STATISTICS OF METHODISM.

The editor of the Advocate and Journal, says: We have had occasion lately to prepare for the Methodist Quarterly Review an estimate of the actual statistical condition of Methodism thro'-out the world. By permission of the editor we are allowed to condense these statistics for our columns, in response to calls made for such facts. The following are the latest and most accurate estimate of its communicants:

Methodist Episcopal Church,	956,555
Methodist Episcopal Church South,	700,000
Canada Wesleyan Conference,	43,672
Eastern British American Conference,	16,935
Methodist Episcopal Church, Canada,	13,352
American Wesleyan Methodists,	21,000
Methodist Protestant Church,	70,018
African Methodist Episcopal Church,	20,000
African Meth. Epis. Zion Church,	6,203
Allbright Methodist,	21,076
Total lay members in America,	1,868,811
Traveling preachers, except Allbri'ts,	11,468
Total American communicants,	1,880,279

The Methodism of Europe—excepting the British and American colonies and the American and European Missions, included above—exhibits similar though not equal vigor. The latest accessible returns show:

Wesleyan Methodists,	435,308
Primitive Methodists,	123,163
New Connection Methodists,	27,000
United Free Church Methodists,	43,000
Wesleyan Reformers, (who remain independent,)	12,000
Bible Christian Methodists,	19,068
Church Methodists in Ireland—called Primitive Methodists,	9,158
Total British lay members,	669,397
Add traveling preachers,	3,225
Total communicants,	672,622

Besides these divisions, there are minor ones, whose statistics cannot be exactly ascertained; an authority gives them an aggregate of 10,000 members and 200 preachers. Summarily, then Methodism, throughout the world, comprises 2,548,190 lay members, and 14,883 travelling preachers—an aggregate of 2,563,091 communicants. If we add three non-communicant members of its congregations for each communicant—a safe estimate for Methodist congregations generally—we have a population of more than ten and a quarter millions attending its ministrations. It extends densely over North America and England; it has "Conferences" in France, Germany, Africa, and Australia; its missions are in Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, Spain, Turkey, South America; they dot the coasts of Africa, India, China, and the isles of the Southern Ocean. Its great missionary oaganizations include more than 3,000 laborers; its educational institutions comprise more than 130 colleges, theological schools and boarding academies; and, in England, nearly 500 day schools. It has more than 2,000,000 Sunday scholars, and 300,000 teachers. Its 35,000 local preachers make, with its 'itinerants,' a ministerial force of nearly 50,600 men.
