

The Judicial Nomination.

There seems to be an indication in the Erie papers, that some of the delegates to the late Judicial Convention at Irwinton, from Erie county are not satisfied with the nomination of Mr. Wetmore. Why this is we are unable to say; certain it is that after a session of six days, the delegates comprising the convention ought to have been able to have made a proper nomination. The action of the Erie County Republican Committee puts the whole question at sea again, and we are now in the district, upon this question, just where we started, provided Warren and Elk view the matter as the Erie County committee does, when it says: "Resolved, That neither of the nominations made is considered, 'regular.'" There is no use now to go to the former ground of complaint over again; neither do we propose to do so, but we do wish, for the sake of that harmony in the party so much desired by the Erie County Committee, that it had dealt more in details and less in generalities, in recommending this call for a new convention, and have said what it really wanted, and what basis of representation would be acceptable to Erie County, not to its candidate for Judge, but to Erie County. The committee received a "proposition" from Mr. Woodruff which was adopted, as to what the new convention should do, when the following took place as reported in the Erie Gazette:

"Mr. Craig said Mr. Woodruff was not particular what number of conferences were appointed by the Chair. He moved the proposition be accepted and the new conferences appointed. After some other remarks and suggestions, the number of five conferences was fixed upon, and the proposition was agreed upon by a unanimous vote."

We presume therefore that each county will be entitled to be represented by five delegates, and that under the "proposition," the convention will fix the representation for the "future conventions" occurring ten, twenty, thirty, &c., &c., years hence, unless the constitution of the state is changed, in which case it may be necessary to modify the manner of holding Judicial Conventions in this Judicial District. The Warren Mail in a short and well written article upon the subject, indicates an endorsement of the action of the Republican Committee of Erie county. We see no way under the circumstances but to have a new convention; it is invoked in the interest of peace and harmony for the Republican party, and in such a spirit it ought to be accepted by the balance of the District after Erie county has led off. We understand a communication has been received by the Chairman of the Republican Committee of this county from Gen. M'Creary, Chairman of the Republican County Committee of Erie county, giving notice of the action of the Erie Committee and asking co-operation in the matter of calling the new convention. Let the call be responded to in the spirit it is made. Let the interest of the party be consulted rather than the interest of the candidates, and care be taken that the nominee shall be a person who will leave his politics and prejudices at the threshold of the Court House when enters to perform the high and important duties pertaining to the position of the Judicial officer.

That's Where it is.

The Albany Argus abuses the President for going to Long Branch and asks "Where is the Government?" The Albany Journal informs it thus:

"The Government is where the revenue is being more honestly collected, so that the receipts have increased $51,000,000 since President Grant's inauguration. It is where the expenditures have been diminished so that the estimates are decreased $31,000,000 for the coming year. It is where the taxes are being reduced, so that $76,000,000 are taken from the burdens of the people by a single act. It is where $158,000,000, in the aggregate are thus saved to the people in honest collections, retrenched expenditures and reduced taxes. It is where $146,000,000 are paid on the principal of the debt within sixteen months, so that the load of the future is made lighter and the present weight of interest diminished. The people see these acts, and recognize the government in them. They know it is where these great things are being done. They perceive its hand in all. And if, after performing his important part in the work President Grant chooses to get out of Washington for a little rest at Long Branch, they heartily commend the good sense he thus displays."

Marat Maristead's Description of the Turcos.

And speaking of the war, soldiers are more numerous in the streets than at Metz. They are gathered here from Algiers as well as at Paris, and they are the more interesting, for here are the North Africans, known as the Turcos, a corps made famous for their exploits in the Italian war. There are over twenty thousand of them in the French army, and here they are swarming on the banks of the Rhine, ready to advance into Germany. It has been said in our country that these Turcos are not negroes, but Arabs, Moors, Algerians. There has been a notion of depriving black men of the credit of their desperate exploits.

The truth is that the majority of them are not negroes, but that many of them with those strangely marked negro features of which it is now necessary for politicians in America to speak with such profound respect. Some of them are a shade blacker than the blackest black man I have seen in our happy country. A tarred stick would make a white mark on some of them. There are Arabs too, and Frenchmen; and the shades of color are so fine and so various that it is puzzling some times to tell the Africanized Frenchmen from the Frenchified African. All wear the Zouave-dress, including the red cap and tassel, and the sun when it has fair play has a powerful influence in harmonizing complexions. Great confidence is expressed in the Turcos as lighters. In stature and strength they are a good deal above the average of the French army. The colored troops fought nobly; it will be recollected, was often officially certified in the American war, and it will be worth remembering when the deeds of valor of the Turcos are recorded that a full share of them must be attributed to full blooded black men.

The Man Behind the Throne.

The dispatches from King William and the general tenor of the Berlin press make it apparent that whatever glory is gained by the Prussian arms in the present struggle is destined to be pretty generally absorbed by the Hohenzollerns. "I commanded," says King William, at Gravelotte, and "our Fritz," or Frederick Charles is the central figure in nearly every dispatch that reaches Berlin from the army. All this while Von Moltke, the master mind of the Prussian army, the man who directs and plans each combination, is scarcely heard of. His name has only been mentioned once in the official telegram since the fighting began. There is in this, of course, no reflection upon the bravery of either the Princes or of King William. Both the former have played their part admirably, and King William, though every inch a soldier, knows that Von Moltke is his superior in tactics, and very wisely allows him to control entirely the movements of the army. Still, for the justice of the thing the rest of the world hardly likes to see the first living General in Europe so wholly overshadowed. It is easy enough to see that the war if successful to strengthen the ruling regime of Prussia, to glorify and establish the Hohenzollerns as the permanent and unquestioned rulers of United Germany. From what we know of Gen. Moltke it is not probable that the want of prominence given to his name gives him any great anxiety. Modest and retiring in an unusual degree, he can well afford to wait for the justice which history will surely secure to him. The man who planned the campaigns of Sadowa and Metz can safely rest his case with posterity.—[Cleveland Leader.

