THE COURTS.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

[Reported for The Press.]

CIVIL COURTS—TRIAL OF HOMICIDE CASES

NISI PRIUS—Justice Strong.—White vs. Welsh. (Before reported.) On trial.

SUPREME COURT IN BANC—Chief Justice Lowrie and Justices Woodward, Thompson, Strong, and Read.—Guthrie's Appeal. This was reargued by Wayne McVeagh for appellant, and by Wm. M. Meredith for appellee.

Saint Joseph's Orphan Asylum's Appeal. Appeal dismissed at the cost of the appellant.

MCKE' Appeal. On the 8th of May, 1851, Thomas Davis and wife leased to Michael Ryan, his heirs, &c., for 99 years, the entire mining right in a certain tract of land in Chester county, and the lessee agreed to pay to the lessor $250 every six months; the first payment to be made May 8, 1851; the second November 8; 1851, and the same sum to be paid semi-annually thereafter until the ore-leave should amount to $1,000 per year, then the semi-annual payment to cease. If at any time thereafter the amount of ore should fall short of $1,000 per year, then the same annual rent to be continued, and $3 per ton over the above mentioned $1,000 per year. It was further agreed that if the lessee should cease mining operations on said tract for twelve consecutive months, then the indenture should become void and of no effect.

The lease was assigned to the Montgomery Mining Company, which commenced operations in mining and prosecuted them for several years; but stopped on or about the 8th April, 1854, and never resumed. The plaintiff's (Moss) execution was issued to January term, 1858, and some property belonging to the company, lying on the premises described in the lease, about the mine, was sold. Out of the proceeds of this sale Thomas A. Davis (appellee) claimed to be paid six months rent, provided the proceeds of the goods sufficed to pay it.

Moss resisted this claim on the ground that the right of distress was gone, and that therefore the former landlord was not entitled to be paid rent out of the proceeds of the plaintiff's execution. The auditor reported in favor of the plaintiff, and against the claim of Thomas Davis. To this report Davis took exception, and the court after argument made a decree in his favor. The plaintiff appeals from the decree to the court. Argument made by Wayne McVeagh for appellant, and Wm. Pennypacker for appellee. The argument of Mr. McVeagh was exceedingly able and exhibited great learning and research.

COMMON PLEAS—Judge Ludlow.—Magee vs. Hunt. An action of trover. Verdict for plaintiff for $26. Earle for plaintiff; De W. C. Morris for defendant.

Finley vs. Kemble. An action for damages. Plaintiff was employed as a clerk by defendant for a certain time, and was dismissed from employment without having received due notice or adequate compensation. This action is brought to recover damages. S. Munday and Walter Budd for plaintiff; Geo. A. Coffey for defendant. At the hour of adjournment the case was not concluded, Mr. Coffey having but finished his address to the jury.

DISTRICT COURT—Judge Hare.—McGrillis vs. Plomerfelt. An action for damages against the Receiver of Taxes, for the unlawful levy of goods belonging to plaintiff. This levy was made for taxes alleged by defendant to have been unpaid. Plaintiff, when called upon, asserted he had paid them, but refused to show his receipt. Verdict for plaintiff for $25. Lemon for plaintiff; Lewis C. Cassidy and John O'Brien for defendant.

Seckel vs. Bacon. An action on a check. Verdict for plaintiff for $583 14. Pettit for plaintiff; McAllister for defendant.

Walker vs. Johnson: An action to recover money alleged to have been paid by plaintiff to defendant. Verdict for defendant. J. P. O'Neill for plaintiff; M. Veale for defendant.

Barber vs. Griffith. An action on a check. Cuyler for plaintiff; J. B. Townsend for defendant. On trial.

DISTRICT COURT—Judge Stroud.—Martin vs. Blaylock. Before reported. Verdict for plaintiff for $400. De W. C. Morris for plaintiff; Daniel Dougherty for defendant.

Bagley vs. Waton. An action to recover compensation for services rendered by plaintiff for defendant. Verdict for plaintiff for $424 11. R. C. McMurtrie for plaintiff; Lucas Hirst for defendant.

Collins vs. Thayer. Feigned issue to try the ownership of contents of a bonnet store. R. C. McMurtrie for plaintiff; S. W. Davis and Wm. H. Ledyard for defendant. On trial.

