of the Currency.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

OF PITTSBURGH, PA.,

Late Pittsburgh Trust Company.

Capital $500,000 paid in with privilege to increase to $1,000,000.

The Pittsburgh Trust Company having organized under the act to provide a National Currency, under the title of the FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF PITTSBURGH, would respectfully offer its services for the collection of Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c., receive money on deposit and buy and sell Exchange on all parts of the country.

The success which has attended the Pittsburgh Trust Company since its organization in 1857, will we believe be a sufficient guarantee that business entrusted to the new organization will receive the same prompt attention.

Having a very extensive correspondence with Banks and Bankers, throughout the country, we believe we can offer unusual facilities to those who do business with us.

The business will be conducted by the same officers and directors as heretofore.

STRONG INDORSEMENT

Of the Most Eminent Pianists.

The most eminent of the musical profession of New York city, after frequent and thorough trials of the New Scale Piano Fortes, have given their testimony in the unqualified testimonials. The testimony I am constantly receiving from gentlemen entirely disinterested, and as all will acknowledge most thoroughly qualified to judge of the merits of a Piano Forte.

"We have examined with much care, Mr. WM. B. BRADBURY'S NEW SCALE PIANO FORTES, and it is our opinion that, in power, purity, richness, quality of tone, and thorough workmanship Mr. Bradbury's instruments excel. "We find great brilliancy and beautiful singing quality of tone most happily blended. We have a rarely in a square Piano Forte combining so many of these qualities essential to a perfect instrument." Signed,

INTIMATE FRIENDS.

"Mamma, Mrs. Grant, with her daughter is down stairs," said Nora Vere to her mother.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Mrs. Vere, in a tone of vexation, "what can bring her out this damp morning—just as I am in the midst of cutting out this work too! Well I suppose I must go down."

"I believe she always chooses disagreeable weather," rejoined Nora, "for the sake of catching us unprepared. I had just time to make my escape before she was shown in."

In another moment Mrs. Vere was in the parlor receiving her friends with all the cordiality in the world, as if she had been the very person above all others that she had most desired to see; and Nora, too, her dislike of Mrs. Grant being conquered by her love of gossip and desire to hear the particulars of the last night's ball, which she had been prevented from attending joined them presently.

"I am sorry, Nora," said Mrs. Grant, that you were not at Mrs. Kendall's last evening. It was the gayest party we have had this season."

"I was sorry indeed," said Nora, "not to be there. We were engaged with some friends at home. Who was the belle?"

"Oh, Miss Linden, of course. She is always the prettiest, best dressed, and most admired girl wherever she goes. Young Hamilton was devoted to her."

Now, as Miss Linden was Nora's avowed rival, and "favorite aversion," and Mr. Hamilton her own particular admirer, she well knew that Mrs. Grant gave her this agreeable piece of information in the hope of her saying something disagreeable; so she answered with the frankest expression and most cordial tone, "she always looks charming, and I know Mr. Hamilton admires her." Had she lived in the palace of truth she would have replied, "she never looks pretty in her life and Hamilton doesn't admire her at all, and I doubt whether he ever danced with her last night." She however contented herself with asking Miss Grant, who danced wretchedly and seldom got partners, whether she had waltzed a great deal, to which the young lady replied, "no, I seldom waltz; it lays one open to so many observations."

Nora who waltzed like a sylph, could not let that pass, and she replied with spirit, that she did not think so. Once upon a time it might have been so, but all that was old fashioned and considered in bad taste now. She then proceeded to eulogize the waltzing of a fashionable foreigner, whom she pronounced (as if that was quite secondary) "very agreeable," and asked if Miss Grant did not find him so.

Miss Grant who spoke French very imperfectly—which Nora shrewdly suspected when she asked the question—although she set up for a linguist and a blue, said she did not take much interest in foreigners, as she thought they generally were very frivolous; but here the conversation was interrupted by the entrance of Mrs. Belmonte, who was a mutual friend of both families, whereupon a very general and spirited critique was passed upon all their friends and acquaintances at large.

"Nora," continued Mrs. Belmont, "your dress at the flowershow was perfect. I never saw you look better." Whereupon Mrs. Grant turned her cold gray eyes on Nora, and, scrutinizing every article she had on, as if she was taking an inventory of everything she wore, and wondered where the money came from, said, slowly and not over approvingly, "Yes, Nora is always exquisitely dressed," rose and took her leave.

"That is more than can be said for her or Lucy," said Nora, ere the door had closed upon her departing visitors. "You may say that, my dear," rejoined Mrs. Belmont, laughing. "You ought to have seen them last night."

"What did they wear?" asked Nora, with the greatest animation.

"What did they not rather," returned Mrs. Belmont. "Droll as Mrs. Grant's caps usually are, I think she rather outdid herself last night."

What was it?" asked Mrs. Vere, to whom the very word "cap" always carried a deep interest.

"Oh I can't describe it," replied her friend. "Such a concatenation of ends of gimp and gold lace and flowers I never saw, even on her head before. I don't know where she could have had it made."

"She made it herself, of course," said Nora, contemptuously. "Does she not make everything? She prides herself on being what she calls smart," and I never knew one of your "smart women who did not dress vilely."

"I agree with you," said Mrs. Belmont. "Better be simple and unpretending, if you can't afford to buy the real thing at once.—But Mrs. Grant thinks she can imitate almost any imported head dress she sees."

"Yes," joined in Norah; "and when she has made something outlandish, thinks it looks French."

From Mrs. Grant's caps, they passed to Mrs. Grant's dresses and flowers, which did not fare much better, and by the time they had fully discussed their mutual friend, the interest and animation of the conversation dying away, Mrs. Belmont bade them good-morning.

