Cars Are Attractive To Thieves

The greatly increased visibility now widely featured in automobiles undoubtedly is excellent from the drivers viewpoint, says Keystone Automobile Club, but the view from outside also has increased and cars can become attractive display cases for prowling thieves.

Many thefts from automobiles can be traced to the carelessness of the operators. Frequently, motorists store luggage, clothes and other valuables in the passenger compartment of automobiles and leave them parked. . . . and often unlocked, Edward P. Curran, Keystone's Safety Director, points out.

"The first rule for preventing thefts is to store such things in the car trunk. . . . and lock it," he says. "Thieves seldom pry into auto trunks.

"If it is absolutely necessary to leave packages in the car, they should be placed out of sight, preferably on the floor near the right hand door. Pilferers usually walk down the curb side of the street and peer casually into parked cars. They are not apt to consider autos that show no promise of reward.

"Remember:

"Do not leave keys in the car.

"Lock the doors when parking the car.

"Make sure the windows are not left open.

"Notify police of any suspicious looking person."

CARD PARTY

On April 10, a public card party will be held at the Mount Joy Fire House, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women. The finance committee will be in charge.

Farmers Plan Cutback In Poultry Numbers

A Feb. 1 survey by the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service shows that Keystone State farmers plan to buy 1 per cent fewer chicks this year than last.

Pennsylvania poultrymen plan to buy about the same number of pullet chicks as last year, but intend to buy 4 per cent fewer straight run and 10 percent fewer cockerel chicks than in 1960. This would make chick purchases 75 per cent pullet, 23 per cent straight run and two per cent cockerel. Last year 74 per cent of the chicks purchased were pullets, 24 per cent straight run and 2 per cent cockerels. Differences between farmers intentions and their actual purchases may be expected depending on egg and feed prices relationships and other developments during the hatching season.

There were 16.8 million layers on Pennsylvania farms on Feb. 1, down about 1 per cent from the month before Pullets not of laying age amounted to 4 per cent of the total of layers on the farms. This is indicative of a slight slow-down in egg production in the months to come since the pullet total is usually 5 to 7 per cent of the hen total.

January egg production was 283 million eggs, lowest since 1949. However, despite the cold weather, the rate of lay per bird increased slightly.

The average price, farmers in the Keystone State received for their eggs during January dropped to 45 cents a dozen, the lowest since September 1960. Prices received for farm chickens and broilers also declined. With the cost of feed up during January, the egg-feed, chicken and broiler - feed ratios became less favorable for the poultrymen.

Time Application Carefully For Best Alfalfa Weevil Control

Under no circumstances should Dieldrin or Heptachlor be applied as an insecticide on any forage crop this spring, County Agent, M. M. Smith said this week.

Dieldrin is recommended for use as a fall-applied control for both spittlebugs and alfalfa weevil, but heptachlor is not approved for use on any forage crop, Smith cautioned.

Where Dieldrin was used on alfalfa last fall, no spray application will be needed on the first cutting. Where Dieldrin was not used last fall, a Methoxychlor spray will be needed for the control of weevil and spittle bug.

The Spray should be delayed as long as possible for best control, but when general feeding by the larvae starts, farmers should be ready to move into the field The time will vary from field to field, but in most cases spraying date will be about May 10. Growers should keep close watch on the fields and not spray too soon. Reports indicate more fields are sprayed too early than too late.

Rate of application is three quarts of 25 per cent emulsion of Methoxychlor in at least 25 gallons of water per acre.

Smith recommends that farmers have the Spray material on hand and ready to go to work when the time is right.
