been done at the annual meeting last year. This suggestion was responded to generally throughout the house, after which, the convocation united in singing another hymn.

The Rev. Dr. Jenkins, of the Presbyterian Church, next addressed the meeting. He blessed God for the suggestion of a brother there present a year and a half ago, from which these meetings had originated, and he hoped that there would grow out of this a terrible unity, not merely a thing to be talked about, but something that the world could see and appreciate. He did not know how that this unanimous union was to be brought about—but it would assuredly come, and one of the means to be employed for this end, he believed, was a deeper piety among professing Christians. He spoke boldly against holding up any longer Asmon name, quoting those two lines of a hymn just sung as expressing his sentiment:

"No other name is known above—
"Why should it be below?"

The Rev. Thomas H. Stockton, D. D., was next introduced to the chairman. He said he felt some doubt as to the propriety of his rising to speak on this occasion: first, on account of his physical condition, and, secondly, on account of the sentiments he was about to express, though he should be sorry to say one word that would in the least jar the beautiful spirit of harmony then pervading their meeting. He then continued, in his very peculiar style, beginning, "Christ, Christ, Christ is the one great name around which all our interests centre." His, he said, was in the heart, and all should, and Christ, as the Creator of all, became the Redeemer of all. He saw a theory in the Divine order of things which was peculiar. In the natural world he discovered a gradual deterioration, or impairment, as shown in the shortening of human life, whilst in the spiritual there was manifestly progress, and had been ever since the first creation of redemption was made in Eden. With regard to the practical results of these meetings, the Doctor said, with telling force, that they silenced their enemies, admitted their errors, acknowledged that they ought to bury their differences, and prayed that they might be one, and yet, when they separated, the same error would still practised; the spirit within was found against the Protestant Episcopal, against the Presbyterian, against the Baptist, against the Methodist, and all beating vehemently against each other. Now, this he wished to see corrected. He knew that his bretaren sometimes accused him of being "in advance of the age." Well, if he was, he hoped the Lord would confirm him, and asked that he might be kindly remembered in the prayers of his brethren in this behalf.

A few remarks were next made by the Rev. I. H. Torrence, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which were followed by a pointed and short address by the Rev. Alfred Cookman. The latter looked upon Calvary as a mountain, the nearer Christians approached the summit of which, the nearer would they approach each other. The nearer they came to the foot of the Cross, the more perfectly would they be one. He compared the Church to a galvanic battery, in which the metallic sheets were placed layer upon layer, the solid introduced, and the pulse arranged to produce the most tremendous effects. So, said he, the various denominations, if brought in proper manner, would accomplish what, in their isolation, they never could achieve.

The Rev. John Chambers, at this stage of the meeting, rose and made a characteristic address. He commenced with a reference to that morning when sorrow was in the camp of Israel, on account of the fiery serpents, and the bitten ones were helped for looking to the brazen serpent which Moses lifted up in the wilderness. He pointed all to the Lamb of God, who had, in His meaning, been a type for the remission of the sins of all who shall look to Him in faith.

After another hymn, the Chairman called upon the Rev. Dr. Cooper, of the Episcopal Church, to lead in prayer, which the latter responded to, remembering the compassion and mercies of the church in which they were assembled, for having kindly granted them the use of their edifice.

The meeting of the morning, which was highly interesting, and characterized with marked unanimity, was concluded with another hymn, and benediction by the Rev. Dr. Kennard.

THE MEETING AT TWELVE—DISTURBANCE AND EXCITEMENT.

At twelve o'clock the meeting was continued at the Sansom-street Baptist Church, having been merged into the noon-day prayer meeting. The chair was occupied by the Rev. Mr. Parker, of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He opened by giving out a hymn, engaging in prayer, and reading the scriptures, a part of the third chapter of the first Epistle of John having been selected. After a brief exhortation by the chairman, and another hymn, the meeting was given into the hands of the brethren, the three-minute rule having been previously announced and duly observed, though not always promptly obeyed.