"I wander what pleasure a woman of Mrs. Belmont's age can take in going to parties night after night as she does," said Nora to her mother after that lady's departure.

"Well, I am surprised at it," said Mrs. Vere, "as she has no daughter to matronise. If I did not consider it my duty to go with you, nothing would induce me to submit to such fatigue. But Mrs. Belmont has extraordinary spirits. She is constitutionally gay."

"That may be a happy constitution," continued Nora, "but is is not a dignified one. I like to see a woman fall in to the 'sere and yellow leaf' gracefully; not be dancing and dressing like a young girl, and out every night."

"I think, Nora," said her little brother, looking up from his slate as his mother quitted the room, "that ours is the only perfect family."

"The only perfect family? Why what do you mean, Tommy?"

"Why returned the child with much simplicity, "I have been listening to you and mamma, and seems to me that everybody has got so many faults except us that we must be the only perfect people you know."

Nora laughed heartily, as she replied "I don't know that we are perfect, Tommy, but I think we are better than most people; if we were to hear everybody talk of us, we might find that we had some faults too."

Had Nora and Tommy had the gift of a clairvoyance and could have seen and followed Mrs. Belmont, as she overtook Mrs. Grant, they would speedily have discovered that Nora's conjectures respecting the ball at first struck Tommy's young mind, as being the most probable of all the guesses made.

"You are going to Mrs. Vere's next evening, I suppose?" said Mrs. Grant.

"Oh, of course, they give a good many parties don't they?"

"Yes, a great many," replied Mrs. Grant, "and I don't know how they manage it, with Mrs. Vere's limited means, and their expensive habits, how they contrive to dress as they do, let alone more than I can comprehend."

"I know," continued Mrs. Belmont, dropping her voice to the true confidential pitch, "from what Mrs. Vere told me, that they are very much pressed for money," and then she proceeded to mention some circumstances that Mrs. Vere had inadvertently let drop in solution to their family affairs, adding, "I should not, of course, mention these things and I not know the strong interest you feel, (curiosity would have been the better word) you take in the family, and all that relates to them."

"Oh, certainly," said Mrs. Grant. "You may safely talk to me of all similar much attached to them all, and only mention these things with regret."

"Of course," rejoined Mrs. Belmont. "One cannot without pain see a family like the Vere's committing extravagances. They have noble qualities, but they are so imprudent."

Mrs. Grant chorused in their "noble qualities" and the ladies praised their friends vaguely, and in general for a few minutes, when they returned to their failings with renewed vigor.

"Indeed," said Mrs. Grant, "I don't know how Mrs. Vere can reconcile it to her conscience to dress Nora as she does. If her object is Mr. Hamilton I think she is sadly mistaken in the means. Young men don't fall in love with a girl because she dresses well. Indeed, in some times like these it is calculated to have a contrary effect. They can't afford to marry expensive wives, when they know nothing."

"That's true, said Mrs. Belmont, who had neither sons nor daughters grown up.

"But Mr. Hamilton is rich."

"Having reached her destination, where she wished to make some purchases, Mrs. Belmont bid her friend good morning.

Now what was the tie that bound these three families together—for a week never passed that either the Vere's did not spend an evening with the Grant's or the Grant's with the Vere's, and Mrs. Belmont was always at both places.

It is very evident that enough of intimacy was great, the friendship did not amount to much. Habit, and a love of gossip can only explain the enigma, for an enigma it does seem, at first sight, that two families who did not like each other; and to both of whom the third party was indifferent, should be upon terms of mutual intimacy.

Mrs. Vere and Mrs. Grant had known each other early, when their little children and small income had been rather a subject of mutual sympathy and interest, and living much out of society, they had been what might really be termed friends. But as time progressed and their children grew up, different views and feelings were developed, and the friendship degenerated into intimacy, as is too often the case, the form lasted after the sentiment had departed, and what was once sympathy bore now a much the aspect of antipathy. Nora, eye-spoken upon Lucy Grant as a girl who, being ugly, wanted to pass for being clever and "intellectual," as she would say, and she laughed at her pretensions and quizzed her German and pronounced her "stuck up." Lucy, on her part, indignant at seeing the lovely Nora's fascinating waltzing and dressing prove so much more attractive than her more solid (not to say heavy) acquirements, spoke of her as "frivolous." The young Vere's voted the Grant's "slow," and what term they used in solemn Grant's found profound enough to indicate their contempt for the case, unless of hand Vere's has not yet come to our knowledge.

Nora Vere was a pretty creature, with her clear hazel eyes, bright chestnut hair, and sylph-like figure, the very personification of youth, health, and happiness; and if she was somewhat given to the two sins of fashionable life, ridiculé and extravagance, she was yet a warm hearted girl and did not ridicule her real friends, but only those who passed for such.

At any rate Frederick Hamilton, being young himself, would not have changed her faults for Grant's precision, and so, notwithstanding the moral that should "adorn this tale"—for we must own the truth—he did admire her the more for her pretty dressing. Young men will worship beauty and admire effect, and a brighter fairy was never seen in a ball room than Nora Vere, and so in spite of all Mrs. Grant's prophetic, not to say triumphant, anticipations, Frederick Hamilton, deeming himself rich enough to please himself, did offer hand and heart to the acceptance of the proud and happy Nora.

"What did Mrs. Grant say, mamma?" was the eager inquiry of the bride-elect, on her mother's return from a visit to that lady, to announce the engagement. For Mrs. Vere's happiness was never perfect until she had the sanction of commanding it to her friend, and when Nora returned
