The Contrite Slaves in Windsor.

NEGRO PROTESTS—NEGRO SCHOOLS.

[From the Windsor (Canada) Herald, Jan. 12.]

We have published a statement from the Times, reporting the proceedings of a meeting held in Grosvenor-street Chapel, on the 15th of December, at which a person named Troy, a colored gentleman, stated that he had been stationed four years at Windsor, in Upper Canada, as a missionary, and that his principal object in visiting England was to raise funds to complete a commodious chapel and school-room in that room, which had already been commenced.

Now, is it fair that the people of England should be perpetually bored by a set of vagabonds for charity, when it is really not required? The colored people have a good school here, furnished at the expense of the corporation; they have also a church. To the school they will not send their children, which is shown by the fact that the teacher appointed received his salary last year for doing nothing; and the determination not to do so is openly expressed by the most intelligent of the colored residents in Windsor. Why, then, send to England for money to build another school? This year, a colored man has been appointed, and several children attend the school; but they form a small portion of the whole. Supposing, then, that they gull the English out of the money and build their school, will they select a colored or a white man as teacher? No objection exists to furnish a colored teacher to the school if any one will apply to the board who possesses the necessary qualifications; but, instead of adopting this mode of procedure, the aid of England is invoked, and thereby a slur cast upon the entire white population of this town, for at a distance it will appear that education has been denied to the colored race. It is not the lack of means to gain an education that is the real cause of complaint; it is that amalgamation is not allowed in the schools between white and colored; but, as the white inhabitants will not permit this, the colored people must either adopt the separate school, or be content to remain without education; and all the money which may be collected in England will be unavailing in forcing open the doors of the white school for the admission of colored children. We say, "at all the money that may be collected in England;" no doubt exists that a great amount will be gathered; but, if former precedents are guide, it is improbable that one penny will ever reach Windsor. It is well known that three-fourths of the money collected for fugitive slaves is never accounted for, and also, that nearly all the provisions and clothing sent from the States, two or three years after the passing of the fugitive law, were appropriated to the use of the agents who were appointed to dispense them, while the fugitives remained with unappeased hunger and in tatters.

Mr. Israel Lewis appropriated $16,000 to himself which was collected in Canada and the States, to forward a land speculation of 20,000 acres; the project therefore failed, as after subscriptions only enabled the company to purchase 1,500 acres.

The celebrated Samuel Ringgold Ward, after cheating all the subscribers to his newspaper out of the advance payments of one year, left the States and settled in Canada, and being a most eloquent storm-heaven preacher, he was entrusted with a mission to England to collect funds for the fugitives. Such is the infatuation of the colored race in these matters, knowing that Ward was a thief, they entrusted him with the collection of a large amount of money—and that he got large amounts is well known—but he did not come back to say how much.

Mr. Troy may be an honest man, but it hardly has the look of honesty to visit England on a collecting tour when the money is not required.

MECHANICAL BAKERY, S. W. Corner BROAD and VINE streets, PHILADELPHIA. This establishment is now in successful operation, day and night, and all are respectfully invited to call and see the whole process of bread-making for themselves.

The undersigned takes the liberty of saying that for thirty-five years he has been a practical baker—five as apprentice, and five as journeyman in one of the first houses in Scotland, and twenty-five as master—during which time he has had the opportunity of making many experiments, and observing all the improvements which have been made during that period.

In this establishment, of which he has now the management, in addition to the complete labor-saving machinery, he has how facilities at many hands not heretofore possessed.

Being unrestrained in the purchase of flour, none but the soundest and best shall ever be used; and he has no hesitation in saying that Bread of all kinds can be delivered, unsurpassed in quality and weight by that made by the ordinary process.

Families in which the Bread made by the Mechanical Bakery has not been tried, or in which it has been tried only at its commencement, before the machinery was in perfect working order, are respectfully asked to give it a trial now, the undersigned believing it would lead to mutual advantage.
