IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevrad N. C.

It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicy recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoae remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not beleive in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do beleive that if a bottle of Chamberlain's diarrhoae remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physican would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the last twenty years. For sale by C. W. Hodgkins, Patton Pharmacy.

The law holds both maker and circulator of a counterfeit equally guilty. The dealer who sells you a dangerous counterfeit of DeWitt's witch hazel salve risks your life to make a little larger profit. You can not trust him. DeWitt's is the only genuine and original witch hazel salve, a well known cure for piles and all skin diseases. See that your dealer gives you DeWitt's salve. C. W. Hodgkins, Patton Pharmacy.

"The Little Blue Book."

This handy little pocket volume, containing the time tables of all railroads in Pennsylvania, is proving a great help to business men and commercial travelers throughout the State. The book is published monthly, corrected up to date, and contains 140 pages. It is on sale on all trains and Union News Co. stands and by many news dealers. Subscription, one dollar per year. Single copies, ten cents. Address, Wm P. Hastings, Pub., Milton, Pa.

An Epidemic of Diarrhoea.

Mr. A. Sanders, writing from Cocoanut Grove, Fla., says there has been quite an epidemic of diarroea there. He had a severe attack and was cured by four doses of Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy. He says he also recommended it to others and they say it is the best medicine they ever used. For sale by C. W. Hodgkins, Patton Pharmacy.

DeWitts little earley risers are famous little pills for liver and bowel troubles. Never gripe. C. W. Hodgkins, Patton Pharmacy.

Round Trip Rates.

The New York Central has issued a new tariff of round trip rates, between all stations on the Pennsylvia Divison, in effect on and after June 12th. These rates provide for the sale of tickets good for coutinuous passage on going journey, to be begun on date of sale or day following, and limited for continuous return passage within thirty days from date of sale. This is a material reduction in fares and passengers will find it to their advantage to purchase round trip tickets.

MRS. OLIPHANT'S LAST VERSES.

[Dictated on June 21, 1897.]

On the edge of the world I lie,
Happy and dying and dazed and poor,
Looking up from the vast great floor
Of the infinite world that does above
To God and to faith and to love, love, love!
What words have I to that world to speak,
Old and weary and sunk and weak,
From the very low to the very high?
Only this, and this is all:
From the fresh, green hill to the wide blue sky,
From greatness to weakness, life to death,
One God have we on whom to call,
One great hand from which none can fall,
Love below, which is life and breath,
And Love above, which sustains.

QUEER WEDDING PRESENTS.

Gifts That Were Not Appreciated by Those Who Received Them.

Even at a marriage feast, as it seems, there will sometimes be the envious or the jealous or the malicious.

A well known author received from a rival man of letters a scrapbook containing a collection of all the adverse criticisms his works had ever received, while a popular artist was presented with a set of elementary works upon self instruction in drawing and painting.

Not long since a gentleman who is a passionate devotee of hunting received as a bridal gift from an anonymous donor a complete set of false limbs, a set of artificial teeth and a couple of glass eyes—the whole of which must have cost a considerable sum—accompanied by a note, the writer of which trusted that, by reason of the recipient's many falls while following the hounds, some or all of these substitutes would ultimately prove of use.

An elderly, crusty tradesman, on espousing a spinster of mature age, was presented by a London undertaker with two coffins for himself and wife "which, unlike most of the other offerings you will receive, are sure to be of service." The bridegroom resented this singular if useful gift, and it took all the efforts of mutual friends to prevent a breach of the peace.

Equally vexatious was the gift received from his neighbors by an infirm octogenarian who wedded a pleasure loving woman more than 50 years his junior. It was a large brass cage, "intended"—so ran the subscribers' note—"to restrain the wayward flights of a giddy young wife who has married a decrepit old fool for his money."

The husband of a lady whose great beauty hardly atoned for her sharp tongue found among his wedding presents a scold's bridle or branks, a gift from his wife's sisters, with the hope that, "if Kate makes your life as unbearable as she has made ours, you will not hesitate to put the accompanying offering to its original use."—London Answers.

Living Without Nourishment.

There seems to be no philosophical necessity for food. We can conceive of organized beings living without nourishment and deriving from [illegible] they need for the performance of life functions from the [illegible]dium. In a crystal we see [illegible] evidence of the existence of a [illegible] life principle, and, though we do not understand the life of a crystal, it is none the less a living being. There may be, besides crystals, other such individualized, material systems of beings, perhaps of gaseous constitution or composed of substance still more tenuous. In view of this possibility—nay, probability—we cannot apodictically deny the existence of organized beings on a planet merely because the conditions on the same are unsuitable for the existence of life as we conceive it. We cannot even with positive assurance assert that some of them might not be present here, in this our world, in the very midst of us, for their constitution and life manifestion may be such that we are unable to perceive them.—Nikola Tesla in Century Magazine.

Optician's Latin.

Hiram had returned home from college, where he had won high honors as a student of the ancient languages, but he "fell down" one day when his sister, a demure young girl in her teens, asked him to translate a sign she had seen in front of an optician's office which read thus:

CON SULTU SABO UTTO UREY ES.

Hiram struggled manfully with it for several minutes and gave it up.

"It isn't good Latin," he said. "There are some words in it that are Latin, but the others are either wrong in termination or are barbarisms from other languages, and, taken as a whole, it doesn't make sense."

"That is what I said," rejoined his sister, "but Keturah, out in the kitchen, translates it without any trouble. She says it means, 'Consult us about your eyes.'"

Whereupon Hiram collapsed.—Youth's Companion.

Saved by Presence of Mind.

At Sheffield, England, recently a curious accident occurred. A passenger was riding on a double deck electrical car, and a single deck car passed in the opposite direction. The rope of the trolley boom of the latter was flying in the wind, and it wound itself around the passenger's neck. For[illegible] had the presence of mind [illegible] rope with both hands and [illegible]self or he would probably [illegible] pulled from the car.

Not All.

Teacher (suspiciously)—Who wrote your composition, Johnny?

Johnny—My father.

"What, all of it?"

"No'm, I helped him."—Truth.

A real scene of troops in action hardly exists. Pictures of them are taken at odd spells and out of danger's reach, guns and troops being used for the purpose.

Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as the sunbeam.—Milton.
