

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1871.

On the Summer removal of the Philadelphia Press, the leading, and one of the ablest political papers in this State, says:

There is wonderful unanimity in the way in which the country receives the news of Senator Sumner's removal from the chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Relations. Almost without exception the Republican papers condemn the act as ill-advised, and deprecate it as injudicious; but one and all carefully distinguish between personal acts of the Administration and the great trust it carries for the country, while condemning the judgment of the President, they do not doubt the honesty of his intentions or swerve in their allegiance to the great Republican party.

This dispassionate and judicial treatment of so exciting a question, spontaneous as it is, and universal, is as creditable to the general intelligence of the Republican press and people as it is encouraging for the future of the organization.

As the Republican army was a mass of thinking bayonets, so the Republican press is a mass of thinking voters, and it is too great, too historical, and too sacred a trust to be endangered by any personal conflicts or issues inside its ranks. We carry the flag that makes us free, and is borne with the same devotion, the same intelligence, and the same spirit of self-sacrifice as when it floated at the head of our armed and uniformed columns.

VARIETIES.

Some fat men do not seek greatness; it is thrust upon them.

Man is like a potato, never sure when he will "get into hot water."

"His forehead extended to the gabel end of his neck," means he was bald-headed.

The inhabitants of Alaska don't think much of ornamenting their walls, but they're very proud of their scaling.

George Washop, for more than seventy years an employe of the Bank of England, died recently in London.

A bond has been presented to the City Council of Detroit for payment in gold, which was issued fifty years ago, and has just come due.

A young man in Ohio recently opened a clothing store, and was sent to jail for it. Cause—the clothing store belonged to another man.

Over 20,000 canary birds are brought to this country every year, and probably 10,000 more are raised in this country for the purpose of sale.

A young man who was caught straining his sweetheart to his bosom the other night, justified himself on the ground that he has a right to strain his own honey!

The strangest case of absence of mind was that of a monkey out in Paducah, which used to sit out on the fence in a reverie, and try to pick its teeth with the end of its tail.

The farmers of the United States annually expend $20,000,000 in reaping and mowing machines. The annual production is now estimated at about 125,000 machines.

A Norridgewock (Maine) deacon recently coughed up a head of beads grass, which has lain on his lungs for over thirty-six years. It still retained its original shape, but had grown as hard as a stone.

They have begun in Canada to cultivate rabbits as an article of food, and in European countries, hundreds of miles of coast lands are used as rabbit warrens, and their product furnishes a cheap and nutritious food for millions, while the furs have considerable value in them.

The Germans expelled from France during the recent war, it is estimated, amounted in number to 120,000. The average indemnity for direct losses suffered by this expulsion is placed at $600 a head, so that the entire damages arising from this harsh war measure amounts to seventy-two millions of dollars.

Two citizens of Medora, Jackson county, Ind., went to law about five years ago over a rail fence, the value of which was probably $25. The case is now before the Supreme Court for final judgment, and, up to the present time, the costs amount to $3,000.

At a recent meeting at Danbury, Conn., where a contribution was taken up, a wealthy member of the congregation dropped twenty-five cents in the contribution box. The amount realized being a little more than that required, the wealthy member quietly suggested to the deacon who passed the box, that his little amount might be returned. And it was.

Lady Wilmot Horton died in Derbyshire, England, on the 10th ult., in her eighty-third year. It was she who inspired Lord Byron with the first song of the Hebrew Melodies, beginning: She walks in beauty like the night Of cloudless climes and starry skies; And all that's best of dark and bright Meet in her aspect and her eyes.

A Good Test.
A few years ago, as Rev. Professor Finney was holding a series of meetings in the city of Edinburgh, many persons called upon him for personal conversation and prayer.

One day a gentleman appeared in great distress of mind. He has listened to Mr. Finney's sermon on the previous evening, and it had torn away his "refuge of lies." Mr. Finney was plain and faithful with him, pointing out to him the way of life clearly, and his only hope of salvation. The weeping man assured him that he was willing to give up all for Jesus—and he knew of nothing he would reserve—all for Jesus.

"Then let us go upon our knees and tell God of that," said Mr. Finney. So both knelt at the altar, and Mr. Finney prayed: "O Lord! this man declares that he is prepared to take thee as his God, and to cast himself upon thy care, now and forever."

The man responded "Amen!" heartily. Mr. Finney continued: "O Lord! this man vows that he is ready to give his wife, family, and all their interests up to thee."

Another hearty "Amen!" from the man. He went on: "O Lord! he says that he is also willing to give thee his business, whatever it may be, and conduct it for thy glory."

