Have to Pay.

We see it stated that dealers requiring licenses under the State laws, who have been overlooked by the Mercantile Appraiser, and whose names do not appear on his published lists, are not thereby relieved from the necessity of taking out licenses. If they do not report, and take out their licenses, they are liable to be returned to the proper officers, and to be obliged to pay double.

Abounding in Birds.

It is a noticeable fact that the various specimens of the ornithological tribe are more abundant this summer, at least in this latitude, than they have been for years past. Orchard, hedge, forest and by-way seem to be alive with feathered songsters; and the increase is, doubtless, caused by the recent wise legislative enactments for their protection and preservation. They are, really, the farmers and fruit growers friend; and any violation of law in regard to the shooting of birds or robbing their nests should be promptly reported and the offenders punished in every instance.

Mercantile Licenses.

It will be of interest at this time to merchants, millers and small dealers in particular to know that by the provisions of a supplement to the act providing for the paying of mercantile taxes, "hereafter manufacturers and mechanics who shall sell goods, wares or merchandise, other than their own manufacture, not exceeding the sum or value of five hundred dollars per annum, shall not be classified or required to pay any annual tax or license fee; but if such sales shall exceed the sum or value of five hundred dollars per annum, as aforesaid, they shall be classified in the same manner, and required to pay the same annual tax as is required to be paid by dealers in foreign merchandise.

The Annoyances of Travelling.

An exchange, commenting on the disposition of many selfish persons on railway trains to occupy all the seats they can, says that selfishness is too mild a term for this practice, which, in a multitude of cases, amounts to downright dishonesty. It says that "for a man and his wife, when other passengers are going from car to car, looking for accommodations, to turn the back of a seat and put a couple of valises in a position so as to give the idea that they belong to the persons who have taken the places, and will be back in a few minutes, is without any figure of speech, a fraud, of which respectable people ought to be ashamed. It is suggested that railroad companies should appoint a special officer to superintend the seating of passengers at the starting of each train."

Can Any One Tell.

Can any one tell why men who cannot pay small bills, can always find money to buy liquor, and treat when happening among their friends?

Can any one tell how young men who dodge their washerwoman, and always behind with their landlords, can play billiards night and day, and are always ready at a game of cards?

Can any one tell how men live and support, their families who have no income and do not work, while others who are industrious and constantly employed are half-starved?

Can any one tell how it is that nine-tenths of the mothers are so ready to sew for the distant heathen, when their children at home are ragged and dirty?

Can any one tell why four-fifths of young women prefer a brainless fop under a plug hat, with tight pants and short tailed coat, to a man with some brains?

Tramps.

The rural districts are pestered with vagrants, many of whom assume the role of beggars that they may more easily steal from their benefactors. Their object is not so much to obtain food or raiment as to be afforded opportunities for the gratification of their thieving propensities, of which they readily take advantage. While the person from whom alms are solicited is engaged in the work of misdirected charity many of these worthless tramps seize what they can lay their hands on and secrete it among their garments. The country is not the only place where these rascally practices prevail, cities also being more or less cursed with them. Sometimes the tramps have a different object in view—to obtain information to aid them in future depredations on the property of those from whom they have received alms. The moral of all this is that beggars need watching.

Joseph H. Scranton.

From the Scranton Morning Republican we clip the following brief biography:

"Joseph H. Scranton was born at Madison, New Haven Co., Conn., June 27, A. D., 1813. He began his business life as a clerk for a house in New Haven, but a few years afterward he moved to the city of Augusta, Georgia, and entered upon business for himself. In the year 1844 he followed his relatives and the friends of his youth, the late Colonel and his brother S. T. Scranton, esq., to the valley of the Lackawanna, which at that time gave no signs of the business life, or of the prosperous city which has followed their efforts, and now bears their name.

In the year 18— the firm of Scranton & Platt was formed, in which he was a general partner. On the 10th of June, 1853, this firm was merged into the Lackawanna Iron and Coal Company, with which he was identified until the time of his death. For the last fifteen years he has been its efficient and successful president. With this special business connection he has been generally and actively identified with all the great enterprises for the material, moral and religious growth of the city.

As a business man, his character was marked by great executive ability, inflexible integrity, and extraordinary energy. As a citizen, he was pure, patriotic, and public spirited."

The Late Thunder Storm.

