MEDICINAL.

MRS. WINSLOW,
AN EXPERIENCED NURSE AND FEMALE Physician, presents to the attention of Mothers her
SOOTHING SYRUP
FOR CHILDREN TEETHING, which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation; will allay ALL PAIN and spasmodic action, and
SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS.
Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves and
RELIEF AND HEALTH TO YOUR INFANTS.
We have tried it and sold it for over ten years, and can say, in confidence and truth of it, what we have never been able to say of any other preparation, NEVER HAS IT FAILED IN A SINGLE INSTANCE, TO EFFECT A CURE, when we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who has used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and recommendation of its magic virtues. We speak in this matter "what we do know," after ten years' experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfilment of what we here declare. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the Syrup is administered.
This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most EXPERIENCED and SKILFUL NURSES in New England and has been used with NEVER-FAILING SUCCESS in THOUSANDS OF CASES.
It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and strength to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve GRIPING IN THE BOWELS AND WIND COLIC, and overcome convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death. We believe it the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of DYSENTERY AND DIARRHŒA IN CHILDREN, whether it arises from teething or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints, that her prejudices should not let your prejudices, or the prejudices of others, stand between the relief that will be TRULY SURE—to follow the timely use of this medicine. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper.
Sold by Druggists throughout the world. Principal Office, No. 13 COLDER Street, New York. 1y8-1y
Price 25 cents a bottle.

The Press.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1859.

Judge Black's Reply to Judge Douglas.

[For The Press.]

No one who has seen the masterly argument of Judge Douglas in favor of the Democratic doctrine which allows "the bona fide inhabitants of any organized Territory to regulate and control their domestic institutions in their own way," could doubt for a moment that the Administration (jealous of his growing influence) would do what could be done to crush him.

This has accordingly been tried in various ways. "Tray, Blanche, and Sweetheart," all have yelped themselves hoarse in the effort, but without success; and now, to end the matter, Judge Black, the legal adviser of the President, he whose masterly argument the other way in 1856 is still fresh in our memories, has entered the arena, and has done his very best to prove that we, who fought and won the battle of 1856, were all either knaves or fools.

The Judge is a logician. Admit his premises and you can hardly deny his conclusions. He has read the classics, too, and is familiar with the wits and poets of the reign of Queen Bess; and like them wields a quaint and rather graceful pen. He is witty, also, as every one knows. The opinions delivered by him while on our Supreme bench are master-pieces of humor. He is one of those who it is well known seldom undertake to lay down the law without raising a laugh.

In obedience to orders he has gone to work on the doctrine of popular sovereignty with a will, and has made a very readable reply.

But in looking at his propositions it occurred to me that the true way to test their wisdom would be to reduce them to practice. This is a practical age. If a political theory will not "work," it must be unsound.

We know that the Democratic doctrine works excellently well in practice. It has been tried in three or four new Territories with success, some of which are free and some slave. How is it with the Administration theory? The Judge affirms that "the Constitution of the United States is impartial—that it does not destroy property anywhere—that it neither carries slavery into a Territory, nor prohibits it there—that it neither frees the slave nor enslaves the freeman—but requires both to remain in statu quo until the status impressed on them by the law of their previous domicil is changed by competent local authority, and until this is done a Virginia slaveholder (and others, I suppose, also) retains all the rights of a master." But he adds that this "competent local authority" only exists in States, or in Territories about to form State constitutions.

Now let us test this practically:

Here is a new Territory opened and organized in the usual way. There are as yet no laws in it, for none have been enacted. Of course there is no slave code there, by which I mean laws to protect slave property, and to punish those who violate the rights of the master. The Constitution does not do this. It is silent. Of course, then, Congress can pass no slave code; for the powers of Congress are limited by the terms of the Constitution. The Territorial Legislature may not feel disposed to pass a slave code, and cannot well be forced to do it; and, besides this, the Judge insists that this is a subject on which they have no power to legislate at all, nor can Congress grant them such power.

Now, into this new Territory let us suppose that a party shall have emigrated from the East—a colony of rampant Abolitionists, with all their bitter feelings against slavery and slaveholders. Let us suppose, also, that slaveholders from each one of the present slave States shall also have moved into it with their slaves, retaining and bringing with them (as Judge Black says they may do) "all their rights as masters."

