A Sensible View of the San Juan Dispute.

(From the London Star.)

At any rate the question now is, Which channel? The Americans say the most western, which lies between Vancouver's island and San Juan. This channel, they affirm, is the broadest and deepest. No matter for that, reply the British; the channel next the main land is the one generally used. But, contend the Americans, by all recognized international law, islands, unless otherwise expressly reserved, are held to belong to the main land nearest which they lie, and neither San Juan, nor any of the group, of which it is the larger, is given to you by the treaty; they, therefore, belong to the main land, which is ours. San Juan, however, say the British, lies nearer to Vancouver's island; but, reply the other side, that does not matter. Now, these are merely grounds for discussion by an impartial referee, and for fair arbitration here. Yet this does not exhaust the grounds of claim. An exceedingly strong argument is used by the United States which deserves consideration. When the boundary line was fixed at the forty-ninth parallel, it was contemplated to run it right westward, and it only stopped at the shore between Fraser river and Roberts point because it drew further, it would cut Vancouver's island in two, leaving the southern or much smaller portion to the United States; that was felt to be an inconvenience, and it was therefore agreed that the line should be drawn southward from the point named, for the purpose of including the entire of Vancouver's island within the British dominions. Well, when any ambiguity, real or alleged, exists in a treaty, the rule is a settled one that it is to be interpreted in accordance with its object. In this case, the only object of taking the line southward, instead of continuing it westward, was not to divide Vancouver's island. If that island had not been in the way it would never have been a question about San Juan and the rest of the Haro group, for they lie considerably to the south of the forty-ninth parallel; and the Americans may reasonably say that, as drawing the line southward was a concession on their part, and that as their interpretation of the clause fulfils the object in view, it is the right one. A fair arbitrator, we think, would be disposed to give great weight to this argument.

On the other hand, he would certainly not be inclined to listen at all to an argument on the other side, used by some of our outcomparies, and used apparently as the chief ground of the British claim. San Juan, they say, is the key to the Gulf of Georgia, and we may as well give up Fraser river at once as hold it over to the Americans. Now, what is this but shifting the question from the ground of right to that of our own interest? If the treaty really gives England a claim to San Juan, this sort of argument is admirably calculated to defeat it, for it, in effect, says: "The treaty is of no consequence; the island is necessary to us, and we mean to have it." We have no hesitation in saying that, if the English Government take this ground, as the Times and Post have done, it would furnish a complete justification of Gen. Harney's seizure of San Juan, and the reported endorsement of that act by the United States Government. British interests in that quarter are nothing whatever to the United States, which has its own interests there too. But it is to be hoped that the question will not be shifted on to grounds which means contention, but may be yet decided on the sole question of right, and in this hope we confess, with pleasure, we are encouraged by the temperate and reasonable course understood to have been up to the present moment, strictly adhered to by our Government.

Weekly Review of the Philadelphia Markets.

NOVEMBER 18th, 1859.

The markets generally are devoid of animation, and the business of the past week has been light for the season. Bark comes in slowly, and is in limited demand. Breadstuffs continue dull, but Flour and Meal maintain former quotations. Wheat and Corn are better. In Coal there is not so much doing, owing to the ample supplies at Richmond. Coffee is arriving more freely. Sugar and Molasses are held firmly, but the stocks restrict operations. Cotton—The movement is small, without change in prices. Fish meet a limited inquiry, and prices are about the same. Fruit—There is not much doing. No change in Hides. Hops are firm. The iron market is unchanged. Lumber is dull, and the stocks moderate. Naval Stores are quiet. Provisions continue dull, but prime pork is about the same. Rice is steady. Cloverseed is arriving freely, and prime lots are in demand, at full rates. Teas and Tobacco are quiet. Of Wool, the stock is light. Whiskey continue dull. In Dry Goods there is very little doing. The fall trade is about over, and grades of all kinds are steady in price. The same may be said of Boots and Shoes, and Hardware.