The storm which passed over this section on Wednesday last, was indeed one long to be remembered, by the extensive damage of its electrical bolts. There is hardly a mile in its path that does not bear some traces of the "Vulcan" shafts. The house of G. L. Stone, of this boro., was struck during the shower, by a bolt passing from a Balm of Gilead tree near by, but no serious damage was done. From traces found the following day, however, it is evident that the electric fluid passed very near some of his family, who felt the shock. The bolt seemed to separate when it left the tree, and entered the house in different places, which undoubtedly prevented more serious consequences. During the same shower, Martin Curly, of Middletown, had two cows killed, L. F. Moore & Bro., Bridgewater, had two cows killed, a yoke of oxen belonging to a Mr. Barlow, in the edge of New Milford, were struck, killing one of them, Marcus Underwood, near Hopbottom, had a colt killed, and the lightning struck seven times within sight of Ansgn Tiffany's house, but no damage was done. Similar reports reach us from almost all sections lying in the zone where the storm passed.

The Usurer.

A usurer a princely fortune made,
Though not by fraud or even trick of trade;
But—as he vowed—because heaven designed to bless
His honest toil and give him great success.
Eager to show the gratitude that filled
His swelling breast, he now began to build
An alms-house, doubtless hoping that the Lord
This pious undertaking would reward.
When all ready, in exultant mood,
Viewing the goodly pile the miser stood,
Thinking how well the work of love would pay,
When a shrewd neighbor chanced to pass that way.
The miser, who most ardently desired
To hear his stately hospital admired,
Now, in a tone of triumph, asked his friend,
If it were large enough to suit the end.
"Why not?" was the reply, "'tis nobly planned,
A welcome refuge for a numerous band:
But if you mean it for a home for all
Whom you've made poor, the building's far too small."

What the Public should Understand.

Postmasters are not required to redeem or accept in payment of post office dues, money orders, stamps or stamped envelopes, any currency which may be so mutilated as to be uncurrent, nor is it any part of their duty to receive and transmit to the treasury, for redemption, mutilated currency belonging to individuals, except as regular matter, forwarded in the usual manner at the risk of the owner. Such packages, if addressed to the "Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.," will be sent free of postage, but if the same be registered the registry fee in all cases must be prepaid by stamps. The necessities of the postal service are such as the funds received by postmasters must be kept in current and passable money, so as to be immediately available for paying the drafts of the department, money orders and expenses of the treasury department for the transmission and redemption of mutilated currency are safe liberal, and afford the public ample means to convert uncurrent United States money into passable "greenbacks" without unreasonable delay, at a little or no cost.

"Died Yesterday."

Every day is written this little sentence: "Died yesterday, so and so." Every day a flower is plucked from some sunny home; a breach made in some happy circle; a jewel stolen from some treasury of love. Each day from the summer fields of life, some harvester disappears—yea, every hour some sentinel falls from his post, and is thrown from the ramparts of time into the surging waters of eternity. Even as we write, the funeral of one who "died yesterday" winds like a winter shadow along the street.

"Died yesterday." Who died? Perhaps it was a gentle babe, sinless as an angel, pure as a zephyr's hymn—one whose laugh was as the gush of summer rills loitering in a bower of roses—whose little life was a perpetual litany—a Maytime crowned with the passion flowers that never fade. Or, mayhap, it was a youth, hopeful and generous—one whose path was hemmed by flowers, with not a serpent lurking underneath—one whose soul panted after communion with the great and good, and reached forth with earnest struggle for the guerdon in the distance. But that heart of his is still now, for he "died yesterday." A young girl, pure as the orange flowers that clasped her forhead, was stricken down as she stood at the altar; and from the dim aisle of the temple she was borne to the "garden of the slumberers." A tall, browned man, girt with the halo of victory, and at the day's close, under his own vine and fig-tree, fell to dust even as the anthem trembled upon his lips; and he, too, was laid "where the rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep." An angel patriarch, bowed with age and cares, even as he looked out upon the distant hills for the coming of the angel host, sank into a dreamless slumber; and on his door post, next day, was written, "Died yesterday."

"Died yesterday." Daily, men, women and children are passing away; and hourly, in some graveyard, the soil is flung upon the dead. As often in the morn we find some flower that blushed sweetly in the sunset has withered up forever, so, daily, when we rise from the bivouac to stand against our posts, we miss some brother soldier, whose cheery cry in the sieges and struggles of the past has been as fire from Heaven upon our hearts.

Each day some pearl drops from the jeweled thread of friendship—some lyre to which we have been wont to listen has been hushed forever. But wise is he who mourns not the pearl and music lost, for life with him shall pass away, gently as an eastern shadow from the hills, and death be a triumph and a gain.—Arthur's Lady's Home Magazine.

Severe Storm in Binghamton.