TRIAL OF THE EICHELE HOMICIDE CASE—THE VERDICT OF THE JURY.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.—Yesterday, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Judges Allison and Thompson first on the bench, the case of Daniel Price, James Gheegan, John Carr, George Alexander, and William Hatz, charged with the murder of John Eichele, at his residence, on the 29th of last April, was continued, Leonard R. Fletcher, Esq., making the closing speech in behalf of the defence. This effort was listened to by an overcrowded court-room, and occupied nearly two hours in its delivery. Mr. Fletcher earnestly contended that the defence had clearly shown that the attack was made in the first place by some of the inmates of Eichele's house, and further, that the defendants, with the exception of Price, were unarmed; that they all acted upon the defensive and not upon the aggressive; that one of their number, Gheegan, was shot while in the very act of endeavoring to make peace; that an alibi had been proven so far as Hatz and Alexander were concerned; and that, as the Commonwealth's testimony was shaken in this respect, its soundness should be doubted in every particular. Mr. Fletcher also forcibly argued that the good character which his clients had proven did not entitle them to be classed as those who harbor murder in their hearts, but, on the contrary, in view of all the peculiar circumstances of this case, and, more especially, the conflicting nature of the testimony, that character should stand around and about them as an impregnable shield. Mr. Fletcher concluded by referring to the youth of the prisoners, and the afflicted condition of those who were near and dear to them, and asked the jury to render a verdict which their consciences approved. With such a result he would be entirely satisfied.

District Attorney Mann closed the speaking on behalf of the Commonwealth, strenuously urging a conviction of murder in the first degree as to Price, and in the second degree as to the other defendants. He dwelt upon the evidence elicited, and the law as applicable thereto, at some length. There could be no doubt that John Eichele had been brutally murdered in his own house on the 29th of April last, and no doubt that these defendants were present, armed with pistols, when the deceased fell upon his own floor mortally wounded. Mr. Mann alluded to the dying declaration of Eichele, as placing the mark of the murderer upon Price, who was confronted with him at his bedside. The statement of the deceased, made in a solemn and impressive hour, was corroborated by other testimony in the case, and must have its full effect upon the minds of the jury.

There may be some mystery about this case, but yet sufficient light to reveal the guilt of at least one of the defendants, who has been prominently named in connection with this bloody transaction. The doubts which have been suggested on the other side and various portions of the evidence leave the case somewhat disguised in mystery—enveloped in a cloud as thick as was that which filled the room of Eichele with the smoke of pistols, when he fell a victim to a sudden and unprovoked murder, but amid all this smoke and doubt there is one form at least clearly discernible, and that, gentlemen of the jury, the sworn evidence in this cause assures us is Daniel Price.

Judge Allison charged the jury fully and impartially, after which they retired, shortly before two o'clock, for deliberation.

At 4 P. M. they came into court; speculation in the meantime having been exceedingly rife as to the probable result. Their foreman announced that they had agreed upon a verdict, which was received amid the most profound silence. This verdict was as to Daniel Price, "guilty of murder in the second degree;" and as to John Carr, James Gheegan, George Alexander, and William Hatz, "NOT GUILTY."

Those who were acquitted were at once set at liberty, and were surrounded by at least a thousand people in the vicinity of the court-house. Much excitement prevailed outside, and it was a long time before the crowd began to disperse. Price received the verdict without any manifestation of emotion. His counsel, we learn, will file reasons for a new trial, as they allege that they can now produce affidavits which will establish his innocence beyond all doubt. This case has occupied much of the time and attention of the court; but not more than its great importance demanded. Of course, there were various opinions as to the verdict; but the friends of Gheegan, Carr, Alexander, and Hatz were not among those who were disposed to express their dissatisfaction.

TRIAL OF JOHN SWEENEY FOR THE MURDER OF CHARLES CARTEN.

Yesterday afternoon, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, the case of John Sweeney for the murder of Charles Carten was called up for trial, District Attorney Mann and Wm. Brantley Hanna appearing for the Commonwealth, and Messrs. Henry R. Warriner and Wm. N. Ashman for the defence. The murder is alleged to have been perpetrated on the 30th of November last, in Nugent's court, Shippen street, above Seventh. The defendant went to the house of the deceased in the evening, and after calling for "his child," (referring to his wife, who had a room in Carten's house,) stabbed Carten with a pair of shears, inflicting a mortal wound. There had been some ill-feeling between the parties, Sweeney on one occasion previous having committed an assault and battery on Carten. Subjoined is all the evidence in the case which was elicited up to the time of the adjournment of the court, at 5½ o'clock P. M.

