

LETTER FROM OHIO.

CINCINNATI, December 22, 1873.

DEAR ADVOCATE:—The interesting story you have been publishing for so long, to the exclusion of other reading matter—even the letters of "yours truly"—seems to have found great favor in the eyes of Pennsylvanians, if we may judge by the immense majority which recently voted to make it permanent literature in the old Keystone State.

THE INTERNATIONALS have, I am sorry to say made their appearance in this vicinity. Last Monday they assembled in Fountain Square, to the number of 1,500 or more, and marched to the Mayor's office, when they halted, and having called out the Mayor, their spokesman, a demagogue named Haller, (a man who has not done a stroke of work for years, and who is a standing candidate for any office) made a most violent speech, demanding "work or money" from the city.

"TO-DAY," THE PEOPLE'S ILLUSTRATED PAPER. Is a thoroughly American enterprise, illustrated by the leading artists, and teeming with the best efforts of the most able writers of our country.

Only two dollars and a half a year. ADDRESS: TO-DAY PRINTING & PUB. CO., 733 Nassau St., Phila.

Workingmen, arouse! let the tyrants, Bristol, Dicknell, Tripp and Lewis learn to respect you! Let them see by your numbers that their action is condemned, and that your condemnation shall be visited on them when next you are called to use the elective franchise!

By order of the Committee.

There is neither sense nor common honesty in the actions of these men. The true workman—the man of family who acts uprightly and is industrious will have no connection with such riots; he does not need to. He is well aware of the mutual relations between capital and labor, how necessary one is to the other, and that it is only when these relations are observed on each side, and all rights respected that both himself and his capitalists who employ him can hope to prosper.

CINCINNATI JOURNALISM has ever been famous for its personalities, sprightliness, blackguardism, enterprise, duels and abilities. Last week Col. W. G. Terrell, Covington, (Ky) editor of the Commercial, was probably fatally stabbed in front of the Clinton Hotel, Covington, by the son of a public officer of that city whom Terrell had accused of a little "Tweedism."
