Railroad from Easton to Philadelphia.

The construction of this line of railroad is now no longer doubted, says the Doylestown watchtower, and as soon as the most practicable and shortest route is ascertained by exploration and survey, together with the probable cost, it will be energetically prosecuted to completion. Three several routes are designated—The Upper Route via. the Norristown railroad to the mouth of the Perkiomin creek, where it empties into the Schuylkill, and thence along the Pergiomin to Sumneytown, Swamp creek and the neighborhood of Soopersburg to the Lehigh at Freemansburg. The survey of this route is now nearly completed.

The Middle Route is along the valley of the Wissahiccon creek, passes about equal distance between the Spring House and Acuff's tavern, and thence to the county line, crossing the upper Bethlehem road at or near Bloom's tan yard, and crossing the Tohikon creek, and through a gap in the mountain on the east side of Flint Hill, near Leightstown, to the Saucon Va'ley, and thence to Freemansburg.

The lower route also goes by way of the Wissahiccon to the point designated between the Spring House and Acuff's tavern, and thence probably along or near the old survey of the Norristown and New Hope route to the Neshaminy creek, crossing at or near Shutt's farm, thence by the North Branch creek, in the rear of Col. Isaiah James' farm, thence by the North Branch to the Hearty Aken creek, passing through Martin Tyson's farm, and crossing the Dublin road at Haldeman's and Stanfer's farm, and along said stream to the head near Loux's corner, about a mile distant from Fisherville, and thence by a curved route to the Tohikon creek, at or near Frётz's mill, at the entrance of Wolf creek and Deer Run into the Tohikon, thence up the Tohikon to Haycock Run, and following said run to the head waters, about a mile from Bursonville, thence by a curved route to the Springfield and Sauconn Valleys to Freemansburg.

The President of the Company with the engineers, and several gentlemen who take a deep and commendable interest in the contemplated road, have reconnoitered the two last mentioned routes, preparatory to the survey of the engineers.

WHIG "PICTURE BOOK."—In some sections of the country, Whig colporteurs have been engaged to peddle the campaign life of Gen. Scott, embellished with taking pictures, calculated to amuse "the children." This interesting work is thus described by an Ohio paper:

"It commences with a picture of a terrible looking horse, carrying a tall man, whose apex is surrounded with a quantity of feathers. He looks to be making a great fuss, and in much haste to get at some point ahead, while he is looking behind as if the danger was there.—We don't know what it means. The book closes with a bowl, from which the steam is rising most voluminously, and in its curls is seen the word "s-o-u-p." The pages between the horse and the soup, are mostly occupied with the most fierce looking white men and red men, with guns, bayonets, swords and cannon. All of which look as if they were wood cuts which had been worn out and thrown aside, after being used to illustrate "Jack, the Giant Killer." "Gulliver's Travels," or the "Pirate's Own Book." If this tract is any index to the plan of the campaign, it will be even more childish than their chieftain's letters."

THE WONDERS OF ART!

(THE NECESSITY OF GOING TO Binghamton OBVIATED!)

What hath magic power to trace
Beauty's lovely form and grace,
Or the plainest, homeliest face?
Daguerreotype!

What can infant smiles engage—
Delicate life's middle stage,
Or the silver hairs of age?
Daguerreotype!

What attracts the lover's eye,
Calling forth a tell-tale sigh,
Though the loved one be not nigh?
Daguerreotype!

What gives comfort to the heart
When our dearest friends depart?
'Tis this wonder-working art—
Daguerreotype!

This a hallowed feeling lends,
And for absence makes amends,
When we hold some cherished friend's
Daguerreotype.

Then why need you longer stay?
Come! there's danger in delay;
Have your pictures drawn to-day,
And you'll be prepared to say

That there is truth, if not poetry, in the above lines; and that at the

DAGUERREOTYPE ROOMS OF W. B. DEANS

is the place to get a faithful and pleasing portrait. The artist takes this opportunity to tender his grateful acknowledgments to the patrons of his Art—trusting that his efforts to please, in the past, will ensure his success in the future.

To his former facilities he has now added an improved Half-size Camera, by the aid of which he is prepared to take groups, or single pictures, in a superior manner.

A new and beautiful variety of plain and fancy cases—Turtle shell, Papier Mache, and other splendid styles, of various sizes and patterns; gold and plated Lockets, &c.

You who have beauty! come and let me take it
You who have none! pray come and let me make it.

☞ Odd Fellows' Hall, corner of Turnpike and Chestnut streets.

June 23, 1852.

NOTE.—A good Quarter Camera for sale at a very low price.

☞ The artist, when not in his rooms, may be found by inquiring at the Candy Shop.