THE EVIDENCE.

Dr. McLaughlin sworn.—I saw Charles Carten on Wednesday evening, November 30th, at 8½ o'clock, at his own house on a settee; he was feeble and prostrated; found a penetrating wound on the lower part of the abdomen, right side above the haunch bone; he died the following Sunday morning at 5 o'clock; I considered his case was hopeless from the first, and that the wound was mortal; the wound was the cause of death.

Dr. Joseph R. Coad sworn.—I made the post mortem examination in this case; the wound was about an inch above the haunch bone; an inch to three-quarters of an inch wide; an inch and a half or two inches deep; it penetrated the intestines. (Shears shown.) That would do it; it entered the lower intestines; would not require much force to penetrate; I found the contents of the intestines in the vacuum of the abdomen.

Mrs. Catharine Carten sworn.—Chas. Carten was my husband; he was going on 25 years of age; had one child nine months old; lived in Nugent's court; we rented the house; knew Mary Sweeney; she wanted to rent a room; we rented her one; she lived there 13 months; lived there from Nov. 15 to Dec. 7, before I saw Sweeney; he came there from prison; he came on Tuesday, and went away the next Monday; my husband and he quarrelled; he left and went away; he came back that night, and his wife said she would not live with him; she turned him out; he was away some time and came back again; she was only there about five weeks when he came; she drove him away; don't know how long he was away; he came there on Oct. 6th last; he stabbed my husband in the right breast; last; he was arrested for that and put in prison; Sweeney him with two officers on the same night next saw him in my house; after the 6th of October I saw him on the Sunday before this occurrence; saw him in the alley; he said "he had but once in his life to lose, and he would take a single life;" he was six yards from the house; he went out of the alley; he came on November 30; my sister, the baby, myself, and my husband were there; Sweeney came after eight o'clock; he knocked; it sounded as if with an iron instrument; the shutters were then pulled open; my husband was on the settee; got up and said "What is the matter?" I heard Sweeney's voice at the door and window; I think I saw him when the shutters were pulled open; he said to my husband, when he went out, "Take you the—that will do you?" I had the baby in my arms; I did not go to the door; my husband came in and said "I'm stabbed again;" the moment he got it; he was stabbed above the right haunch bone; Dr. Coad described the wound; I saw the wound and dressed it; he died on the following Sunday; he had no malice towards this man; forgave him for what he had done before; he was a laborer on a railroad; married three years.

Patrick Gallagher sworn.—I was present the night Sweeney came to Carten's; I left Carten's house, him asleep; I went to the hydrant; heard Sweeney say "he should have his child," and something about the alley; a woman told me to throw the water on the man; I went in the door; I heard the noise; him d——g the alley; I went out; looked under the archway; saw two men *throwed about fifteen feet off; nearly opposite Car*ten's door; saw Sweeney; he was one; I heard Sweeney say "you got that, or take it," or some such words; he came out towards me on the street, and went away at a desperately smart walk; the other man went in Carten's own house; that man was Carten, as far as I can say.

Officer Solby sworn.—I am an officer; was with Mr. Dick; heard a noise in the court; saw the prisoner; Officer Dick took hold of him; saw nothing in his hand then; took him down towards Shippen street; I was behind him; just before he got to Seventh street, he threw away a pair of shears; I picked them up; these are the ones; they were bloody; fresh blood on them; I kept the shears, and put them in my pocket.

Cross-examined.—This was November 30; between eight and nine o'clock; I heard a noise in the alley—hallooing; it drew my attention; the prisoner was on a walk; he threw the shears; I saw him; they did not fall; he had them in his hand; I did not go to the station; often saw him before.

Officer Dick sworn—I arrested this defendant; saw his hands; good deal of blood on them.