Breadstuffs generally are without any material change, but the market is devoid of animation, and the transactions of the past week have been of a very limited character. Sales of Flour only footing up some 2,000 bbls. mostly in small lots, at $5 12½@5 25 for superfine, the latter for a cool straight; $5 50@5 62½ for extras, and $6@6 25 ⅌ bbl for family; Pennsylvania and Ohio extra-family ranging from $6 25@6 50, and fancy at $6 75@7 ⅌ bbl. The trade have been buying to a fair extent for the above rates for superfine and extras, and $6 50@6 75 ⅌ bbl for family lots, the market closing dull. Of Rye Flour the receipts and sales are light, and the market steady at $4 25 ⅌ bbl. Corn Meal continues dull—there is little or no inquiry; City and Penna Meal is nearly nominal at $3 37½ ⅌ bbl.

The following are the receipts of Flour and Meal for the week ending Thursday, November 17, 1859:

Half barrels of superfine	20
Barrels of superfine	17,275
" fine	42
" extra and clallows	112
" Rye	39
" Corn Meal	274
" condemned	20

WHEAT.—The receipts have been light, and the demand limited at rather higher figures. Sales include 26,000 bus. prime red, ranging from 1 30@1 32½ for common and prime Southern and Penna red, 135@140c for white, closing with an upward tendency. There is good demand with further sales of 2,000 bushels at 86@87 cents for Delaware and 90@91c for Pennsylvania. Corn is better and old yellow scarce at the advance; the sales comprise 25,000 bus at 62@62½c for old yellow and 63@75c for new as to condition, including some white at 72@74c, and damaged yellow at 58c. Oats are steady with sales of 15,000 bus. at 41@42c for old Southern and 43@44c for Penn. New York Barley commands $1 20 and Western Mail are making at 90@95c. Rye—PROVISIONS continue very inactive and prices are the same, with sales of mess Pork at $15 25@15 50 ⅌ bbl, cash, and 200 bbls prime mess at $14 75 ⅌ bbl. Beef is quiet at the above rates for superfine and extras, and $6 50@6 75 ⅌ bbl for family lots, the market closing dull. Of Rye Flour the receipts and sales are light, and the market steady at $4 25 ⅌ bbl. Corn Meal continues dull—there is little or no inquiry; City and Penna Meal is nearly nominal at $3 37½ ⅌ bbl.

MECHANICAL BAKERY, S. W. Corner BROAD and VINE Streets, PHILADELPHIA. This establishment is now in successful operation, day and night, and all are respectfully invited to call and see the whole process of bread-making for themselves.

The undersigned takes the liberty of saying that for thirty-five years he has been a practical baker—first an apprentice, and five as journeyman in one of the first houses in Scotland, and twenty-five as master, during which time he has had the opportunity of making many experiments, and observing all the improvements which have been made during the period.

In this establishment, of which he has now the management, in addition to the complete baking of bread, biscuit, &c., he has now facilities of many kinds not heretofore possessed.

Being unrestrained in the purchase of flour, none but the soundest and best shall ever be used; and he has no hesitation in saying that Bread of his baking cannot be excelled, unsurpassed in quality and weight by that made by the ordinary process.

Families in which the Bread made by the Mechanical Bakery has not been tried, or in which it has been tried only at the commencement, before the machinery was in perfect working order, are respectfully asked to give it a trial now, the undersigned believing it mutually lead to mutual advantage. CAUTION!—ASTROLOGY!—LOOK OUT!—GOOD NEWS FOR ALL!—The never-failing MRS. VAN HORN is the best; she succeeds when all others have failed. All who are in trouble, all who have been unfortunate, deceived by false promises, fly to her for advice and comfort. In love affairs she never fails. She has the secret of winning the affections of the opposite sex. It is this fact which induces illiterate pretenders to try to imitate her, and copy her advertisement. She shows you the likeness of your future wife, husband, or absent friend. It is well known to the public at large that she is the first and only person who can show the likeness in reality, and can give entire satisfaction on all the concerns of life, which can be tested and proved by thousands, both married and single, who daily and eagerly visit her.
