CITY ITEMS.

SPLENDID STOCK OF READY-MADE CLOTHING.—Our readers who may now be providing themselves with fall and winter Clothing, either ready-made or made up to order, should bear in mind the superb stock of ready-made Clothing, and all kinds of fashionable goods for making them, offered by the old and well-known house of Messrs. C. Somers & Son, No 645 Chestnut street, under Jayne's Hall. In many respects, this house possesses advantages not enjoyed by any other clothing house in Philadelphia. Give them a call.

LADIES' FURS.—Messrs. Charles Oakford & Son, Nos 8 4 and 836 Chestnut street, under the Continental Hotel, have now open their new stock of Hudson Bay sable, Mink Sable, Chinchilla, Siberian Squirrel, and other elegant Furs for Ladies and Children, to which we invite the attention of our readers.

FINE GROCERIES.—Mr. C. H. Mattson, dealer in fine groceries, Arch and Tenth streets, has constantly in store all the choice articles in season pertaining to that department of trade. Persons desiring the finest quality of Groceries, both Fancy and those of a more staple character, can always here be accommodated. All goods purchased at his store are delivered in any part of the city, or carefully packed and sent to any of the railroad depots free of charge.

THE PLACE TO BUY LADIES' FURS, of all others in this city, is at Oakford & Son's, under the Continental Hotel, as their stock is the finest and largest, and their prices moderate.

PRESENTATIONS EXTRAORDINARY.—At the store of Mr Robert Donnell and Son 808 Walnut street is now to be seen a mammoth loaf of lump sugar, which they intend presenting to Mrs. George B. McClellan. It is the largest loaf ever made weighing one hundred and ninety-two pounds, being four feet three inches high and two feet at the base. It was made by T. A. Newbold and Sons, Pennsylvania Refinery, corner of Race and Cross streets. It is calculated that there is sweetening here for three chests of tea, and, if a pinch be preferred (as the weather is getting cold), for a couple puncheons of Irish or Scotch whisky. In the window of Mr. Charles Oakford's hat-store, Continental Hotel, is a handsomely embroidered Medicated Safeguard, or Soldier's Health Shield, invented by Dr. Evans, sold largely in Boston and New York, recommended by the Surgeon General, and intended to be presented to Mr. Lincoln. Similar presents will be made to Generals Halleck and McClellan. The Safeguard is an abdominal supporter, so closely fitting to the body, that it cannot cockle up or wrinkle, under any exercise, and is held in its place by light elastic bands. Exposed as our soldiers are to damp and sudden changes of climate and temperature, its use must become general. We do not see why, in the coming hard season, civilians should not also benefit by wearing it.

THE MEDICATED SAFEGUARD.—We called attention a day or two since to an art cle called the "Soldier's Medicated Safeguard," which is designed to protect the soldier against those diseases of the bowels to which he is so much exposed by changes of diet, bad water, long marches, and exposure to the weather. In addition to the peculiar advantages arising from the use of the safeguard then mentioned, we have received further evidence of its utility. Among its advantages over the common ordinary bandages is, that it fits closely to the body, and does not work itself up into a roll when the wearer is in active motion. The patent elastic fastening is also so arranged that the Safeguard may adapt itself to the position of the bowels, expanding and contracting as the case may be. Severe pain may be allayed at once by steaming the Guard and applying it warm to the bowels, which brings out the virtues of the medicine, acting as a powerful tonic and astringent, at the same time absorbing the cold perspiration thrown from the body. The Nos. 1 size is also recommended for those who are troubled with any affection of the liver, kidneys, weakness, rheumatic pains, &c. Indeed, every person contemplating a change of climate would do well to be provided with one of these invaluable protectors. It is highly recommended by the Surgeon General of the State and all the eminent physicians and surgeons who have had the article brought to their notice and have examined the formula of its medicinal qualifications. A very handsome specimen may be seen at Oakford's Hat Store, under the Continental Hotel.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS, in Postage Stamps, and get a Magic Postage Currency Port Monnaie at Rolleder's store, Broad & Chestnut (See notice in another column.)

THE LUXURY OF REBELLION.—A Southern editor complains of the high cost of living in Dixie. He says: "You have to pay $25 for a pair of pants; $30 for a pair of boots; $20 for a gallon of brandy, $40 for a barrel of flour; $65 for one hundred pounds of bacon; $1 per pound for butter; $9 per barrel of meal; and a similar scale of prices for everything else which you are compelled to buy." In Philadelphia, an elegant suit of clothes can be purchased at the price of a single garment down south. The purchaser here procures the full worth of his money, too, if he procures his suit at the Brown-Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth.