Suppose, now, certain of these Abolitionists, ignorant or regardless of these "rights," should undertake to "teach one man's slaves to read," or circulate among others "incendiary publications," or "entice others away from their masters," or interfere to prevent some master from giving his slave the usual number of lashes, or do any one or more of the many things which in slave States constitute crime or misdemeanor, how would you arrest, how would try and convict and punish the offender?

By the common law? That does not recognise the "institution" at all, much less define and punish offences against it. By the Territorial laws? There are none, and perchance never will be any on this subject. By the Constitution of the United States? That (says Judge Black) does not carry slavery in the Territories by any means, and says nothing of crime and punishment. By the laws of Congress? There are none, and never can be any on this subject. Congress has no such power, says the Judge. By what laws, then, shall these offenders be punished?

The only laws remaining are those of the States from which these slaveholders have emigrated. And is this the conclusion to which we are driven!! Will it be contended that each of the inhabitants of a new Territory carries with him his State and its laws also? That the Territorial officers shall be compelled to recognise and adopt, and obey and enforce the laws of ten or twenty or thirty States, far, far beyond their Territorial jurisdiction—laws which the people in the Territory have had no hand in passing, and which many of them never heard of. Shall there be as many codes in each of the Territories as there are States in the Union, or shall one of them predominate, and, if so, which of them?

It is well known that no two of the slave States have precisely the same slave code—no two that agree what shall constitute "crime" against "the institution" or in the punishment to be inflicted for the same offence against it.

For abducting a negro, in some States they "hang," in others "brand," in others "fine and imprison" the criminal.

Now, suppose an Abolitionist should run away with several negroes at once, slaves which came from States differing thus in the mode of punishing slave stealers. Will the judge first "hang" and then "brand," and then "fine and imprison" the slave stealer, or will he reverse the punishment?

I leave the settlement of these difficulties to wiser men than I am, but they exist beyond a doubt, and are the natural result of this Administration theory.

Why, the main position of Judge Black that "although the Constitution does not carry slavery into a new Territory, it nevertheless preserves the right of property there," is either an absurd contradiction of terms, or a most impracticable piece of sophistry.

What is property worth where there is no law to protect it, and where is the protecting law to come from under this theory? Is not this the veriest farce, when compared with the Democratic rule which allows the people of a slave-holding Territory, like those of New Mexico, to frame a code to protect their property, and the people of a non-slave-holding Territory to omit it because they require none.

By the Administration rule the people of these Territories are all wrong in what they are doing—are rebels against the United States Government. By the Democratic rule they are all right; nor is there any power on earth that has the right to compel them to act in any other way. W.

CONTINUATION OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN SYNOD OF EAST PENNSYLVANIA.

[Correspondence of The Press.]

HARRISBURG, PA., Sep. 20, 1859.

After spending half an hour in devotional exercises, Synod resumed business. The following brethren were received as advisory members, viz: Drs. Kurz, Schmucker, Krauth, Baugher, Lochman, and Rev. J. G. Anspach. Rev. Daniel Sell was received as the delegate of the Central Synod of Pennsylvania. Michael Bauerman appeared as the commissioner of the Fisherville charge, Columbia county.

A committee consisting of Revs. Hay, Seiss, and Ehrehart, was appointed to prepare a draft of a church constitution, to be submitted at the next meeting of Synod.

Rev. Dr. Hay submitted a report on the subject of the endowment of Pennsylvania College. It was resolved, that the wealthy members of the church be urged to subscribe liberally to this object, and, as an encouragement, it was stated that a number had already subscribed $1,000 each. The purchase of scholarships was recommended as another method of raising money. The roll was called, and members stated the amounts they and their congregations will severally subscribe.

Rev. J. R. Willox, of Bucks county, who is not present at Synod, owing to injuries sustained by a fall from his horse, was excused for non-attendance, and the sympathy of Synod was directed to be conveyed to him, with our prayers for his speedy restoration.

The application of Rev. A. S. Link, late of Pennsylvania Synod, for admission into this body again came up, and all difficulties at the Trappe having been satisfactorily adjusted, Mr. Link was cordially received.

Rev. C. J. Ehrehart made report on the Emmaus Orphan House at Middletown, Pa., exhibiting a prosperous condition of its affairs. A committee was appointed on the subject, consisting of Revs. Ehrehart, Hay, Rudisig, and M. R. Alleman, Jr.

Resolutions were passed expressive of the grief of Synod on account of the death of Rev. J. S. Crumbaugh.

Leave was granted to those members of Synod, who reside in the State of New Jersey, in case they deem it exped