Susan Kane sworn.—I live in the neighborhood; I was standing on my own floor; my house is about seven or eight yards from Carten's; I was at the hydrant; I heard Sweeney calling for his child to come out of this house, he'd have her; he went at the shutters, giving it a great slam, and repeated, "he would have his child;" then Carten came out; I told him not to come out; he went out; had no weapon; just put him away from the door; Carten said nothing; he went towards Sweeney; did not see any blows struck; saw Carten go in; he came out and said he was stabbed; did not know it until then; it was light enough to see the blows.

Bridget Gorman sworn.—Am a sister of Mrs. Carten; I was at the house; I was sewing when the knock came to the door; it was a loud knock; next heard Sweeney's voice; he then slammed the shutters and said something about his child; Carten got up from the settee, and said What's the matter; he was asleep; I says, "Charley, don't go out;" he says, I'll go out and put him away; I said, don't go; he opened the door and went out; I went to the door after him; I stood in the door; went to step out and Sweeney came up to Carten; Carten said nothing; I saw Sweeney draw his hand and stab him, and said, "Take that—that will do for you;" Carten came in and said, "Sweeney has stabbed me again;" I did not look after the prisoner; looked after Charley; I saw the cut and the blood coming.

The court adjourned until this morning, at ten o'clock.

THE CITY.

CHARITIES OF THE SONS OF MALTA.—At the last stated meeting of the members of the Minnehaha Lodge, and the Supreme Grand Council of the Sons of Malta of Eastern Pennsylvania, held at their hall, corner of Tenth and Chestnut streets, the executive committee on the late Charity Ball reported to the Grand Council that the entire net proceeds of that festive occasion were $1,528.48, whereupon it was unanimously agreed to increase the amount of the charity fund to $2,000, and that an additional appropriation of 5,000 bread tickets be made to the different soup societies.

The fund was divided among the following institutions:

1. Jewish Foster Home, one hundred dollars.
2. Penn Widows' Asylum, one hundred dollars.

29. Home Missionary Society, fifty dollars.
30. News Boys' Aid Society, twenty-five dollars.
31. St. Luke's Church Home for Old Women, twenty-five dollars.

The bread tickets were distributed as follows:

1. Groom's-court Soup Society, 1,000 loaves.
2. Moyamensing Soup Society, 1,000 loaves.
3. Kensington Soup Society, 1,000 loaves.
4. Spring Garden Soup Society, 500 loaves.
5. Northern Soup Society, 500 loaves.
6. Western Soup Society, 500 loaves.
7. Southwark Soup Society, 500 loaves.

A STORY OF MYSTERY AND MISFORTUNE.—On Tuesday evening, Mr. George Hawkins, residing on Chestnut street, near Twenty-second, changed his clothing, and went out on business. About an hour after his departure his wife had occasion to enter her husband's chamber, when she discovered his discarded clothing hanging over the chair, and in flames. She removed them to the yard, placed them under the hydrant, and drowned the flames. The matter was forgotten; when yesterday forenoon, while Mrs. Hawkins was engaged in the discharge of her domestic duties, a stranger rang the bell and told her that smoke was issuing from the windows of an upper story. On repairing to the place indicated she found that a parcel of clothing in a closet was almost consumed. The flames had charred the woodwork of the closet, the mantel piece, the furniture in the room, the walls, and glass. By some little effort these flames were also extinguished. One or two fire companies came on the ground, but were unnecessary, as the flames had been subdued without their assistance.

Fire Marshal Blackburn repaired to the premises to make an investigation of the case yesterday afternoon. Circumstances led him to suspect a little girl in the family, about fourteen years of age, of having a guilty knowledge of the occurrence. She was taken in custody by the Fire Marshal, and subjected to a cross-examination. Her story is a strange one. She says she was born in the State of New York, her parents dying while she was at an early age, in a destitute condition. She was placed in a reformatory institution on Randall's island, where she served some years, and was then bound out to a family in New Jersey. This family treating her badly, she ran away, and, getting on a train, she came as far as Bordentown, and was found strolling around the streets by a friend of Mrs. Hawkins. Mrs. H., hearing of the case, brought her here, and domesticated her in her family, where she remained up to the time of her arrest. She is an ignorant, dull, little girl, and shows the bad effects of the vicious propensities and habits so common with unfortunates of her class and condition.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MERCHANTS' FUND.—On Tuesday afternoon the Merchants' Fund Association held its sixth annual meeting at the Board of Trade rooms. David S. Brown, Esq., was called to the chair, and Thomas F. Brady appointed secretary. The annual report, which was read, states that, since the formation of the society, one hundred and ninety-one donations have been made, to amounts not exceeding $300 per annum, to any one individual. The donations during the past year amounted to $2,047.50. One of the beneficiaries died since the last anniversary. The present number receiving regular aid is ten, whose ages range from over sixty to eighty years. None of the recipients applied, directly or indirectly, for aid. It was extended by the voluntary action of the committee, upon their own knowledge, or at the suggestion of those who had witnessed the distribution of the parties, and the unavailing efforts they had made for their own support. The assistance rendered by the society is strictly private and confidential.

