Speech of General Sigel.

The Union ladies of St. Louis having presented General Sigel with a silver cup recently, that officer returned his thanks to the fair donors in the following words:

"I was not born in this country, but came here a stranger as did your ancestors, the Huguenots, the Puritans, and the companions of William Penn. But I assure you that my heart and soul are with this Republic. I am bound to it by every act of my life, for the principles which give strength to your Government are mine; for the triumph of these principles I have fought ever since I have been capable of thinking. I am attached to the sacred soil of Missouri by the memory of those whom I have seen to fall before my eyes in defence of the Government and the maintenance of the Union. They offered themselves as a sacrifice for the star spangled banner, and my heart shall ever cherish them."

CITY ITEMS.

ELEGANT NEW SPRING CLOAKS.—The magnificent new store of Messrs. J. W. Proctor & Co., (The Paris Mantila Emporium,) No. 920 Chestnut street, is now the chief centre of attraction to the ladies of our city. Their splendid assortment of Sacques and Cloaks, of all the latest patterns, made from the beautiful new "Exhibition Cloth," are universally admired. They are at once dressy, tasteful, varied in colors and designs, and of a texture suitable to be worn, with comfort, throughout the entire season.

FINE ENGLISH PICKLES AND SAUCES.—Mr. C. H. Mattson, dealer in fine family groceries, Arch and Tenth streets, has now on hand a choice line of all the finest and most desirable English Pickles and Sauces imported, to which we invite the attention of our readers.

EXTRAVAGANT MEN.—Apicius spent in dissipation $500,000, and finding, on looking into his affairs, that he he had only £900,000, he poisoned himself, not regarding the sum as sufficient for his maintenance. Cleopatra gave to Anthony a diamond worth £100,000. Caligula spent on one dinner £80,000. The ordinary expense for a dinner of Lucullus was £20,000. These are mentioned in history as prodigals, but now-a-days a man is said to be extravagant when he does not practice economy, which can be done by purchasing his clothing at the One-price Fashionable Clothing Emporium of Granville Stokes, No. 600 Chestnut street, where the finest and cheapest assortment of summer garments in the country are offered for sale.

BAD HOURS IN PARIS.—The Parisians have started a new style of dissipation. Soirees now commence long after ten, private concerts at about eleven, and balls at eleven. Dinners are ordered half an hour earlier than they are usually served, and, instead of being furnished at half past seven or eight, are served at seven and half past seven so that persons of quality can go to bed and have a long sleep before they dress to go out at midnight. They had better carry the fashion to a little greater extreme, and not go out until next day, when they can make an early start. The next and the culminating step in wisdom would be to go to balls and dinner parties clad in the elegant garments made at the Brown-stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth.

EPITAPH.—

Here lies all that remains of Mac, the Merri,
Which, like Dick Turpin, after a brief and eventful life on The Roads,
Fell a victim to repletion, from an over-dose of Secessia,
And, from hearing a "great cry," which betokened the coming of "little Wo-ll," committed a fellow-d'ye-sea,
And went down to a watery grave (except that part that went up) loaded with dishonor and 100 lb guns, which, together with herself, were both rifled
from the Norfolk Navy Yard.
'Peace to her ashes and boilers."