A heavy storm of rain and wind visited our city last Wednesday afternoon accompanied with heavy thunder and sharp flashes of lightning. Signs were blown around and umbrellas turned inside out. During the storm the two tents composing the museum and menagerie of Robinson's show were blown down, the cages overturned and a few people were hurt, we understand, but could not learn any names. It was indeed a laughable sight to witness the people returning from the show ground and to have been appreciated should have been witnessed. Men, women and children, without any hats, or their clothes wet through, or wearing Dolly Varden suits, made so by their contact with mother earth when the tents blew down, young ones crying for their parents, parents looking for lost children, made the scene one of inextricable confusion. Those who got wet, etc., when the tents blew down seemed to take it in good spirits when joked by their more fortunate friends whom they happened to meet on their way to some place of shelter.

The lightning was terrific. The house of Mrs. Vincent Whitney, on Front street, was struck in two places and the clapboards were twisted and broken, the plaster torn from the wall in a bed room and a very massive mirror was completely shattered and the gilt frame turned black. A child was a moment before taken from a bed in the room through which the lightning descended. The new house of George Frear, in the First Ward, was thrown to the ground and completely demolished. The head of the beautiful golden horse on John Rankin's barn was turned black. Trees were strewn promiscuously along the streets. Lightning struck the rods on Blanchard & Bartlett's planing mills, also on the Congregational church, but did no damage.—Binghamton Leader.

"The Mother Teacher."

At a recent celebration of the Sunday School Union of Paterson N. J., it was stated that the Sunday school enterprise was started in the city Seventy-four years ago by Sarah Colt, a little girl eleven years of age. She collected the children of the factories together, and taught them from Sunday to Sunday, until she had as many as sixty under her personal care. For forty years she was a teacher, and is still living in Paterson, eighty-five years of age.

Now mark the fruits. On this occasion referred to, four thousand teachers and pupils, forming a procession over two miles long, marching past the residence of the mother in Israel, saluting her with their sweetest songs, and receiving in return the acknowledgements in smiles and bows What must have been her reflections? Who does not rejoice to do her honor.

"Those that be planted in the house of the Lord
Shall flourish in the courts of our God;
They shall still bring forth fruit in old age;
They shall be fat and flourishing,
To Show the Lord is upright:
He is my Rock, and there is no unrighteousness in Him."

Facts and Questions for Soldiers.

At a regular meeting of Post No. 41, G. A. R., in January, 1869, a committee of three were appointed to secure "the names of all from this county who participated in putting down the late rebellion." That committee stated in the newspapers that over three thousand went from the county.

About the same time, I gave public notice that if the townships would furnish me lists of the men sent out from each township, these should have place in the County History. Twenty lists have been furnished, including three from the Boroughs of Dundaff, Friendsville, and Little Meadows, and all number 1520 names.

The muster-rolls of Captains Dimock, Lyons, Gates, Stone, Morris, Tyler, and Beardsley, doubtless include many of these, but others cannot be located. Great injustice, as well as great difficulty, must ensue, if any township fails to send a complete list. So far as I know, the following is the record of negligent townships and boroughs; From Apolacon, 0; Brooklyn, 3; Clifford, 0; Choconut, 0; Great Bend Borough, 0; Lathrop, 2; Middletown, 2, (unless on Company list;) Oakland, 0; Susquehanna Depot, 20 (no names) in Sickles' Brigade, and J. C. Foot; Montrose and Bridgewater, (except by Companies,) 1.

From the Company-rolls of Captains Van Valkenburg and Halsey, I have gathered the following lists of Minute men of 1862, and "Emergency" men of 1863, from Springville:

Albert B. Alger, Jerome Avery, C. W. Bard, Benj. Blakeslee, D. Butten, Durand Chamberlin, Horace J. Conrad, L. R. Dunham, Edgar C. Ely, J. B. Fletcher, John Grow, Adam Hanyon, Marsh Hunter, Chauncey L. Knapp, Horatio N. Loomis, N. P. Loomis, Edward C. Lott, J. H. Lyman, Thos. W. Lyman, Wilber Lyman, L. F. Meacham, S. T. Parker, Lyman Phillips, Jonas Phillips, Nelson W. Sheldon, William Smales, Justus Smith, Llewellyn Taylor, F. W. Tiffany, Seth Tyrrell, W. H. Vought, Fred. D. Warner, D. T. Welch, Miner K. Williams, Sidney Warner; number, 35.

In the 57th Reg't, Pa. Vols., I find the name of Bentley Stark, of Niven.

I have been told that five of the name of Hungerford enlisted in some regiment or regiments from the township; thus it is evident my list is very incomplete.

The Emergency men from Gibson were:—Ebenezer T. Bailey, Elisha Bailey, Jonathan Barager, Simeon Barager, Wm. H. H. Bennett, Myron Barnes, Merit Blackington, Ulric B. Gillett, Henry Ingalls, David P. Maynard, Albert B. Payne, Gilbert S. Stiles, Charles A. Ward, Duane Whitney.

