General John Morgan, and his entire remaining band, numbering about 600 men, were captured by General Shackelford Sunday morning, near New Lisbon, Ohio. This information is official.

The news from Charleston, mainly thro' rebel sources, presents a gloomy picture. General Beauregard telegraphs to Richmond on the evening of the 18th that the Ironsides, five monitors, four gun and mortar boats, and two land batteries fired furiously on Battery Wagner all day. On the 19th the commander of the rebel forces at Charleston sends particulars as follows:

"After a furious bombardment of eleven hours from the ships and shore, throwing many thousands of shot and shell, the enemy assaulted Battery Wagner desperately and repeatedly, beginning about dark. Our people fought worthily, and repulsed the attacks with great slaughter. A number of prisoners were captured. Our loss is relatively slight. It includes, however, valuable lives. Brigadier-General Tallafero commands on our side. Pickets now well in advance."

On the 23d he announces to the rebel authorities that

"The enemy recommenced shelling again yesterday, with but few casualties on our part. We had in the battle of the 18th instant, about one hundred and fifty killed and wounded. The enemy's loss, including prisoners was about two thousand. Nearly eight hundred were buried under a flag of truce.

"Colonel Putnam, acting brigadier-general, and Colonel Shaw, commanding the negro regiments, were killed."

An attempt to throw cold water on these and other confederate reports of our repulse was made at Washington but no decisive denial of the statements is given, although the government must have received official information of the exact state of the case.

It is believed now in Washington that Lee has succeeded in making his way with his army through the mountains, and that he was on Saturday at Culpepper or Orange Court house. His delay along the Upper Potomac seems to have been for the purpose of forwarding plunder and the new crop of grain in the Shenandoah Valley to Richmond. The loss of Vicksburg and Port Hudson, and the cutting of the Tennessee and Virginia Railroad at Wytheville has greatly reduced the means of obtaining supplies in Richmond, and rendered it imperative upon Lee to gather and transport as much breadstuffs and as great a number of cattle as he possibly could, in order to keep the wolf from the door a little longer.

The latest advices from the Army of the Potomac assert that Meade succeeded, during last week, in baffling many important mevements of Lee. The latter attempted to effect a passage through three of the Blue Ridge gaps, but found them in our possession. We inflicted some tolerably heavy blows on portions of the rebel army at different points.

The rebel dispatches from the South-west state that the sick and wounded were all removed from Jackson, Miss., and the troops withdrew quietly at 10 o'clock on the night of the 10th inst. Our forces did not discover the fact until daylight the next morning.

A Cairo dispatch reports that our forces have burned Jackson, Miss., and that the pursuit of Johnston is at an end for the present. New Orleans papers of the 16th have reached Cairo by the steamer Imperial. Grierson and his cavalry are at Memphis.

DEATH OF HON. JOHN J. CRITTENDEN.—Frankfort, Ky., July 26.—Hon. John J. Crittenden died at 3½ o'clock this morning, without pain or struggle, in the full possession of his faculties. Disease, general debility; age, 77 years.

—A certain President of a Theological Institution convened the students at his room one evening, and said to them that he had observed that they were all growing thin and dyspeptical from the neglect of the matron's not providing herself with Herrick Allen's Gold Medal Saleratus; the announcement of which caused great confusion. The lady of the house has now provided herself with the Gold Medal Saleratus, and the students are each growing quite portly, and are more healthy than ever. Ladies, go and get a paper, and you will never use any other. Depot 112 Liberty Street, New York. All the Merchants have it.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee is not a prisoner, and is not the officer held at Fortress Monroe as a hostage for Captain Sawyer. The prisoner so held is Gen. W. F. Lee, captured some weeks ago on the Peninsula.

In Harford, June 24th, at the residence of her uncle, E. T. Follet, FANNY, second daughter of Charles H. and Nancy Follet, of Franklin, in the 19th year of her age.

LINES COMPOSED ON THE DEATH OF FANNY.

Far away from death and sorrow,
Where the angel songs resound—
Where is naught but joy and gladness,
Fanny there a home has found.
And she's waiting
For her parents dear.

She has many angel sisters,
Robed like her in garments white;
Joining her in songs and praises,
Crown'd like her in glory bright.
But she's waiting
For her sisters there.

There are many little children
With their tiny harps of gold,
Filling Heaven with sweet music,
And with joy and love untold.
But she's waiting
For her brother dear.

All the gifts that Heaven possesses
She partakes with joy and love;
And she's waiting for her school-mates,
In that happy home above.
Yes, she's waiting
For her absent friends.

LETTIE A. M. CRANE.

HUBBARD'S MOWER

WE have made arrangements for some of these Mowers, and can supply those who intend to buy. Our Country being so uneven and rough, but few machines are adapted to it. We unhesitatingly say that after severely contested trials with other machines and thorough use on all kinds of land and in all kinds of grass, we have become satisfied that we have the best machine in use at the present day. In proof of which we refer to a few of those who have tried them:

FEMALES! FEMALES! FEMALES!

Use that safe, pleasant remedy known as Helmbold's Extract Buchu, for all complaints incident to the sex.—No family should be without it, and none will when once tried by them. It is used by young or old in the decline or change of life, before and after marriage; during and after confinement, to strengthen the nerves, restore nature to its proper channel, and invigorate the broken-down Constitution, from whatever cause originating.—Use no more worthless pills! Take Helmbold's Extract Buchu. See advertisement in another column. Cut out and send for it.

THE CONFESSIONS AND EXPERIENCE OF AN INVALID.—Published for the benefit, and as a warning and a caution to young men who suffer from nervous Debility, premature decay of Manhood, etc., supplying at the same time, the means of self-cure. By one who has cured himself after being put to great injury and expense through medical humbug and quackery.

By enclosing a post-paid addressed envelope, single copies may be had of the author.

SINGER & CO.'S

LETTER "A" FAMILY SEWING MACHINE,

WITH ALL THE RECENT IMPROVEMENTS,

Is the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all Sewing Machines. This machine will sew anything, from the running of a tuck in Tarletan to the making of an Overcoat—anything from Pilot or Beaver Cloth down to the softest Gauze or Gossamer Tissue, and is ever ready to do its work to perfection. It can fell, hem, bind, gather, tuck, quilt, and has a capacity for a great variety of ornamental work. This is not the only machine that can fell, hem, bind, and so forth, but it will do so better than any other machine. The Letter "A" Family Sewing Machine may be had in a great variety of cabinet cases. The Folding Case, which is now becoming so popular, is as its name implies, one that can be folded into a box or case, which when opened, makes a beautiful, substantial, and spacious table for the work to rest upon. The cases are of every imaginable design—plain as the wood grew in its native forest, or as elaborately finished as art can make them.

The branch offices are all well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality.

Send for a copy of "SINGER & CO.'s GAZETTE."