THE REBEL'S HOPE.—A few days ago, we met a rebel Colonel who is now editing a Democratic paper in New Jersey. He said he came from New Orleans as a missionary to inform the people what the south (rebels) wanted. He said that he was satisfied that the only hope of the conquered rebels was in the Democratic party of the north, and he prided himself on being the only editor in the north who could tell the truth and background as much as Brick Pomeroy. We never saw his paper, but from the little conversation we had with him it is evident that he will take rank as a first class Democrat, for his services in robbing farmers in the southern Pennsylvania during Lee's convention in our State, (which he confessed) entitle him to the earnest support of the men who sympathized with him during that very Democratic expedition. We congratulate our Democracy on so faithful a representative to enlighten the people of New Jersey.—Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Conduroy and plush costumes will be very fashionable this winter. The hotels at Cape May would like just a few more guests to crowd the mosquitoes out. There is wealth enough in Boston to give, on an equal division, every man, woman and child $3,000 each.

A graveyard inscription in Kennebunk, Me., reads thus: "Poor Joel his head is level now, if it never was before."

A Chicagoan has received the fullest legal penalty for stealing Tupper's 'Proverbial Philosophy.' The court decided that for such a theft there could be no extenuating circumstances.

The Beloit Register asks: "Why is a Beloit man's trade mark like a certain leading Prussian? Because it is his 'bis' mark. [The author of the above leaves a wife and twelve small children.]"

'Long John' Wentworth and Horace White of the Tribune contest the re-nomination of Representative N. B. Judd in the Ohio district.

J. Glancy Jones, formerly of Pennsylvania, now living in Delaware, is said to be expecting an election to the United States Senate if the Democrats carry Delaware.

Senator Fenton has secured his election as a delegate to the State Convention to be held at Saratoga, and he will seek to be made permanent chairman of that body.

The first of the fall elections occurs on the 6th of September, in Vermont. The State is so overwhelmingly Republican that there has been no canvass made by either party.

Samuel D. Clark and Alex. Moore have received the Republican nomination for Assembly in Lawrence county, defeating David Craig and George W. McCracken, who were members of the last house.

Ignatius Donnelly, of whom the country thought itself well rid, after his overwhelming defeat in 1868, again arrives to congressional honors, and has entered the field for the republican nomination in the St. Paul (Minn.) district.

The nomination of Fred. Douglas for Congress, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the retirement of Hon. Noah Davis, is being discussed in Monroe and Orleans counties, New York. In point of intellectual ability the district could not do better.

Ex-Gov. Bigler of this state has foregone politics for religion. A few days ago, at the Presbyterian Synod at Bellefonte, he announced that he had retired from public and political life, and bore strong testimony to the value of religion as compared with the uncertainties and excitement of politics.

In Erie District, New York, there are four prominent aspirants for the Republican nomination to Congress: Hon. F. S. Bennett, the present incumbent; Hon. L. Lewis, the present State Senator; Lyman K. Bass, the present District Attorney, and I. M. Schermerhorn, formerly of Buffalo. The Democrats of Erie have substantially agreed upon the nomination of Hon. William Williams, of Buffalo.

The Tallents Journal in connection with the Senatorial question in this District, recalls the interesting fact that at the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment by the Legislature of our State, a gentleman well known in connection with John Brown's campaign, exclaimed in the exuberance of his joy, in a speech to a vast assemblage of colored people who had gathered to celebrate the event:

"All hail the power of Jesus' name, Let angels prostrate fall!"

THE WAR.

Berlin, Aug. 31.

Dispatches have been received from this city stating that yesterday at noon the Prussians attacked the French who were marching between Carignan and Moulzon. The engagement is now in progress, according to the last accounts.

Arlong, Belgium, Aug. 31.

After two days battle between Carignan and Moulzon, Gen. McMahon was defeated. The German forces engaged were the fourth army corps and a part of the Crown Prince's Army.

After the battle, and the overthrow of McMahon's force, which had opposed the Crown Prince's army, the Prussians victoriously entered Carignan, driving the French before them towards the frontier of Belgium. The Prussians attacked and pursued the French. The losses on both sides were very great. The Prussians captured a number of pieces of French artillery, including four mitrailleurs. The fighting was at Armingy, between Sedan and Montmedy.

Buzancy, Aug. 31.—The French army under the command of Marshal McMahon, was attacked by our troops to-day in the neighborhood of Beaumont, and was driven back towards the Belgian frontier. The French encampment was captured. The French army was pursued for miles and the pursuit only ceased through night coming on. The number of guns and prisoners taken by us has not yet been estimated on account of the great extent of the battle field.

London, Aug. 31.

Dispatches from the interior of France announce that a strange agitation has commenced in the various districts in the northwest of France against the nobles, gentry and clergy. The agitators accuse them of sympathizing with Prussia. They have succeeded in producing an impression upon the minds of the peasantry. Disturbances from this cause had occurred at Illiat, Millon, Montford, Houdan, Bretigne and Loutre.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK, Made of Pure Rye, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refined Liquors, distilled, aged, and sweetened to please the taste called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," etc., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but is a true medicine, made from the native Buds and Herbs of California. It cures all Febrile, Bilious, Stomachic, and all the other diseases of the system, curing off all poisonous matters, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell.

It has been given for a "feverish" case, provided for hours and days, by mineral springs, and other means, and the vital organs were beyond the point of repair. For Rheumatism, Gout, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and other Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been successful. Each Disease is cured by the Vinegar Bitters, which is generally produced by the degeneration of the Digestive Organs.
