NEW-YEARS' SALUTATION.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR, to young and to old,
For all may be multiplied blessings untold!
Its mornings and evenings come laden with pleasure,
And time, as it passes, to all prove a treasure.

May the soft wing of peace hover over the nation,
Dispensing its gifts to the whole population;
And good-will and kindness flow among all the people,
Till the face of society wears not a ripple.

May honest industry and temperance abound,
And virtue and piety reign all around;
And all, of all classes, improve their condition,
And at the year's end be in higher position.

Thus, grateful for favors, she sends salutation,
To the Ladies, her patrons, without reservation;
For the generous interest they continue to feel
In the CORSET EMPORIUM OF MRS. STEEL.

If strangers would test, now, its high reputation,
On TENTH, below CHESTNUT, they'll find the location;
Where CORSETS and BRACES, the neatest and best,