KNOWLEDGE IS MONEY.—One of the surest guarantees of success in life is the knowledge to enable every man to comprehend the details and surroundings of whatever enterprise he may contemplate, and to start advisedly. The adage says, "time is money;" out in our age knowledge is money, and it is proved in every day practice in every department of business and mechanics. Hence we are continually impressing to the numerous readers of The Press the knowledge of the fact that the best made, most fashionably gotten up and cheapest Clothing in the city may be had at Granville Stokes' fashionable clothing mart, No. 609 Chestnut street, where a large assortment of seasonable garments are kept constantly on hand.

HISTORY OF THE STARS AND STRIPES.—The Stars and Stripes were unfurled the first time at Saratoga at the surrender of Burgoyne. The battle of Bunker Hill was fought under a red flag, bearing the motto, "Come, if you dare," but on the 14th of June, 1777, the Continental Congress resolved "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, and that the union be thirteen stars, white, on a blue field, representing a new constellation." By the United States law of January 13th, 1794, it was enacted "that from and after the 1st of May, 1795, the flag of the United States be fifteen stripes, alternate red and white, and that the union be fifteen stars." This was the national flag during the war of 1812. On the 4th of April, 1818, the flag was again altered to thirteen stripes and one star for every State in the Union. In some instances we have seen an addition of a ribbon running across the flag, with the words: "Chas. Stokes' one price First class Clothing, under the Continental Hotel."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

AFTER THE ELECTION.

A LOVER'S SOLILOQUY.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

How can you politicians deem
An office gained is bliss supreme?
How can those others, there,
Because they gained some fewer votes,
Wear such a visage as denotes
The horrors of despair?

Could they but see my Nellie's smile,
And gaze into her eyes the while,
And nourish flames like mine,
Their thoughts and hopes they could not fix
Upon the game of politics,
But all to love resign.

Within one dimple of her cheek
Is written more than man can speak
Who from the rostrum pour
Torrents of burning eloquence,
While after rich emoluments
Their aspirations soar.

Office, emoluments, I prize
Less than a glance from Nellie's eyes;
My hope, my joy, my pride,
Is, in a suit of Bennett's best,
From every earthly toil to rest,
And sit by Nellie's side.

☞ CARD.—AS SOME REPORTS ARE afloat that are injurious to me, implying that I have only lately become a citizen, it seems to me a duty to make a statement to the public. I have been told by my relations that I was born in England in 1830, and came to this country in 1832, when a little over two years old. Where I have resided ever since. I know no country but this; I recollect no country but this, and have never wished to. My father, I have always understood and believed, became a citizen about the year 1843. Since that year I have supported myself, and did not live with him. Where he procured his papers I do not know, but was always fully satisfied that he was a citizen, and so still; and when I became twenty-one years of age, exercised the rights of a citizen on that ground without dispute. My first vote was cast in Utica, New York, where my father was well known as a voter. Lately I have been informed that my right was in question, and that my only evidence would be either his papers or a certificate of them. I had supposed that my own oath or affidavit of others would do. His papers I never had, for I was many miles from him when he died; and immediately after his death I went into the United States Marine service, and went to Mexico when the war broke out in 1846, and was gone several years. During the past year, to establish my right, I wrote to Utica, where my childhood was passed, and had a search instituted for the record of his papers, but without avail, and in my difficulty thought the quickest and easiest way to end all doubt was to take out papers for myself, which I did, not to make myself a citizen, for I claim to have been as good a one as any since maturity, but in order to possess me a record evidence in case of dispute. This latter act becomes a bone of contention, has raised a great cry against me by many, who have concluded that my citizenship has but just begun. An attempt has been made to induce Col. Philip S. White to remove me from the humble position I hold as Clerk of the Dis ict Court, but as a gratefull to say he has declined doing so. I ask all who feel any interest in the matter to judge whether I have done anything to merit any severe denunciations.

1t* Respectfully, J. P. REED, Corner of THIRTEENTH and NOBLE Streets, Philadelphia.

☞ AT A MEETING OF THE CITIZENS BOUNTY FUND COMMITTEE, held this day the following resolution was adopted to-wit:

Whereas It is announced that the draft will take place in this city on Tuesday, October 23d, and that credit will be given for all recruits until that day, be it

Resolved, That this committee will discontinue the payment of premiums and bounties for recruits for old regiments in the field that enlist after Monday, 27th instant.

THOMAS WEBSTER, Vice Chairman.
Philadelphia, October 20. oc21-6t