I am told to take the name of Urbane Sloat from the list of Avery Milford soldiers, as he was credited to Gibson.

My embarrassment does not proceed alone from incomplete lists. Liberty furnished three lists, and one man's name was spelled differently in each, thus: Biven, Bevens, Bivin. I have used the first—which is right?

Another reads: Baronette S. Leisure, Barney Leizer, Baronett Lasure—which is right? Wallace E. Southworth, or, W. W. Southworth? or, do these names signify two persons? Thereon, or Theodore Spinnings? (Lost a leg.) Joel F. Morse, or Freeman J. Morse? P. R. Stockwell, or Porter Stockwell? (Drummer, with record the same.)

The lists of Friendsville and Forest Lake contain the name of Ezra Lester; where did he belong? and was he the same as Ezra P. Lester?

In Rush, I find John N. Etses and Newton Estes—two or one?

In Auburn, Mulford Carter, and W. J. M. Carter—two or one?

In Auburn, Samuel McCain and Samuel McLain—two or one?

In Auburn, J. Shannon and Joseph Shannon—two or one?

In Auburn, D. C. Titman and Clinton Titman—two or one?

In Auburn, Dana Lafrance or W. L. France—two or one?

In Auburn, C. S. Gay and Calvin Gay—two or one?

In Auburn, W. L. France and Westley France—two or one?

In Auburn, M. H. Vanscoten and Marshal Vanscoten—two or one?

In Jackson, C. H. Easterbrook and S. H. Easterbrooks—two or one?

In Jackson, Truman Larrabee and T. G. Larrabee—two or one?

In Jackson, Thaddeus Galloway and Theodore Galloway—two or one?

In Jackson, H. S. Wells, H. M. Wells, or W. S. Wells—three or one?

In New Milford, Albert Z. Baldwin and Albert J. Baldwin—two or one?

Which townships claim Wm. A. Furnum, Francis Fuller, John Groo (or Grow,) Albert Miles, Robert Service?

Shall not these questions and statement suffice for a last call for information? If I do not receive, by the 4th of July next, as complete township lists as can be obtained, I must feel myself absolved from further responsibility in the matter.

Company and Regiment should be given, when possible, that all lists may be proved if necessary; but I begin to fear the limits of my work will not admit the full record I had intended. Marks will designate the killed, those who died in the regular service or in consequence of it, the wounded, and cases of amputation. I should greatly regret confining myself to these, (except as peculiar cases may require notice,) were it not that the G. A. R. have the subject in hand, thus superseding my original plan.

Bottles Full of Beauty.

Ladies, if you would have beauty by the bottle-full, all you have to do is to purchase Hagan's Magnolia Balm. That peerless beautifier of the complexion not only heightens natural charms, but renders even the plainest countenance exceedingly attractive. It recalls to the pallid cheek the rosy tinge of health, removes pimples, blotches, roughness, sallowness and other blemishes, and imparts to the skin a most delicate fairness and softness. It smooths the furrows caused by time or care, and gives face, neck and arms the plump and engaging appearance of youthful beauty. All this is accomplished by the most natural means, viz: by gently and naturally stimulating the circulation in the capillary blood vessels. Besides being the most effectual aid to beauty known to modern science.

—In this age of skepticism, facts are required to inspire confidence in the minds of the people; but, with good indorsers, they are willing to test any article claiming extraordinary merit. The proprietors of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer offer the following indorsement of the merits claimed by them for their preparation, by the Pittsburg, Pa., "Christian Advocate," viz: "The public have so often been deceived by the use of worthless preparations for the hair, that an article of this kind, to gain their favor and secure their patronage, must possess real merit." We are glad to assure our readers that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is meeting with the success which its merits so justly deserve; and we have reliable evidence, that it will perform all that is claimed for it, in restoring gray hair to its natural color, and, as a permanent dressing, is unsurpassed.

A Pitful Condition.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure. In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food, every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterward into a more pitiable condition than ever, (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant were resorted to,) but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time by administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain-head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persevere until the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be the material flesh and muscle, bone and nerve and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery pabulum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

Testimony of a Prominent Physician.

"During the past eight years I have had frequent opportunities of witnessing the effect of Mishler's Herb Bitters upon persons suffering from Dyspepsia, Loss of Nervous Energy, Sexual Weakness, Diarrhœa, &c. I have known it to prove successful in many cases, where Allopathic, Homœopathic and Hydropathic treatment had failed. I still continue to use it in such complaints with uniform success, and have no hesitancy in pronouncing it the most efficacious remedy yet discovered for diseases arising from a disordered Stomach, Liver, Kidneys or Bowels,

Yours, very truly,

MANHOOD; HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self indulgence and sexual extravagance.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps.
