DAILY MORNING POST.

TUESDAY MORNING.....JUNE 18

[From the Boston Daily Advertiser, June 8.]

AN OWL.—Yesterday morning, an owl was seen perched upon the steeple of the old South Church. After remaining a short time, he changed his quarters to the top of a building in School street. From this place he flew to the cupola of City Hall. A young man there undertook to secure him, and climbed up outside, but just as he was about to seize his prey, the bird of wisdom took flight and lighted on the spire of the old South. About 11 o'clock we saw him perched upon the peak of the roof of the Howard Athenæum, where he was the observed of all observers. After remaining there awhile, somebody was cruel enough to shoot him.

[From the Boston Post June 8.]

THE OWL ON THE OLD SOUTH STEEPLE.

Ha! bird of night, it is not well that thus
Thou placest on the church protaning claws;
There must aspire, assuredly, a muse
That thus aspires thus above the laws.
Why would thou not within thy woods remain,
Why would thou not within thy wood remain,
And catch field mice, as did thy sires of old?
Why for this station on the fane wouldst fain,
And take the highest seat with aspect bold?
And yet, oh bird! thou mindest me of such
As daily soar among the human crew,
Who at fair things above them rudely clutch,
Without thy strength of wing to "out it through;"
But clutch, and gain, perhaps, the loftiest seat,
And yet, exalted, prove but owls at best.
WINNEMARIN.

By the President of the United States.

MEDICAL.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

WE invite the attention of the public to the certificates appended below, and bespeak for them that candid consideration which their honest frankness deserves.

Men in such stations as many who voluntarily bear witness to the efficacy and value of CHERRY PECTORAL, do not wantonly trifle with or distort facts, nor overrate their convictions. Judge then, whether this is not the medicine to trust when you must have relief for the throat or lungs; judge too, whether every family ought not to have it by them as a safeguard against the every where prevailing enemy, which steals with fatal frequency upon almost every flock, and carries off a lamb from many a home!

JACKSON, C. H., Jackson city, O., 5th Nov., 1852.

DR. J. C. AYER: Sir—The CHERRY PECTORAL is much in demand in this section, and I hear of many cures effected by it. Several of our best Physicians have used it in their own cases, and always with the happiest effects. The numerous patent medicines always before them, lead to incredility in regard to every new article of the kind; it only after undoubted evidence of merit is given to it, will anything like a general confidence can be excited.

The unrivalled excellence of this combination of agents, is now generally acknowledged, and proves beyond cavil by repeated trial under their own observation, has compelled medical men to proclaim abroad its usefulness. It is beyond all men to proclaim abroad its usefulness. It is beyond all men to proclaim abroad its usefulness. It is beyond all