The man was silent—no response. Mr. Finney was surprised at his silence, and asked: "Why do you not say 'Amen' to this?"

"Because the Lord will not take my business, sir: I am in the spirit trade," he answered.

The traffic could not withstand such a test as that. "The Lord will not take such a business under His care," he demands its destruction as one of the mightiest obstacles to the progress of His kingdom in the earth.—[American Messenger.]

A Chinese Sermon.
The following discourse by a converted Chinese tailor, with reference to the merits of Confucianism, Buddhism, and Christianity, is worth preserving:

"A man had fallen into a deep, dark pit, and lay in its murky bottom groaning, and utterly unable to move. Confucius walked by, approaching the edge of the pit, and said: 'Poor fellow! I am very sorry for you. Why were you such a fool as to get in there? Let me give you a piece of advice: If you get out, don't get in again.' A Buddhist priest next came by, and said: 'Poor fellow! I am very much pained to see you there. I think if you could scramble up two thirds of the way, or even half, I could reach you and lift you up the rest.' But the man in the pit was entirely helpless, and unable to rise.

Next, the Saviour came by, and, hearing the cries, went to the very brink of the pit, stretched down and laid hold of the poor man, brought him up, and said: 'Go, and sin no more.'"

Pleasure and Piety.
There is no single pleasure that a man ought to love the flavor of, which is not permissible to a Christian. There is not a thing which a Christian may not have which every young man ought not to shut up the avenues of enjoyment. True virtue makes every enjoying faculty more sensitive to joy. I repudiate and rebel with scorn the imputation that when a man is a child of God, and is at peace with all God's laws in material things, social things, and moral things, he is shut up. He is untroubled rather. He is enlarged, He is ennobled. There is more music in him, in every single chord and faculty, than there can be in any other.

There is no man so free, there is no man who has a range so boundless, as the man who is at peace with God. And yet there are multitudes of persons who suppose that there are peculiar pleasures which cannot be repaid except by a reprobate course. There never was any greater mistake than that.—[Beecher.]

The Bible is the only real polyglott.
Here and there in the catalogues of literature we may find a book that is given to the world in several languages. But nothing can be found to compare with the Bible in this respect. It has been translated into 209 languages; 63 in Europe; 71 in Asia; 28 in Polynesia and the Archipelago; 25 in Africa; and 22 in America. More than one hundred millions of copies, in whole or in part, have been put in circulation within the present century. God is unfettering His word and sending it to the nations.

"Go, holy book, thou word divine, Of him who spake as man ne'er spake, Go, for omnipotence is thine. And to thy truths the nations wake."

The Motive.
You cannot serve two masters—you must serve one or other. If your work is first with you, and your fee second, work is your master, and the Lord of work, who is God. But if your fee is first with you, and your work second, fee is your master, and the Lord of the fee, who is the devil, and not only the devil but the lowest of devils—the least erected fiend that fell." So there you have it in brief terms—work first, you are God's servants; fee first, you are the fiend's. And it makes a difference, now and ever, believe me, whether you serve him who has on his vesture and thigh written, "King of kings," and whose service is perfect freedom; or him on whose vesture and thigh the name is written, "Slave of slaves," and whose service is perfect slavery.—[Ruskin.]

Kingston, Jamaica, March 16.—The Tennessee will reach Key West on Monday. Commissioner Wade's report is finished, and he will go to Washington by the most direct route. The other commissioners will stop at Charleston to write elaborate reports. All have expressed themselves decidedly in favor of annexation. A cordial reception was given the commissioners here, and they are of opinion that there is a strong sentiment in Jamaica in favor of annexation to the United States.

A YOUNG MAN, whose moustache is visible by the aid of a microscope, was the victim of misplaced confidence a short time ago. He had been particularly sweet on a very young lady, and had previously paid her several visits. The girl's parents thinking both too young to begin keeping company with each other, gave them a gentle hint that this effect—first, by calling the girl out of the room and sending her to bed; and second, by the lady of the house bringing into the room a huge slice of bread and butter, with molasses attachment, and saying to the youth in her kindest manner, "There, Babby, take this and go home; it is a long way, and your mother will be anxious."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
THE GRAND ARMY DIRECTORY.
[Copyright secured.]
The above work now being complete, is being rapidly put in type; and will make its appearance in a few weeks. The volume will consist of between two and three hundred neatly printed and handsomely bound pages, embracing a complete list of the Departments and Posts of the GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, with their name, number, location, roster and other interesting statistics, presenting, as it were, a complete mirror of the Organization.

It is the only work on the subject.
The Departments endorse it.
Every Comrade should possess a copy.
It gives the address of over 5,000 comrades of the G. A. R.
It costs but one dollar!