The report acknowledges the continued interest of the members of the association, and the promptness with which their contributions are made. Upon the annual contributions the continuance of the beneficent work of the society almost wholly depends. The permanent fund, $4,200, is invested in city and State loans. The treasurer reported the cash receipts of the year to be $5.004 31, and the expenditures $3,960.83, leaving a balance in hand of $1,103.48.

Mr. William C. Ludwig read an interesting statement in regard to different parties who had been aided during the year, and the circumstances attending the cases, but no allusions to the identity of the individuals were made.

The following officers were chosen: President—John M. Atwood. Vice Presidents—Thomas Robins, Edmund A. Souder. Treasurer—Wm. C. Ludwig. Secretary—Thomas F. Brady. Directors—Thomas Robins, Wm. C. Ludwig, Arthur G. Coffin, James B. McFarland, James C. Hand, Edmund A. Souder, John D. Taylor, Charles S. Ogden, E. C. Knight, Samuel E. Stokes.

FUNERAL OF FATHER MCDERMOTT.—The funeral of the late Rev. John McDermott, the Catholic clergyman whose death has been announced by us, took place yesterday morning. The funeral services took place at the Church of St. Philip de Neri, on Queen street, between Second and Third streets. At nine o'clock, the solemn requiem for the dead was celebrated, the church being filled with people, and many were compelled to remain upon the outside. After the sermon had been delivered, the body was removed to the Cathedral Cemetery, in the Twenty-fourth ward, where the interment took place. The funeral cortege was very long, and the display was very imposing. Several of the Catholic associations of the city appeared in the line.

CHARGED WITH STEALING LEAD PIPE.—On Tuesday afternoon two colored men named Daniel Nichols and Obadiah Twiford were arrested at Water and Vine streets, on suspicion of having stolen about forty-five pounds of lead pipe, which they had in a box, and which is supposed to have been taken from some distillery. The accused were committed for a further hearing, and the property awaits an owner at the Cherry-street station-house.

ACCIDENT.—Yesterday afternoon a man named Andrew Bayrow, while driving a cart loaded with oyster shells, in Second street, near Spruce, fell from the load, and the wheel passing over one of his legs, it was broken. He resides in the upper part of the city.

A LADY'S POCKET PICKED.—Yesterday morning a lady had her pocket picked of a portemonnaie by two young men, in the neighborhood of Second and Quarry streets. Detective Bartholomew arrested a young man on the charge of committing the theft. He was committed to answer.

RETINDED.—Yesterday morning the flames rekindled among the rubbish in the ruins of Peters & Co.'s manufactory. Before they had an opportunity of extending they were extinguished by the American Hose Company.

CORRECTION.—The name of William Russell, police officer, appears in the newspaper reports of a recent murder trial as a witness for defence. It is not William Russell, high constable of the detective department of police.

SENT TO THE NORTHERN HOME.—His Honor Judge Stroud yesterday committed three girls and one boy to the Northern Home for Friendless Children. They were all in the most destitute condition, hungry, and shivering with cold. Two of the little girls were begging in the streets, without even shoes or hose to their tender little feet. None of them had homes. Two of them are orphans, and the parents of the others are being supported elsewhere, at the public cost.

ROBBERY.—A farmer from Bucks county, named Henry DeWitt, came to this city on Tuesday for the purpose of disposing of a load of lime. He succeeded, and with the proceeds of his sale, which amounted to $150, started home. The money was in his wagon, secured in a bag. On his road home he stopped at a tavern on Germantown road, where he was robbed of his money. No trace of the robbers could be discovered.