The first speaker was Mr. Parker, an active participant in all these Union meetings. He said, in opening, very truly, that there was nothing worth having in religion that did not point to Jesus. He furthermore stated to the congregation, that he did not believe in dreams much, but that he had recently had a dream which he felt compelled to relate, and relate it he did. The import of the dream was, that he had been tried for murder, and condemned to die—his accuser having been his own parson, the Rev. Dr. Newton. What was to him most remarkable in his dream was, that his wife and children, whose affections he was assured of, all stood around to comfort, and, with tearless eyes, heard the verdict pronounced. Mr. Parker added that after the execution had been effected (?) a little grace had been given to him to arrange his affairs. The lesson he drew from all this was, to enable him to appreciate more sensibly the feelings of the Son of God, when He, too, had been led forth to execution, with none to sympathize with Him in His hour of greatest trial.

The whole affair was hardly up to the standard of the celestial objects of the meeting, and, as the sequel proved, was not promotive of the best results.

He had scarcely taken his seat, when Father Clemens, a venerable-looking gentleman, in the opposite part of the house, rose, and wished to add a few words to what the last brother had said about dreams. He wished to speak of a circumstance that had struck him very forcibly. The circumstance was introduced by the brother's remarking that the sun touched everything it shone upon, &c., and he concluded by telling his dream, to wit: He had dreamed he was dead, and was lying in the coffin, and that, in spirit, he had stood beside it and watched the flies gathering on the face! and that, in consequence, he had, himself, given instructions to have the lid put on the coffin. With a few more remarks upon the burden which his great carcass had been to him in life, he closed.

A man next rose, near the moderator, and said he wished to make a few remarks upon the words which occur in the 16th verse of the 3d chapter of 2d Peter, and which he proceeded to do in a rather disrespectful manner towards the clergy, when the congregation, to save him the trouble of finishing them, broke out in singing

"Nearer my God to Thee, Nearer to Thee," &c.

When these lines were sung, the Rev. John Chambers engaged in prayer, hoping that the same spirit which had prevailed in the morning would still continue, and that the wicked would be foiled in their attempts to mar their harmony, and that the devil might be disappointed. He was followed in prayer by the Rev. Mr. Allen. This was followed by another exhortation and a hymn, the "sticking-in" individual still retaining his upright position on the floor, and facing the whole audience.

At the close of the hymn request was made for prayer to be offered, when the aforesaid individual waved his hands and commenced repeating the Lord's Prayer simultaneously with the prayer of a man on the opposite side of the room. For a few seconds both continued aloud, until the "voted interloper" was requested by the moderator to desist.

Father Abraham Martin, the veteran Sunday-school missionary of this city, next followed in prayer; meanwhile, the troublesome individual still kept his place on the floor with evident determination to wedge in something, if possible—showing an insane courage to make a very ridiculous display of himself.

At this stage there seemed to be a fatality attached to the meeting. Another curious individual, with a bald forehead, moustache, and white cravat, rose to vindicate the standing brother, alleging that he might have something good to say, and ought, therefore, not to be sent down.

Mr. Parker here again took the floor, and related an anecdote to illustrate his thought that the best way to get rid of such troubles was to let them have their three minutes, and be done with it. This advice, however, was not taken by the moderator, and prayer was offered by Mr. Simmons, the resolute individual still standing, looking determined not "to give it up so," although he was obliged to, for the next move was to sing a hymn, and close the meeting with a benediction.

The concluding meeting of the day was held at the Union Methodist Episcopal Church, Fourth street, below Arch.

A DELICIOUS BEVERAGE.—Burnside's pure Rye Whisky is found in daily use in many families in Philadelphia, where no other stimulant would be tolerated, so well established is its character for purity and entire freedom from ingredients of a deleterious character. It is indeed a delicious beverage, and Reserve, Clery & Stockhals are dispensing it to goodly quantities at their establishment, No. 128 Walnut street.

THE GLAD TIDINGS SPREADING.—

O'er the crags, Allegheny, a blast has been blown:
Down the tide, Susquehanna, the message has gone:
From the Delaware's margo to the falls of the West:
Wherever the foot of the freeman hath pressed.

The joyful intelligence has gone forth, that Gentlemen and Youths can obtain the most elegant garments extant, by calling at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth.

BOWEN'S MEDICATED FIGS are an efficient remedy for all derangements of the bowels, habitual costiveness, colic and nervous headaches, dyspepsia, piles, &c. Persons of sedentary life should always use them. They are reliable and safe, and do not debilitate; can be taken at all times without inconvenience. They contain no mercury; pleasant to the taste. One fig has a laxative effect, while two figs are sufficient to produce an active purge. Prepared only by G. C. Bower, Sixth and Vine, and sold by leading Druggists. Price per box is 25 cents. 1t
